WELCH - WELSH FAMILY
in AMERICA and their migration from England, Scotland and Ireland.

"The Past is the Land of Missing Persons and it is only by a combination of diligence and good fortune that any one not monumentally remembered can be found. As for those in America who wandered beyond the utmost borders of wilderness, neither their lives nor their resting place were too often noticed or conveniently marked. Oblivion marked their footsteps and ate the last one. Silent trees of the Forest finally closed over their heads. They vanished in a green nowhere, leaving a crumbling cabin, a few stones arranged in the dancing basin of a spring, a cellar hole in the hillside with an apple tree or a rose bush to scatter petals in the Springtime as though they remembered something lovely, tragic and a secret that none else knew."

Hervey Allen. The Forest and the Fort.

The Migration of a Welch Family westward to Mississippi.
By John (?) Chambers, Hattiesburg, Miss.
1913.

"As a contribution to local history which is not entirely without value, even if void of interest, the following pages have been prepared.

About the last of January 1815, a party of emigrants left Bryan County, Georgia for the Territory of Mississippi. The available data does not enable me to state how many were in the party, nor the names of the individuals composing it. But it was made up in part of the WELCH family, who, being of Welch (sic) descent were desirous of finding more room for expansion than the low coast lands of Georgia afforded.

This family consisted of RICHARD WELCH, his wife, his five sons, BRYANT, JOHN, TIMOTHY, HENRY and JAMES and two daughters at least, names JUDITH and SUSAN. Of these sons, BRYANT (and perhaps JOHN) were married and had a growing family. The former had married SABREY MARTIN and had five or six children, including twins- girls, who at the time of starting were less than two monthsold. A sister of Mrs. BRYANT WELCH was also a member of the party and it is probable she was already the wife of JESSE GEIGER.

(Paragraph eliminated re: Thief robbing them enroute)

It seems that no halt was made until the "Nation" as the Creek possessions were called, had been left behind. But on Buckatuna Creek, a few miles west of where the Mississippi-Alabama state line was afterwards located, they stopped and erected homes.

About five years later, a part of the family and subsequently all of them moved some fifty miles further west and settled on the west side of Leaf River a few miles above the mouth of Oakey Woods Creek in what was then Covington County. As a matter of fact, the homes of JOHN WELCH, JESSE GEIGER and later of JAMES WELCH were on the last names stream. At that time, that section was sparsely populated but the range was good and game was abundant. Dense canebreaks lined the streams and bears were so plentiful as to interfere with the raising of hogs, while wolves rendered sheep a very uncertain industry.

BRYANT WELCH had married SABREY MARTIN who became the Mother of four sons and seven daughters. He established his home on the Hills between the Creek and River Valleys.

HENRY (WELCH) married SARAH PAGE and reared a family of five sons and eight daughters. His home was in the River Valley, but near his fathers residence which occupied the summit of a very high hill.

JOHN WELCH married Miss () who became the Mother of eight children. His home was on the north side of Oaky Woods Creek.

JAMES WELCH (my Grandfather) married Martha Hill and established a home near the junction of Oaky Woods and Station Creeks. Reared a family of seven sons and five daughters.

JUDITH WELCH married a Mr. Walden and spent her subsequent life in Tennessee

TIMOTHY WELCH and SUSAN WELCH never married. After their parents died, they kept up the old home which was noted for its hospitality until the sister (SUSAN WELCH) died. After that the aged brother (TIMOTHY WELCH) became an inmate of the home of his brother JAMES WELCH.

It is proposed to notice these families more in detail and especially that of BRYANT WELCH, as this writers Mother was one of his daughters. His home was on the hills, his cultivated land being nearly level and very productive. But after six years of opening his farm and when only forty-four years of age, he died leaving his family but little except the home and a small herd of cattle. Of his children the following are noted-

MARTIN WELCH, oldest son. When he became of age he left his father, went westward and found employment as an Overseer. He married a Miss Moody and was living in Copiah County when he was shot from ambush and instantly killed leaving his widow with an infant child.

ELIZABETH WELCH, the oldest daughter married Jonathan Anderson. They lived on the northern edge of Jaster County and reared several children. Two, at least, of the sons killed in the Civil War.

JUDITH WELCH, the second daughter, married Drury Bynum, who represented Jones County in the Mississippi Legislature for six consecutive terms and afterwards was Registrar of the U.S. Land Office in Augusta. Their last home was in Clark County, near where Pachuta now is, and they both died the same day and buried in a single grave. They reared a family of four sons and four daughters. All sons were in the Confederate Army and one of them was killed in the siege of Vicksburg.

JAMES WELCH, the second son married Mary Valentine and established his home near the northern end of Jones County where he reared a large family of children. Many of his descendants are found near that locality.

The Migration of a Welch Family etc. Page 3.

CYNTHIA WELCH, a third daughter was one of the twins, She married Allen Valentine and spent her whole life in a home some two miles west of her brother JAMES WELCH. Seven sons and four daughters were reared by them and the two sets of cousins and their descendants form a large proportion of the population of that section of the County.

MARIA WELCH (her husband always wrote it "Mercy") was the other twin. She married John Chambers, a native of Connecticut, who was raised in New York State and who after serving in the War of 1812 became a nomadic mechanic and school teacher, until his marriage. Their home was on the western edge of Covington County, near Leaf River Baptist Church. Their family consisted of three sons and five daughters. One son died in childhood and another killed Civil War. The oldest son THIS WRITER fought through the War. He and two sisters, one of whom lives in Texas are left. Our Mothers descendants are quite numerous in Covington and Jones Counties and in other States.

SUSAN WELCH, fifth daughter of BRYANT WELCH married DARREL Valentine. Their home was in Scott County, but after losing her husband, the widow with several children returned to Jones County and erected a new home a mile or two east of her brother JAMES WELCH.

JOHN IRA WELCH, the third son married Catherine Bynum and settled in the same locality. He died a few years later leaving several small children.

TIMOTHY WELCH, the youngest son married Caroline ^{ELLSY} ~~Elsey~~. He also died a young man leaving five or six children. Two of his sons, one of whom a retired Physician and perhaps one or two daughters reside in the southwestern part of Jones County.

TABITHA WELCH, the sixth daughter married J.L.Welborn, who also resided in the northern end of Jones County, but a few miles east of the others. A large family of sons and daughters were born to this couple, most of whom are yet living., Two of the sons have attained prominence- Prof. W.S.Welborn of the A & M College of Texas and Capt. Ira Welborn of the U.S.Army DESDEMONIA WELCH married Riley J. Collins who died in New Orleans during the War. She also died young. Two, at least of her sons live in Jones County- one at Laurel and one at Ellisville.

The other families will be more briefly noted-

JOHN WELCH'S home was broken up by a mysterious malady which in less than one months time proved fatal to the Father and four of the children. The widow with the remaining four returned to Tennessee to her own family.

HENRY WELCH'S five sons, two of whom died in he Civil War. Another son and a married sister went to Rapides Parish, La. The youngest son still lives near the old homestead where he has a numerous family. One of the daughters married a Mixon, two of them married Knights, one a Langstron and one a Graham. Their descendants are found in Jones, Covington and Perry Counties.

JAMES WELCH (my grandfather) became somewhat more prosperous than his brothers inasmuch as he owned a few slaves.

RICHARD WELCH the oldest son married Mary Worthy and built a home near his fathers farm. Two his sons are living in the same locality, honored and respected citizens, while his aged widow is living with a married daughter in Forrest County. One or more practicing Physicians are among his descendants.

CALEB WELCH, the second son married Susan Robertson, the daughter of a noted Baptist preacher and established a home on the southwest side of Oaky Woods Creek, a few miles below his father. His only child J.N.WELCH lives on the same place, a son is a lawyer at Laurel and another is a sawmill operator, while his daughters are identified in school work. [The next three sons JOHN WELCH, JAMES WELCH and SAMUEL WELCH all unmarried failed to return from the Confederate Army. The mentioned three unmarried sons are the sons of JAMES WELCH (not CALEB WELCH)]

RANSOM J. WELCH and JOSEPH M. WELCH (my father) were both in the Confederate Army. They married sisters the daughters of Timothy Rogers and established homes in the locality where they were born. One of R.J.WELCH'S is a Physician and one daughter prominent in rural school work. A few years ago JOSEPH M. WELCH left his farm and moved to Seminary. Two of his sons are physicians, one a banker. Two maiden sisters make their home with him.

SUSAN WELCH the third daughter married JESSE Geiger. They settled near Bethel Church, their ownly child married Mr. Galhoun of Mt, Olive, Miss.

In preparing the foregoing pages, the writer has had to depend almost wholly on a somewhat impaired memory and hence no dates. The main facts, however are correctly outlined.

The Migration of a WELCH Family, etc etc. Page 5.

John Chambers, father of the writer of this history, was the oldest of eight sons and four daughters born to Jones and Susan (Williams) Chambers. He was born New London, Conn. 5. 20.1794. In 1802 parents moved New York State, Otsego County where he was apprenticed to a Cabinet Maker. Prior to age 21 he enlisted in the Artillery Service under a call for Volunteers. Afterwards he taught school for several years and working at his trade. During these years he was employed in several different States. Before his marriage to Miss Marcia Welch he had purchased a home in Covington County, Miss. in 1839 and spent all his subsequent life in that home, dying November 1867.

John Welsh,
(1805-1886)
a Former Minister to England

WE FIRST encounter the name of Welsh, in its relation to the early history of Pennsylvania, in the person of William Welsh, or Welch, who, March 20, 1684, as a representative of New Castle County, became a member of the Provincial Council, the executive, and, in conjunction with the Assembly, the legislative, body which then dominated the fiscal affairs of Penn's new Colony, including, at that early period, the three lower counties, now the State of Delaware.

A few weeks subsequently—May 22, 1684—he was selected by the Council to act as Receiver of the Public Aid, or Commission; in effect, Deputy Treasurer. Later in the same year, Aug. 4, 1684, Governor Penn commissioned him a provincial Judge.

search, there was no kinship between William Welsh and the family to which the Welshes of the present day belong, though such a connection may have existed; the elapse of time, and the lack of authentic records, make it impossible to determine the question with positiveness.

There was, however, an earlier Welsh family in the neighboring province of Maryland, with which the Philadelphia Welshes—they lived in New Castle County in the 18th Century—were probably allied. The similarity of Christian names constitutes a strong argument in behalf of this theory. That the name of "John" was common to both families may not be noteworthy. But the unusual Christian name, "Sylvester," borne by members of both families is certainly more than suggestive, and leads strongly to the conclusion that both families were of the same stock, with the relationship probably very close.

The Welsh family in question was located in Maryland for a number of years before the settlement of Pennsylvania by the Quakers. From the Maryland archives we learn that Major John Welsh was commissioned, June 4, 1674, Justice of the Courts of Anne Arundel County. Four years later, 1678, he was commissioned High Sheriff for that County.

The records of the Maryland Land Office inform us that to Major John Welsh was granted, June 5, 1679, a warrant for 1500 acres of land, under the "Head Rights" law, for transporting thirty persons into the Province.

The Maryland Archives, likewise, tell us of the passage, November 3, 1683, of an "Act for Erecting and Building of a house for the Convenience of holding Courts of Judicature Sitting of Assemblies and for the keeping of the Secretaries Office Land Office and Testamentary Office in & for this Province." Under the same date we find this record:

The Commissioners Names appointed to Survey and Manage the Building the Court house Vizt
Col Thomas Tallier Major John Welsh
Col William Burges Thomas Francis
Richard Hill

From the title borne by Welsh it seems clear that he was an officer in the Militia, and that, per consequence, he was one of the leading men in Anne Arundel County, and, indeed, in Eastern Maryland.

HE LEFT A CONSIDERABLE ESTATE

Major Welsh died not long after his appointment upon the above-mentioned Commission, as we find his will, dated January 6, 1683-4, proved March 3, 1683-4. In this instrument he is called "gentleman." He mentions his wife, Mary, three sons, Sylvester, John, and Benjamin; and four daughters, Mary, Elizabeth, Sarah and Damaris; also "a child to be born." The latter was a son, to whom the name of Robert was given.

A considerable estate was left by Major Welsh to his widow and several children, including a tract of land called "Arnold-Gray"; a plantation and dwelling near Herring Creek; another tract on Gunpowder River, and still another, known as "Preston's Enlargement."

Sylvester, or Sylvester, Welsh, one of the sons, became a man of note in his section, he having been, at one time, Captain in the provincial militia.

John Welsh, another son, became a sea captain. From the old Anne Arundel Land Office records we obtain this announcement:

These are to give notice that I John Welsh Commander of the Ship Hope for Betty, riding at anchor in South River, being purposed to deport tobacco from Maryland to England upon freight this present voyage do hereby publish the rate thereof at sixteen pounds per ton, such Freighters consigning their Tobaccos to Mr. Olney Merchant in London.

Captain John Welsh lived at "Arnold-Gray," of the county indicated, the estate inherited from his father. This tract had been originally surveyed to Richard Arnold and John Gray, June 26, 1668, and was resurveyed to Sylvester and John Welsh, February 10, 1701.

The death of Captain John Welsh, then living at "Arnold-Gray," occurred between February 4, 1732, and March 5, 1733, the dates, respectively, of the execution and probate of his will. His wife, Rachel, is named as executrix, and a number of children, also, are mentioned.

As previously stated, no positive connection between the Welshes of the adjoining provinces, Maryland and the "Three Lower Counties on Delaware," has been established, but the presumption is strongly in favor of such relationship.

land from James James and Frances, his wife, located on the North side of Christiana Bridge, New Castle County, on the Delaware. This John Welsh died subsequently to October 5, 1743, that being the date of his will. He has generally been recognized as having been the father of William Welsh, the first definitely known ancestor of the Philadelphia Welshes, but, unfortunately, his will cannot be found, hence the positive information desired has never been, as yet, ascertained. This John Welsh left a widow, Frances by name.

William Welsh, who, as stated above, may be regarded as the earliest progenitor of this family conclusively known to be such, resided at Christiana Bridge, New Castle County, at which place, it will be noted, John Welsh bought property, in 1735; William Welsh afterward, March 11, 1762, purchased of Thomas McKean—then of New Castle County, but subsequently Governor of Pennsylvania, etc.—a tract at White Clay Creek, near his former home.

One thing seems to be entirely clear, so far as family tradition, handed down for generations, can be depended upon—William Welsh was of Scotch descent. Indeed, in a biographical sketch of his youngest son, appearing in a history of the Philadelphia National Bank, it is specifically set forth that "John Welsh was of Scottish descent, his ancestors coming originally from Ayr."

Furthermore it has been definitely asserted, in print, that he was a descendant of John Knox, the celebrated Reformer, through the latter's daughter, Elizabeth, who married John Welsh (1588-1622) minister of Ayr.

Like John Welsh, of Anne Arundel County, Maryland, William Welsh was a mariner, he having commanded one or more vessels, at various times.

The maritime and mercantile business, it must be borne in mind, was conducted upon quite a different scale in the eighteenth century from that of modern times. The great merchants then owned their own ships, which journeyed to all parts of the known world; and the principal stores, of Colonial days, were located at the wharves.

Under these conditions, the profession of mariner was one possessed of a degree of dignity and distinction equal to that of any other avocation. Indeed, many of the great provincial merchants were, at one time, themselves sea captains; and, in turn, one or more of their sons followed in the footsteps of the fathers, becoming commanders of vessels destined, in some cases, to circle the world.

To this class belonged William Welsh, of New Castle County. He may, at one time, have commanded large ships, which cleared for foreign ports, but he was chiefly engaged in commerce on the Delaware river, from Philadelphia downward. It is well-known that the traffic from the Quaker City to the Southern States, in Colonial days, was by boat down the Delaware, to Christiana Creek, Delaware, and thence to Christiana, or Christiana Bridge, where freight was transferred to wagons for Frenchtown. From the latter point merchandise was distributed to various parts of the South, mostly by water.

William Welsh was largely interested in this trade, owning and operating, at various times, one or more vessels. That he was successful, and acquired a competency, is evidenced by the fact that, March 20, 1760, he purchased from Thomas Montgomery, Administrator, certain wharves and warehouses at Christiana, for which he paid a large sum, thus greatly extending the scope of his business.

The Captain, Welsh, home known as "Frog Pond Farm," was situated about five or six miles below Wilmington, on the road leading from New Castle to Christiansa Bridge, being between the latter place and Hare's Corner. The house remained standing for a long time, but was destroyed years ago.

Mr. Welsh married Ann Morton, daughter of Matthias Morton, who is said to have been a near relative of John Morton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence from Pennsylvania. She died in the month of August, 1799, in the sixty-ninth year of her age. Her husband survived her six years, dying October 1, 1805, aged eighty-one years. They were buried in the burial-ground of Bethel Baptist Church at Hare's Corner—the edifice there was erected in 1786—where their tomb-stones are still to be found intact.

Direct
 William and Ann (nee Morton) Welsh were the parents of four children: Sylvester, John, Morton and Samuel, of whom the last two died without issue; Samuel Welsh having lost his life at sea. Welsh was born

The eldest of the sons, Sylvester Welsh was born January 7, 1751. His Christian name, a very unusual one, especially at that time, certainly suggests an intimate relationship with the Welshes of "Arnold-Grays", Anne Arundel County, Maryland, as already indicated. Indeed, the Captain Sylvester Welsh of "Arnold-Grays" may have been the father, or, at least, the uncle, of Captain William Welsh, of Christiana Bridge, father of the Sylvester Welsh in question. The latter remained in Delaware, and continued the business established by his father. At first he "went to sea" thoroughly familiarizing himself with all the practical workings of the branch of commerce in which he was engaged. Subsequently he retired from an active seafaring life, and confined his energies to a supervision of the vessel property owned by him and the traffic which he handled.

He married, September 13, 1778, Margaret Milligan, who died July 21, 1840, aged eighty-seven years, surviving her husband nine years, his death having occurred February 11, 1831. Both were buried at Christ Church, Delaware. Their daughters were born to this

Two sons and seven daughters were born to this couple, as follows: Samuel, Mary, Anne, Elizabeth, Sarah, Rebecca, John Morgan, Margaret and a second son.

Neither of the sons left issue, so that the male line, from Sylvester Welsh, is extinct. Both died comparatively young men, and the death of each was due to the seafaring life in which, carrying out family traditions and practices, he was temporarily engaged. Samuel Welsh, born September 11, 1777, died April 5, 1803, on the Island of Granada, while upon a sea voyage. John Morgan Welsh, born December 2, 1791, met his life February 17, 1826, by falling overboard.

Philadelphia was then the chief city of the United States in size and splendor, its leading seaport, and had been the national capital, which was only recently removed to the newly founded city of Washington. The growth of commerce and industry had greatly enlarged the city and its business interests. The need of more banking capital was felt, and this necessity, together with some dissatisfaction, caused by existing banking methods, led a larger body of merchants to sug-

The crystallization of this motive into the actual organization of the Philadelphia Bank, and the procurement of the charter from the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, despite powerful opposition, are generally attributed to the guiding genius of John Welsh, then a leading merchant. In the prime of business life, who for over a half-century was a director of the institution, until his death, at the age of sixty-four, in the year 1854. Mr. Welsh was always called the "Father of the Bank," and took a very prominent part in its early management. His portrait appeared as a vignette on the Philadelphia Bank notes.

Elsewhere, commenting upon Mr. Welsh's death the history of the bank says:

The minute recorded [by the board of directors] described him as "the Father of the Bank," said that to him more than any other man it was indebted for its present existence, and referred to his indomitable energy and perseverance, which triumphed over the powerful, bitter, and uncompromising opposition the Bank had in its earliest history and for many succeeding years, while to him, perhaps, more than any other was the Bank indebted for the measure of success which it realized. It further testified to his constant watchfulness and care for its interests until within a few weeks of his death, at the ripe age of eighty-four.

The same sketch of the bank, speaking of Mr. Welsh generally, as a man and a citizen, has the likewise, to say:

Subsequently to the close of the war of 1813, in the great revival of American Commerce, John Welsh became one of the most prominent shipping merchants of the country, and he was then the largest owner of vessels in Philadelphia.

It is said of him, that he was always fully abreast of commercial affairs throughout the world, had acquired vast knowledge of the products and wants of all countries as represented in the world's intercourse, and was thoroughly conversant with the construction and outfit of all ships.

Bestides being chiefly responsible for the establishment of the Philadelphia Bank, Mr. Welsh was also one of the organizers of another noted financial Institution, now exactly a century old, the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities, which was chartered by Act of the General Assembly passed March 10, 1812; which Act named John Welsh and two others as commissioners to open subscriptions for $500,000 capital.

in the store of Joseph Russell a hour dealer, and a business in Philadelphia, thus inaugurating a mercantile career which eventually made him a leader among the merchant princes for which the Quaker
City was noted a century ago.

Continuing with Russell until he had attained his majority, young Welsh became imbued with a desire for a taste of the sea life, for which his ancestors had devoted no meager degree of their energies. With this object in view, he made a voyage, as supercargo, to San Domingo. Evidently concluding, from this experience, that a maritime career was not to his liking, he entered, on returning, the counting house of Robert Ralston, then one of Philadelphia's leading merchants. Here he remained two years, having entire charge of the business, though a young man of only twenty-three years, during the summer and early autumn months of 1793, his employer having temporarily removed to Wilmington, Delaware, during the malignant yellow fever epidemic of that year.

In the following year, Welsh entered into business on his own account, as a shipping merchant, establishing himself on the wharf below Walnut street. Here for a period of twelve years he remained in the prosecution of an extensive trade, which he had succeeded in building up, his vessels plying between Philadelphia and the principal ports of the West Indies, and those of England and Continental Europe.

"Such was his success," says Scharf and Westcott's History of Philadelphia, "that he retired with wealth in 1806."

(Though withdrawing from the active control of the business at that time, he still held a monetary interest in it, but the management of the concern passed into the hands of Joseph R. Evans, who became the head, in 1807, of the firm of Welsh, Maris & Evans, the second partner being a relative of Mr. Welsh's wife.) The founder of the house, however, finally withdrew altogether, the firm-name becoming Maris & Evans.

INTERESTED IN PRISON REFORMS

OF Mr. Welsh, during this period of comparative inactivity. The North American, in its issue of March 6, 1954, shortly after his death, thus spoke:

He remained out of business from 1886 to 1916, occupying his time in objects of public interest, especially as Inspector of Prisons, was deeply interested in many of the prisoners, and was of frequent service to many.

In 1816 Mr. Welsh re-engaged in the shipping business, becoming, it has been said, "the largest ship owner in Philadelphia." The previously-quoted obituary of him adds:

From 1815 to his death he was extensively engaged in business, gradually diminishing his care, with advancing years. He was conspicuous for the range and variety of his information, practical, but bold and comprehensive under the most trying circumstances. He never lost his self-possession. Knowledge of every architecture and position, and peculiarities of every frequented harbor, and the trade belonging to each, were givings to his mind.

Aside from the establishment of one of the large mercantile houses of the Quaker City, Mr. Welsh's most notable commercial achievement was the organization, in 1803, of the Philadelphia Bank--now the Mercantile Bank.

JAMES WELCH of Bath. (N. CAROLINA)

Prior to the discussion of this family, it seems pertinent that the SWANN Family be brought into the picture, as their lives and migrations parallel those of JAMES WELCH of Bath, and indeed hark back to the area where JAMES WELCH of Chowan lived.

- I. Col. Samuel³Swann (Col. Thomas² William¹) (1653-1707) Was the Collector of Customs, Roanoke, N.C. In 1673 he m-1 Sarah Drummond of Gov. William Drummond who was appointed 1664 by the Lord Proprietors, as Governor of Albemarle County. Samuel Swann was Justice, Sheriff, Major and Burgess 1677/1693 in Virginia. At the latter date he removed to NC.
He m-2 Elizabeth Lillington (1679-1707) of Alexander and widow of John Fendall (Col. John Sandal ?)
Col. Samuel Swann buried, his plantation, Perquimans Co.

Referring back to Mattacomack Creek, Bonners Creek and Slocums Creek in Chowan Co. William Branch sold land in this area to Edward Mosely on 10.31.1717 and deed was Wss. by Thomas & Elizabeth Swann.

4. Elizabeth Swann (1699-) m. Lt. Col. John Baptista Ashe
Removed c1729 to the Cape Fear region

5. Sarah Swann (1701-) married Frederick Jones who was Ch. Justice Supreme Ct. of NC.

6. Samuel Swann Jr, (1704-1771) married his cousin Jane, daughter of Sarah Swann & Frederick Jones. They moved to the Cape Fear region c1729. Samuel Jr. was a Member of the Assembly 1727 and Speaker 1743-1762. His plantation "Ye Oaks". A Perquimans Co. Deed (DB-C-4) 11.28. 1729 names him "of New Hanover, Bath Co. Gent."
Perquimans Co. (DB-C-88) 10.24.1732 Samuel Swann, Jr. of New Hanover, sells land on the Perquimans River, "where my father Major Samuel Swann dwelt adjng. Timothy Clare".

7. John Swann (1707-)

Ref: John B. Boddie. Historical Southern Families II-232:

The foregoing tends to substantiate the thesis that Timothy Clare who married a daughter of RACHAEL (WELCH) LAWRENCE, and JAMES WELCH of Bath and JAMES WELCH of Chowan were possibly related- both being in the right age groups.

JAMES WELSH of Bath.

Place names:

WELCH'S CREEK, NORTH WELCH'S CREEK, SOUTH WELCH'S CREEK. This Creek flows almost due north into Albemarle Sound from its source about 15m. north of Bath, in present Beaufort County. The Creek forms the boundary line between present Washington and Martin counties.

As early as 1701 WELCH'S CREEK is noted in Deed by JAMES WELCH of Bath, and certainly connotates residence of the WELCH family there for some years prior to that date.

WELCH'S CREEK flows into the Albemarle Sound almost at the same point as does the Roanoke River (then Moratuck River)

WELCH'S CREEK from 1755 to 1764 was named as an Inspection Station for pork, beef, rice, indigo, pitch, turpentine, heading, shingles and lumber.

In 1732 it was noted that a Commissioner of Roads was appointed for the road "from Moratuck Bridge to Flat Swamp to Bath Towne."

PENTEGO CREEK flows into the Pungo River at the town of Belhaven, Baufort County, about 12m. NE of Bath.

PUNGO RIVER is an adaptation of the older name of Matchapongo River-Mattapongo River-Malchapurgo etc.

JAMES WELCH of Bath. (2nd. revision Sheet 1 of 4. 9.7.59)

Bath County formed 1696 from Albemarle and discontinued 1739. 1705 "Bath Co." included area S. Albemarle Sound to Pamlico R. and southward to the Neuse R. and divided into 3 parishes or pcts. (1) Wickham, changed to Hyde cl712, to Hyde Co. cl729. (2) Archdale changed to Craven cl712; New Hanover cl729; N.H. Co. cl729. (3) Pamtecough, changed to Beaufort cl712; Beaufort Co. cl729. Bath county seat until 1785 when moved to Washington.

10.13.1701 (Chowan Co. DB-W-27) (Recorded 4.7.1702) JAMES WELCH of Bath County, sells 500ac. on WELSHES CREEK and Moratuck River (now Roanoke R.) to MR. JAMES LONG of Chowan Pct. Albemarle Co. for £10. Wss: (Wm.?) Lillington, Humphry Legg, Jonathan Hawkins. Deed signed by name.

Note: According to the L. Polk Denmark Map of 1700 NC, Chowan County and Pasquotank Co. extended about half way down the peninsula between Albemarle Sound and the Pamlico River. Thus the above 500ac. then in Chowan County. (Corbitt. Formation of NC Counties)

I. James Long died in Perquimans Bot. 1682, his son James Long moved to the Chowan Pct. and settled between Conaby Creek and WELSHES CREEK. (This places the above 500ac. exactly where the town of Plymouth now stands at the juncture of WELCHES CREEK and the Roanoke River and just west of Conaby Creek). Hath. III-51

N.D. JAMES WELCH was Wss. Deed Thomas Snowden (Hath. I-94). (Thomas Snowden jr b. 1680 son of Thomas & Elizabeth of Pennsylvania.)

8.27.1703 (Beaufort Co. DB-1-27) JAMES WELCH ⁵claims headrights for importation of John Barnett, Daniel Sillivant, Elis Sullivant, Richard Prince, Elis Foreman, Jeremiah Potter. (Note: It should be recalled that there existed at that time, quite a market in the sale of headrights.)

1.5.1704 (Beaufort Co. DB-1-28) JAMES WELCH sells Francis Linfield "one entry of land" beginning at a little Ck. below my house and running down Matchapongo River to a Creek or gut adjoining Lodowich Martin. (Note: Matchapongo River-Mattapongo River-now Pungo River, flows into Pamlico River near its entrance onto Pamlico Sound.)

1715 JAMES WALSH, freeholder, Hyde Pct. (Hath. III-425) including Thomas Bonner, Luddovick Martin, Dav. (Dan/?) Sullivant.

Note: Search Hyde Co. Deeds reveal no Welch deeds, possible due to fact that the location of JAMES WELCH plantation (see 6.7.1727 Deed) became part of Beaufort Co. in 1819 and deeds transferred.

Mr. Welch:

Thanks for the thermofax copies of your notes (9 pages). I am enclosing my check for $4.25 for you out of pocket expenses in copying the material.

There certainly is some connection between my Henry Welch and wife Elizabeth Stubbs. ^{the data} However, I believe there must be a generation missing between the data you sent and my Henry.

Henry Welch who married "Betsy" Stubbs" shows up on the U.S.

Census records for: 1820--Perry Co, Tenn "over 45"

1830--Perry Co, Tenn "60-70 yrs"

1840--Perry Co, Tenn "70-80 yrs"

The 1830 & 1840 census would indicate he would have been born between 1760 and 1770.

The mortality Schedule for Kaufman Co. Texas for 1850 where his widow and several of his children were living in 1850 indicate that Henry Welch was age 95 in Sept 1849 when he died and that he was born in Maryland. I believe that the age should have been 85, but even if he was 95 years old at death, he would have been born in 1754...the same year that your Henry Welch was a chain-bearer for James Welch in Bladen Co. N.C.

My Henry Welch may have been the son of your James Welch, Jr. or Henry Welch or other.

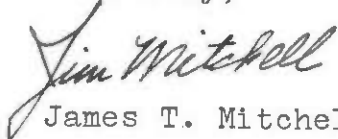

Regarding the Stubbs family, John Stubbs was the name of the grandfather of Elizabeth Stubbs who married my Henry Welch; her father named William Stubbs (1748-1839) and her mother was Elizabeth Ward.

As I say, there must be some connection between these families exactly what, is still a mystery to me. Thanks again for the information you sent, it will be most helpful in trying to make the connection. If you should come across some more information that would be helpful, I would appreciate your letting me know.

Are you a descendant of the Welches mentioned above?

On the personal basis, I was born in Tulsa in 1926, left at the age of 6 months and just returned to Tulsa one year ago.

Sincerely,

James T. Mitchell

Dear Mr. Welch:

I have just read your notice in the March 1973 issue of The Genealogical Helper.

In your research, have you found evidences of this Welch family:

Henry Welch b. Maryland 1855 or 1865
m. Elizabeth Stubbs of Marlboro Co. S.C. about 1800 moved to Kentucky (county unknown) moved to Tennessee, Perry County before 1820 census in Perry Co. Tenn on 1820, 1830, 1840 census listed on Mortality Schedule for 1850, Kaufman Co. Texas
d. Sep 1849, place unknown, widow in Kaufman Co.
age listed as 95, suspicion only 85.
children include: Peter Stubbs Welch b. 1812, Ky
James Welch b. 1807, Ky
Richard Welch b. 1814, Ky
Lewis Welch b. 1818, Ky

It has taken me several years to collect the above on my ancestors and it is still spotty with no information earlier than Henry's marriage (date of that still unknown). Any information you can give will be most appreciated.

Sincerely,

James T. Mitchell

ELEANOR WELCH, daughter of JAMES WELCH.
Wss: I. White, Edward M. Brome.

1723 JAMES WELCH was juryman, Hyde Pct. Beaufort.

Note: The foregoing "Hyde Pct" may be explained by the fact that in 1819 "that part of Hyde County west of Pungo River, is ceded to Beaufort Co." (Corbitt. Formation of NC Counties.) Hence the Pentego plantation of JAMES WELCH until 1819 was in present Hyde County.

6. 7.1727 JAMES WELSH of Bath County, sells 381ac. plantation to John Stafford, on Severn alias Pantigo Creek, whereon JAMES WELSH lately dwelt. Granted JAMES WELSH by patent 3.12.1704/5 and afterwards granted and confirmed to JAMES WELSH, plus 119ac. on the other side of the Creek by patent dated 6.10.1706. Signed by JAMES WELSH.
Wss: John Bapta. Ash, Robert Boyd. (DB-1-534)(504)

After this date there are no more references to JAMES WELSH in the Albemarle Area. Subsequent documentation indicates he and his family migrated southward to the Cape Fear region.

Note: Col. John Baptista Ashe, Speaker of the Assembly, was father of Gov. Samuel Ashe born 1725 and Revolutionary General John Ashe. The family was born in Bath and in 1729 moved to the Cape Fear region. (The State. Raleigh, NC. V-23, No. 9. dated 9.24.1955)

Note: The 1727 deed and 1735 survey show that JAMES WELCH, John Baptista Ashe and his inlaws the Swans were neighbors of JAMES WELCH in Bath area and presumably made a concurrent migration south to Bladen County, where JAMES WELCH was "seated" between them.

Note: The WHITE MARSH DISTRICT borders Lake Waccamaw in present Columbus County, prior to that Bladen County, and first New Hanover County.

JAMES WELCH of Bath.

Having documented that at least JAMES WELCH Jr. received land in the Sumter-Williamsburg Cos. area of South Carolina, we confirm the migration by means of the deeds selling portions of the White Marsh tracts in Bladen Co. N.Car.

10.23.1789-11.1789 (Bladen Co. DB-1-554)

JAMES WELCH of SOUTH CAROLINA sells to James Baldwin of Bladen Co. N.Car. £20 Specie.

"Land in aforesaid county of Bladen on the east side of the White Marsh and both sides of WELCH'S CREEK, containing 213ac. being the one-third part of 640ac. granted JAMES WELCH in 1735, as will appear on record, beginning at.....
.....said JAMES WELCH doth further promise....that he is the sole owner of said land"
JAMES WELCH- seal.

Wss: James Folkes, JAMES WELCH. (JR?)

10.25.1777-8.1778 (Bladen Co. DB-37-78)

THOMAS WELSH of the premises of South Carolina, sells to James Folkes of the premises of North Carolina. £15 Proclamation money.

"parcel of land containing 200ac. being the middle part of a tract of 640ac. surveyed for the said JAMES WELCH and one part sold and conveyed to James Baldwin by the said JAMES WELCH and the other part to John Stubbs and the said 200ac. conveyed being the middle part does bin and bind (sic) on the one side of said James Baldwin on the south side, and John Stubbs on the north side of said land."

The "to have and to hold" clause refers three times to "said THOMAS WELCH"

"In witness whereof the said THOMAS WELCH hath hereunto set his hand and seal the day and date first above written." JAMES WELCH. Seal.

Wss: John Stubbs. (-----) WELCH.

Refer back to the 1760 Survey for JAMES WELCH for 500ac. "adjng. President Rowan". In 1760 Mathew Rowan of New Hanover makes a bequest to John Stubbs Jr. son of John Stubbs of Bath, (Hath.I-69)

While the names on the latter deed are confused in the recording, the above quotes correctly from the photostat. It would appear that the sons JAMES WELCH and THOMAS WELCH, sell two parcels of the 640ac. in approximate thirds. Possibly the third son HENRY WELCH sold the other third and no records exist of this sale in the County or State records.

J.E.HILL of 507 S.McDonough St. Decatur, Ga. states that HENRY WELCH married 1800-10 ELIZABETH STUBBS of Marlboro Co.S.C. and that the estate of William Stubbs was divided in 1839 and among legatees were "HENRY WELCH and wife BETSY living without the State" This item again brings the son HENRY (presumed) and the Stubbs who was Wss: to the above deed into the picture.

The foregoing survey is the last item that can definately be attributed to JAMES WELCH, SR. Possibly some of the following items can possibly be for Senior, but are attributed herein to Junior.

There appears no further record of this family in North Carolina until two deeds are recorded covering the sale of portions of the White Marsh property in 1777 and 1789, when they are sold, presumably by the sons of JAMES WELCH Sr. However prior to this time we have records of "precepts" (warrants) taken from photostats of South Carolina Pre-Revolutionary Land Plats, from the Archives Dept. Columbia, S.C. These "precepts" from S.Car. taken together with the deeds selling the White Marsh property, document the second migration of the family of JAMES WELCH, further south to South Carolina.

7.7.1772 "Pursuant to precept from John Bremer, Esq., I have measured and laid off unto JAMES WELCH, a plantation or tract of land containing 100ac. situate in Craven County on the south side of Lynches Creek, bounding northerly on said Creek and all other sides vacant land and hath shape and form and marks as the above plat represents. Surveyed 7.22.1772. John Henderson, D.S."

It is probable this plat was sold, as there is no grant of record.

9.5.1769 "Pursuant to precept to me directed by John Bremar, Deputy Surveyor General, I have measured and laid out unto JAMES WELCH, a plantation or tract of land containing 150ac. on Douglass Swamp, being the North Branch of Black River, lying and being in Craven County. JAMES WELCH of Bath.

Resume: The first noted Deed of James Welch, dated 1701, would presume his birth prior to 1680 and the last noted survey dated in 1754, when he was presumed to be at least 74 years of age, would seem to cover the span of years, attributed to documentation of JAMES WELCH SR.

The sale of 500ac. on WELCH'S CREEK in 1701 in then Chowan Co. by JAMES WELCH of Bath, indicates probably family residence in that area for some years prior to 1701. Certainly a settlement c1661 was made by the Lawrence Family (see RACHAEL WELSH-WILLIAM LAWRENCE Family) possibly a little north of the mouth of WELCH'S CREEK, or possibly at the same spot- about where the present town of Plymouth stands between WELCH'S CREEK and Conaby Creek (See Long purchase) near where the Roanoke River enters the Sound.

In connection with the dates of the deeds (1777-1789) wherein the White Marsh tract was sold, it should be remembered that deeds were often recorded some years after the sale, and at the time the purchaser presented his title to the land, in order to resell the property.

It is presumed that at the death of JAMES WELCH SR. the 640ac. tract at White Marsh was in his name, and that his three sons (Thomas presumed son) each took title to one third, and the three were then residents of South Carolina.

The geography of the area, lends credence to their migration to the then Craven County, which then encompassed the present Sumter-Williamsburg counties. The Waccamaw River flowing from Lake Waccamaw into the Pee Dee River in present Georgetown Co. The Lynches River and Creek being tributaries to the Pee Dee River, while the Black River joins the Pee Dee in Winyah Bay. These Rivers in South Carolina, are of course, the residences of various WELCH families in Sumter and Williamsburg counties.

The 1800 Census of Salem County (abolished a1810) now a part of Sumter County lists-

THOMAS WELCH (31101-00301) (Born p1755)

JAMES WELCH SR.(11101-00201) (Born p1755)

JAMES WELCH JR.(10010-10010) (Born 1755-74)

While there is no identifiable 1790 Census for these families, a Sumter Co. (DB-AA-90) Deed of 7.8.1793 lists as a Wss: THOMAS WELCH covering property on Pudding Swamp which lies between Black River and Lynches River.

LAKE WACCAW TO KINGSTREE ABOUT 80 CROW-MILES

ALBEMARLE PRECINCT. This precinct was discontinued in 1663 and in 1670 the Counties of Chowan, Pasquotank, Perquimans and Currituck were formed. Later these counties were further split- Bertie was formed in 1722 from Chowan and Bath (which was later discontinued in 1739); Tyrell (1729) and Dare (1870) from Currituck and Tyrell; Camden (1777 from Pasquotank); Gates 1779 from Chowan and Hertford; Hertford (1759 from Bertie, Chowan and Northampton; Bertie in 1741 was split into Edgecomb from which was split Granville in 1746.

The Albemarle area north of the Sound was settled by Virginians during the Administration of Gov. Sir William Blake (1641-52) as Governor of Virginia.

There were five towns in Albemarle in 1729. Bath, established 1705, New Berne in 1710 by Swiss Colonists, Edenton, Beaufort, and Brunswick. In addition to this list should be added the "port of entry- "Little River" the first town in Perquimans County, at the mouth of the Little River.

THOMAS WELCH of PASQUOTANK COUNTY.

The early courts were held in residences, with a presiding Judge and four justices who were qualified as justices by owning 300ac. of land. The first Court in Perquimans County was held in the residence of Thomas Harris, whose relict married 9.14.1694 Thomas White of Perquimans County. It is believed that while the Court in 1694 was held in Perquimans County, that litigants and trials were heard from residents of Pasquotank County, if not additional counties in the area.

Court was held 9.25.1694 at the house of Thomas White (see above) Perquimans County. The record shows-

"THOMAS WELCH, indentured servant to Mr. Joseph Commander, prayed for freedom, which was granted" (Winslow. pp.10)(Col.& State Records NC I-412)

While the Court was held in Perquimans County, Joseph Commander was a resident of Pasquotank County who married 12.22.1694 Dorothy Tooke whose family came from Surry and Isle of Wight Counties, Va.

A Census taken in 1695 lists a THOMAS WELCH as No.178 and living between Harvey's Creek and Flatty Creek, Pasquotank Pct. (Ray. Lost Tribes pp.574) while Hathaway (III-253) lists an undated list of Tithables as returned by Francis Delamere, covering the area from "the east side of Harvey's Creek to the west side of Flatty Creek"

Joseph Commander- 3

THOMAS WELCH- 5, Negroes 5.

This latter list covers some 46 tithables in the district enumerated and in which THOMAS WELCH had the largest number of negroes.

Geographical research indicates this area as being on the east shore of the Little River, just across from Durants Neck in Pasquotank County.

On 4.11.1704 THOMAS WELCH was a Witness in the Perquimans Precinct as noted by Hathaway (I-609).

In Perquimans County (DB-B-183) on 1.10.1724 a THOMAS WALSH was a Witness. (See Deeds under Timothy Clare Line later on.) While there is no assurance that this WALSH is the same as the THOMAS WELCH noted previously, it offers some slight significance because of the Timothy Clare connection.

While we have no further record of this THOMAS WELCH, the census in 1695 would indicate a family of five- father, mother and three children. Indentured servants were usually allowed grants of land by the proprietors at the end of their indenture and it is probable that THOMAS WELCH was granted such land, however the fact that he is credited with 5 slaves within a year of his release from indenture (proximity lends credence to the identification) causes some doubts as to how this situation came about.

No further identifiable record of THOMAS WELCH.

RACHAEL WELSH who married William Lawrence.

RACHAEL WELSH (pl640-al674) married cl655 William Larance (Lawrence) who d. p6.1.1668. According to I. of W. records his family moved from Nansemond Co. Va. to Perquimans Co. NC cl680-85/ (Possibly prior to this date cf. marriage of their daughter Elizabeth cl671 to Caleb Calloway, resident of Perquimans Co.)

Berkeley Parish Records show that on 6.1.1668 RACHAEL LAWRENCE, widow, married Samuel Pricklove (Pretlow, Pritlow etc)(cl631/2-4.20.1692). He was in Perquimans Pct. pl661 and had an unrecorded grant from Sir. William Berkeley for land adjng. George Durant whose deed dated 8.4.1661 was from the King of the Yeopim Indians. (Perq. DB-A-375) and was Witnessed by Caleb Calloway.

George Durant "hath seated a plantation" (on Durants Neck) just south of the present town of New Hope (DB-A-376)(3.13.1662) Wss: George Catchmany (Catchmaid etc). On 9.5.1663 Berkeley granted 250ac. to John Harvey adjng. Roger Williams and on the same date 700ac. to John Jenkins bounded on the south by the Sound and on the north by the Perquimans River and the west by Thomas Jarvis. George Catchmany also a deed from Berkeley dated 4.1.1663 (DB-F-193).

William Perry Johnson, noted genealogist of North Carolina and a descendant of the Lawrence line, writes that-

"Robert Lawrence jr., of the Isle of Wight and Nansemond Family, received grant of land in NC 9.25.1663.

"On 3.25.1707/8 he gave his age as 69 and said that 47 years ago (1660-61) he seated a Plantation on the south side of the Chowan River on which he lived for 7 years and that he was well acquainted with the boundary lines of these Rivers".

John Bennett Boddie- Historical Southern Families II-181 and in his 17th. Century Isle of Wight pp.489 devotes some few pages to this Lawrence family. Boddie states that Robert⁴ and John⁴ Lawrence, brothers, (Robert³ Sir John² Thomas¹ of Middlesex, a Goldsmith) both received grants on the "West side of the Chowan River" identical in size- 625ac. adjng. each other and that both brothers returned to Virginia where they died.

Corbitt in his "Formation of the North Carolina Counties" relates the Lawrence plantation "seating" in 1661 and states that Samuel Pricklove, Caleb Calloway, George Catchmaid, John Harvey, Thomas Jarvis, George Durant et. al. also settled there. This account is open to doubt, as many of the these settlers were residents of Perquimans County as noted on the preceeding page during the years in question.

The foregoing line is noted, as perhaps having significance in the line of THOMAS WELCH of Pasquotank County, noted on page 1.

Perquimans Pct. (DB-B-183)(1.10.1724) Thomas Winslow and Elizabeth his wife (daughter Timothy Clare and Mary Bundy) assign to Thomas White (same name as residence where Court was held for THOMAS WELCH in 1694) rights in a patent granted 4.5.1720
"to our father Timothy Clare and by his will to us" 330ac.
Wss: THOMAS WALSH, Joseph Jessop.

Joseph Jessop was bother of Thomas Jessop who married Jane Clare of Timothy and Hanna Lawrence Snelling.

It is not without the realm of possibilities that since Joseph Jessop was related to the grantors in this deed, that perhaps THOMAS WALSH (Welch-Welsh) was also more than a neighbor.
Since witnesses presumably had knowledge of the land and were often relatives, the deed assumes some additional significance,

JAMES WELCH of Chowan County.

We have but two direct evidences of the noted early settler, however corollary evidences add additional information.

JAMES WELCH, Testator. Will dated 11.11.1711.

"North Carolina, November ye 11th., 1711, JAMES WELCH of Chowan precinct, being sick and weak but in sound mind and memory do here make my last will and testament.

FIRST: I bequeath my soul to God that gave it, in hopes my beloved Savior will make intercessions for me and my body to the earth from whence it came and all my temporal estate as followeth-

FIRST I give to my beloved daughter MARY, three cows and calves and one young mare with all her increase and, if it pleases God, ye child my wife is now with, if it lives, I give three cows and calves and one young mare with her increase.

I give unto my beloved wife (unnamed), ye right and occupation of ye plantation where I now live and after my wife's decease, I give and bequeath it to ye child she now goes with, if please God it be a son. If a daughter I give and bequeath it to my daughter MARY and as for ye moveables, I give and bequeath them to my wife. As for ye cows and calves I would have my children possessed with them as soon after my decease as possible. I appoint my brother-in-law HENRY BONNER to be my lawful Attorney and to see that this, my last will and testament be proven according to law.

Given under my hand and seal, this day above written.

JAMES (mark) WELCH

Wss: John Tayler, William Branch, Wilt Tanner.

Ref: N.C. Secretary of State Wills 1712-1722. (SS-875-pp40)

Chowan County (DB-B1-314) (8.1.1716 dated and proven)

JOHN DAVIS of Bath County, Planter, for valuable considerations paid by JAMES WELCH, late of Chowan Precinct, sells to MARY WELCH, daughter and heir at law of JAMES WELCH, 200ac. in Chowan County at head of Slocum's Creek, adjng. Mrs. Johanah Peterson, William Branch, Henry Bonner.

Wss: Richard Hicks, Thomas Harvey.

The foregoing Will has the flavor of a man who has married for the second time, perhaps comparatively recently and that a daughter by a previous marriage MARY WELCH was living with him.

The use of the term "brother-in-law" is confusing, as in the early days it often denoted a step-brother. If it means the former JAMES WELCH married a Bonner, sister of HENRY BONNER. If it means the latter, JAMES WELCH'S father married secondly a Bonner, or his mother married secondly a Bonner. Hathaway notes that on 4.1.1705 a HENRY BONNER married DEBORAH WHIDBY of John. If the same HENRY BONNER it still offers no solution.

The 1716 Deed conveys land to MARY WELCH, "for valuable considerations paid by JAMES WELCH". Since the Will bequeaths the plantation (with life tenure to the widow) to his daughter MARY WELCH providing the child "in esse" is not a son, it seems reasonable to assume that the tract "sold" to MARY WELCH, was in fact, the plantation where JAMES WELCH lived in 1711. The requirement of this deed, to establish ownership, may have been necessary by the loss of the deed by JAMES WELCH, or the 1716 deed merely confirmed a previous sale. Pre-Revolutionary laws permitted girls of 16 to possess land, making plausible the suggestion that MARY WELCH was born no later than 1700.

Since the 200ac. tract (plantation) adjoined both HENRY BONNER and WILLIAM BRANCH on Slocum's Creek, it becomes necessary to pin point where these adjoiners lived.

ANTHONY SLOCUM (aged 90 years in 1680. Hath.I-139) died seized of 620ac. on Machecomack Creek, Chowan County, known by name of Slocum's. (Hath.I-117)

Edenton Bay, whereon the City of Edenton sits, has an east Branch known as Queen Anne Creek, while the west arm, longer in length is known as Matchamacormack Creek.

William Branch patented 292ac. on Mattacomack Creek at Bonner's Cove. His wife was Margaret Wheatley. His Will 11.24.1720 bequeaths plantation of south side of Mattacomack Creek and mentions HENRY BONNER and PAUL PALMER.

The Branch Family came to NC c1694 from Surry Co. Va. (Boddie: Southside Virginia Families II-47)

Hathaway (I-144) names HENRY BONNER as Road Commissioner "from Terrapin Hill DOWN to JAMES WELCH'S" and Thomas Hoskins as Commissioner from "JAMES WELCH'S to the usual limits".

The Virginia Road (now US-32) from Edenton north to Suffolk, Nansemond Co. Va. was presumably the only main road existing in the early 1700s. Terrapin Hill is on the Virginia Road just above Bennett's Mill Pond and the town of Valhalla, some 7 to 8 miles north of Edenton.

The JAMES WELCH plantation is thus located about 3-4 miles north of Edenton and the west side of Matchamacormick Creek. (Slocums Creek)

In the Council Minutes- Wills & Inventories, 1677-1701 as noted at the Archives, Raleigh, NC. File SS0874.2 pp.101 Dated 1697 but later than 6.25.1694, the following-

Robert Fraser, deceased, intestate. Administration of his estate granted to ANN, wife of JAMES WELCH as nearest of kin.

"Nearest of Kin" probably indicates sister relationship.

BAPTIST
CHOWAN
SEE 9th

Two deeds add interest to the "ANN wife of JAMES WELCH" Administration of Robert Fraser, Intestate.

The two deeds were recorded at the same time (DB-A-80) and (DB-A-81) however the deeds were DATED some nine months apart.

11.2.1693 John Flowers & Susanna sell plantation to Timothy Clare on north side Perquimans River adjng. William Bundy and John Flowers.

6.25.1694 Timothy Clare assigns "said bill of sale" unto Robert Fraser

The foregoing items bring a JAMES WELCH and wife ANN into the picture around the William Lawrence and RACHAEL WELCH family. thru Timothy Clare. An interesting development, suggesting that JAMES WELCH and RACHAEL WELCH may have a close relationship.

Son: EDWARD designated as "eldest son". A Plantation.
Son: JOHN, Plantation on Cockfighting Branch.
Son: JAMES, land on Cockfighting Branch.
Dau: SARAH, designated as "eldest daughter" 150ac of land "where she now lives". Parker? see below
Wss: John, James Parker, Benjamin Evans.

Note: Hath. II-299 says ELIZABETH WELCH died in the same year as her husband- 1730 and that his eldest daughter married Joseph Parker.

The reference to SARAH and the "land where she now lives" would tend to indicate that she was then (1730) married.

Hath.I-617 says that Benjamin Evans (Wss) of the above Will was the son-in-law of Thomas Parker and Mary.

JOHN WELCH above was a Deacon in the Baptist Church on the Chowan River where Paul Palmer was the Minister. This Church according to Mr. W.A.Welch of Kingstree. S.Car. was probably just south of Stumpy Creek in the vicinity of Cannon's Ferry. John Welch, according to the same source, was presumably buried in the Old Welch Graveyard on Stumpy Creek.

Note:While there were no further records of JAMES WELCH, note should be taken of the tradition and family of JAMES WELCH of Dauphin Co. Pa.

At this point, another deed is inserted covering a tract in Perquimans County, referred to under date of 8.10.1721.

5. 8.1732 (DB-C-77) Perquimans Co. John Arnold, sells for £40 to Elizabeth Stevens, "land due me by Will of my father-in-law JOHN WELCH, deceased ". (This land is the 110ac. referred to under date of 1721)

Note: This deed and 1721 deed were recorded succesively although the dates differ.

The term "father-in-law" frequently was used to denote "stepfather". Contrarywise if this is the JOHN WELCH of Chowan, it may indicate another daughter (as the will implies) married to John Arnold.

While only John and Edward are noted on the Headright of Patrick Lawlor, it may be assumed that the other children came later, or were born in the Carolinas.

Note: See Line of JOHN WELCH & ELIZABETH of Chowan Co. NC. who probably the progenitors of this line.

Note: WELCH MILL POND on Catherines Creek in Chowan County NC is probably the center of an area wherein four generations of this family were born, while three generations were buried in the WELCH GRAVEYARD on the west bank of WELCH MILL POND.

Note: This Line probably runs-

- I. JOHN WELCH & ELIZABETH
II. EDWARD WELCH whose Admtr. was DEMSEY WELCH.
III. EDWARD WELCH noted as I above.

PERQUIMANS COUNTY. (1679 from Albemarle Pct.)

Geography: Yeopim River forms its west boundary with Chowan Co. and while the actual boundary was not surveyed until 1805 the Yeopim River was accepted as the boundary prior to that time. The Little River forms the east boundary from Pasquotank Co.

Parishes: Berkeley Parish.

Note: The two items following concerning JOHN WELCH are placed here, due to the location of the tracts in question. The JOHN WELCH, may well prove to be the JOHN WELCH of Chowan Co. which see.

8.10.1721 JOHN WELCH, Planter, buys 110ac. on NE side Yeopim River, adjng. Joshua Calloway, John Wiatt. Wss: Richard Leary, Joseph Oates. (DB-B-104)

5. 8.1732 JOHN WELCH, "deceased" is named as the "father-in-law" of John Arnold, who sells for £40, to Elisha Stevens "land due me by will of my father-in-law, JOHN WELCH, deceased". Wss: Charles & Sarah Denman. (The deed refers to the tract noted under the 1721 date above) (DB-C-77)

Note: Since this date follows closely upon the date (1730) of the Will of JOHN WELCH of Chowan- and since that Will notes a daughter SARAH WELCH, as his oldest daughter, it follows that there was more than one daughter in the family. It is possible that John Arnold married a younger daughter, although no mention in the will was made, unless perhaps John Arnold married SARAH WELCH and her father did not refer to her by her married name, in which case the acreage is in doubt.

Note: The possibility exists that the term "father-in-law" was not used in its present meaning. In olden days the term often times designated a step-father.

Allied Families: ARNOLD.

Lawrence Arnold, testator 21695, names wife Elizabeth and beq. his estate to a son John Arnold, to receive it when 13 years of age. (Born 1683). John Bateman was appointed Guardian of John. Bateman married the relict Elizabeth.

John Arnold, Testator. Will probated 7.21.1735 beq. land on Deep Creek. "Crest on seal". Wife: Elizabeth. Son: John Arnold. (His dau. Sarah Arnold married 1720 Samuel Parson.) - - - - -

4. 5.1727 NATHANIEL WELCH and F. Sweeny were Wss; Deed (DB-B-202)

CARTERET COUNTY. (1722 from Craven.)

Geography: Craven and Carteret counties lie between the Neuse River and Onslow Bay. Clubfoot Creek flows north into the Neuse lying in Craven County. Newport River is more of a Bay than a River, directly south of Clubfoot Creek. Only about ten miles separate the Neuse and Onslow Bay. A Creek, possibly Harlow's Creek connect Clubfoot Creek and Newport River.

Bounty Land Warrant No. 2190 for 100ac.

Theoretical:

The possibility exists that the forgoing LEWIS WELCH was the son of ROBERT² WELCH, (who married CATHERINE LEWIS) son of Maj. JOHN WELSH of A.A.Co. Md. This LEWIS WELCH was Baptized in A.A.Co.Md. 4.18.1712 (All Hallows Parish Record pp.84) and married in 1734 ELIZABETH CROSBY, nee Toogood.
No further record in A.A.Co. (JAMES WELCH, his brother, born IL.25.1709 married Elizabeth Toogood of Col. Josiah of A.A.Co.
We suggest that the Carteret WELCH family consisted of-

I. LEWIS WELCH m. ELIZABETH TOOGOOD CROSBY and had among others-

1. ROBERT WELCH who was Wss.1758 with LEWIS.

2. JAMES WELCH

3. ROBERT WELCH

4. WILLIAM WELCH who had son ROBERT WELCH.

JOHN WELCH of Tryon County
THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford Co.

Tryon County was only in existence for the period of 1768 to 1779, being formed from Mechlinburg in 1768 which came from Anson in 1762. In 1779 Tryon County was abolished and it was divided into Lincoln and Rutherford Counties.

FOREWORD. While there is no documentation, it seems more than a coincidence that the marriages of JOHN WELCH and THOMAS WELCH in Pennsylvania, the concurrent flight of Presbyterians southwards and the appearance of presumably the same families in North Carolina at approximately the same time.

JOHN WELCH of Lancaster Co. Pa. was issued a land warrant No. 260 for 150ac. in Lebanon Twp. Interest to begin 3.1.1737, which was usually the date that the grantee was "on" the land. This tract adjoined the tract of John Casper Stoever and Martin Casetas. Lancaster County was formed in 1729 from Chester County. Lebanon Twp. constituted a large area just east of present Dauphin County, then called Derry Twp. This section was settled by the Scotch-Irish and in 1721 the Old Donegal Presbyterian Church was organized there. The records of Rev. John Casper Stoever reveal that he married-

3.17.1753 JOHN WELCH and MARGARET IRVING

1. 7.1756 THOMAS WELCH and AGNES ALEXANDER

"Pa. German Pioneers" page 72 states "John Casper Stoever, Sr. and Jr. The father labored in Virginia and the son, a Theological student was Minister in Pennsylvania."

JOHN WELCH was on the tax lists in 1749-1750 living "south end of Paxtang Twp." (now Dauphin Co.)

JOHN WELCH of Tryon County.

The family of JOHN WELCH of Tryon County is well defined in the following documents-

JOHN WELCH, Testator, Tryon Co. (1761-6.5.1769)

Names: Wife: MARGARET beq. 1/5 "for her in child bearing"

Dau: REBECCA named as "oldest daughter"

Son: JOHN WELCH

Dau: MARGARET

The Will stipulates that his plantation on Camp Creek (a fork of Jacobs Creek on the south branch of the Cataba River, present Catawba Co.) be divided between his wife "and children".

Extrs: Wife, THOMAS WELCH, NICHOLAS WELCH.

Wss: Alexander Lockhart, John Linsey, Jr.

Chronologically ahead of the development of this family we note next a confusing deed, giving additional details of this family.

Lincoln Co. (DB-17-370) 1796. WILLIAM WELCH, NICHOLAS WELCH, THOMAS WELCH, all of Pendleton Co. S.Car. (now Pickens Co.) sell tract in Lincoln Co. N.C. to George Whitely (who married MARGARET WELCH, relict of JOHN WELCH, decsd.) granted their father JOHN WELCH by patent 10.24.1795 and bequeathed to them by their father's will. Tract situate on the Jacobs River.

Was: Josiah Underwood, Thomas Martindell, George Whitmore.

The date of the Patent in 1795 is an obvious error in the recording of the deed, as the date is some twenty five years after the death of JOHN WELCH and in view of the following land entry and survey-

7.21.1767 JOHN WELCH made land entry and on 7.31.1767 a Survey was made for him for 200ac. in Mechlinburg Co. (now Catawba Co.) on Jacobs Fork of the South Fork of the Catawba River "a little below Camp Creek". A Land Grant of this Tract was made 10.24.1767. (N.C.State Archives-Box 23- pp.87, listed under McDowell Co.)

A review of the Census records in Pendleton County reveal the following enumerations- in South Carolina-

1790	DAVID WELCH	page 84	(11300)	(see 1790 Lincoln Co.
1800	WILLIAM WELCH		(21010-32010)
1800	DAVID WELCH		(20101-00201)
1800	NICHOLAS WELCH		(30010-11010)	4c 55-74

GEOGRAPHY:

The South Fork of the Catawba River has, as tributary streams- Indian Creek, Jacobs Fork, Clark Creek, while Camp Creek is a tributary of Jacobs Fork and lies almost entirely within present Catawba County. Buffalo Creek (and there are various Creeks so named, in various N.C. Counties) lies mostly within present Cleveland County (1841 from Lincoln-Rutherford Cos.) having its source in Lincoln Co. to the North and flowing into the Broad River near the S.C. Line.

7.26.1774 NICHOLAS WELCH, Extr. Estate of JOHN WELCH decsd. reported to the Court, who authorized the sale of the Plantation where the relict of JOHN WELCH, now MARGARET WHITELY now lives. Proceeds of the sale, £90, to NICHOLAS WELCH for benefit of widow and orphans.

The 1790 Census of Lincoln County, enumerates, all on page 113-
WILLIAM WELCH ((10400)
THOMAS WELCH (11500)
NEI (sic) WELCH (12300) 4p 1776

No other WELCH enumerations in the County.
Possibly the "Nei Welch" was misprint for "Nic WELCH"

In view of these Census returns, indicating that the three men WILLIAM, THOMAS and NEI WELCH were married and had 3-4-5 children, it would appear that they were children of a prior marriage, since the wife MARGARET WELCH was bequeathed £5 "for child bearing" suggesting she was "with child" at the time of signing of the will. This would correspond with the supposition that JOHN WELCH married MARGARET IRVING in 1753 in Pennsylvania.

There appears in 1751 and 1761 land entries, surveys and grants to a JOHN WELCH that confuse the picture in this area. They may be in part to JOHN WELCH of Tryon county, or to JOHN WELCH of Rutherford county, which see later on.

Note: Tract possibly on Howards Creek adjng. THOMAS WELCH. See his survey 6.23.1767.

There is no further documentation of WILLIAM WELCH until the 1790 Census and possibly that enumeration of WILLIAM WELCH is for a younger WILLIAM WELCH. It is probable that this WILLIAM WELCH was the first of the three brothers to migrate to Pendleton Co. S.C. and his absence at the time of the death of his father JOHN WELCH accounts for his not being named as one of the Executors.

of records concerning him.

NICHOLAS WELCH. Additional Material re: Loyalists.

The Battle of Ramsour's Mill.

All Lincoln Co.
"Col. Moore called a meeting of the Tories, June 10, 1780 at his father's residence on Indian Creek, near Ramsour's Mill. Here he was met by forty men, to whom he revealed Cornwallis's plan of Campaigning. Before the meeting adjourned, it was revealed that Major McDowell, with a company of patriot militia of Burke County was only eight miles distant and in search of some of their number. They determined to make a surprise attack upon McDowell, who learned of their action and escaped. Moore directed the men to meet him on the 13th. at Ramsour's Mill and the readiness with which the Tories responded may be judged from the fact that over two hundred appeared at that time and on the next day many others among whom was MAJOR NICHOLAS WALSH of Col. Hambletons regiment. By the 20th. the number had grown to 1300, about one fourth of whom were without arms. They were encamped on a hill about 300 yards from Ramsour's Mill and a half mile north of the present village of Lincolnton."

Ref: The Loyalists in North Carolina during the Revolution.
Robert O. DeMond. 1940. Duke University Press. pps.125-6.

"In addition to those from their own neighborhood, the Tories were reinforced two days before the battle by 200 well armed men from Lower Creek, in Burke County under Captains Whiston and Murray. Col. John Moore, son of Moses Moore who resided 6 or 7 miles west of Lincolnton, took an active part in the County. He had joined the enemy the preceeding winter in South Carolina and having recently returned dressed in a tattered suit of British uniform with a sword dangling at his side, announced himself as Lieutenant Colonel in the regiment of North Carolina Loyalists, commanded by Col. John Hamilton of Halifax. Soon thereafter NICHOLAS WELCH, of the same vicinity, who had been in the British service for 18 months and bore a Major's commission in the same regiment, also returned, in a splendid uniform and with a purse of gold which was ostentatiously displayed to his admiring associates, he had embraced. Under these leaders there was collected in a few weeks a force of 1300 men, who encamped on the elevated position east of Ramsour's Mill....."

Between the families of JOHN WELCH of Tryon County and the family of THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford County, we are inserting an unassimilated ROBERT WELCH, who may have been a member of either family and we have but one documentary evidence of his presence in this area-

10.16.1756 ROBERT WELCH buys from John Alexander land on the Catawba River.
(Anson Co. DB-5-119)

The fact that John Alexander was the father of AGNES who married THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford County, tends to indicate his alliance with this family. While THOMAS WELCH had certain lands (300ac. on the south fork of the Catawba River) for a period of time (1763-1769) none of his entries, grants, surveys, deeds etc. indicate his presence in the area at the time of the ROBERT WELCH deed.

JOHN WELCH of Tryon County and his family were residents of the Catawba River area and he had his plantation on a branch of the Catawba River when he signed his will in 1761, and presumably in possession of the land prior to that date.

Further research must be done on this ROBERT WELCH.

The family of THOMAS WELCH is less complicated in delineation than are other Welch families in North Carolina, due to the fact that no second marriages seem to be involved in the Carolina residence, as the wife AGNESS WELCH signed deed as early as 7.2.1769 and was named in the Will of 1793.

THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford Co.

- I. THOMAS WELCH (-c1794) married AGNES (Alexander of John and Elizabeth, see deed 1821 noted under his son JOSEPH WELCH-8)

Note: Possibly the same THOMAS WELCH who married 1.7.1756 in Pennsylvania by Rev. John Casper Stoeever.

Note: Possibly the son of JAMES WELCH of Paxtang (present Dauphin Co. Pa. See No.1 of this Series) as his son THOMAS WELCH had no further record discovered in Pennsylvania after 1757. This supposition is further strengthened by the fact that JAMES WELCH of Paxtang had nine children. THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford County had nine children. Of the latter's nine, six were named identically with those of JAMES WELCH of Paxtang and the oldest son was named JAMES WELCH, presumed to be named after the paternal grandfather- a usual family custom.

THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford Co.

The Will of THOMAS WELCH, was written in the old form, naming the sons first and then the daughters, the same form as was used by JAMES WELCH of Paxtang, presumed father of THOMAS WELCH. We have arbitrarily rearranged the order of the children, in, we hope, a more chronological order- as follows-

I. THOMAS WELCH (-c1794) married AGNESS ALEXANDER.

1. THOMAS WELCH (probably born pl759 due to the account of his son GEORGE WELCH, 1850 Census White Co. Tenn. which notes GEORGE WELCH born 1779 N.C.)

6.26.1787 Survey 200ac. Rutherford Co. on Grays Creek adjng. Driskill. CB: James, Samuel Gray.

6.20.1792 Grant from State NC, 200ac. Grays Creek adjng. Driskills Line (Ruth.DB-E/I-351)

1.12.1792 Survey 100ac. Robertsons Creek, adjng, own tract and Reuben Melton. CB: JOHN, DAVID WELCH.

11.25.1795 Land Grant, 100ac. Robinsons Creek adjng. Reuben Melton. (Ruth. DB-M/Q-147)

Note: His brother DAVID ALEXANDER WELCH-9 married MILLY MELTON.

It is probable that THOMAS WELCH was the first of the three brothers (James, John) to journey to Kentucky, and it is probable he went via Botetourt Co.Va. as we have a deed as follows-

10.25.1799 THOMAS WELCH of Botetourt Co. Va. gives to his son GEORGE WELCH, of Rutherford Co. NC, a 200ac. tract on the Broad River adjng. John Driskill, Miller and Cleghorn, including house and orchards. (Ruth.DB-12/14-383. 9.13.1800)

Less than a month later THOMAS WELCH appears in Barren Co. Ky. which in 1820 was split from Monroe Co. Ky. where in 1821, both of his brothers James and John Welch lived.

11.16.1799 THOMAS WELCH of Barren Co. Ky. sells Isaac Kennedy, 50ac. on Hunting Creek-Robertsons Creek a grant of 9.1.1790. Wss: JOHN WELCH.(DB-15/17-172) Recorded 3.23.1801.

4.15.1802 THOMAS WELCH was paid £10 by Isaac Canaday and THOMAS WELCH'S brother JOSEPH WELCH of Rutherford Co. gives deed for land Hunting Creek and Meltons Corner. Wss: John Early, James McConnell. (Ruth. DB-20/21-92.)

About 1819 THOMAS WELCH, after migration to Kentucky returned to White Co. Tenn. where we have extensive documentation. See Tennessee Family.

11. 8.1821 JAMES WELCH of Monroe Co.Ky. appoints his brother JOSEPH WELCH to protect his interests in the estate of John Alexander. (Ruth. DB-30-89)

It seems likely that the 140ac. sold was the same tract that he received by way of his fathers bequest.

THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford County.

I. THOMAS WELCH married AGNES ALEXANDER.

3. AGNES WELCH, noted in her fathers will as AGNES SUGGS.

No further record. A Rutherford Co. marriage on 3.14.1785 lists an ANN WELCH marrying TIMOTHY RIGGS, Jr. B: Timothy Riggs, Sr.

Often the copying and recopying of county records cause mistakes and the above marriage is inserted here on the chance that the same RIGGS might have been SUGGS. Refer to the 1775 Deed of THOMAS WELCH Sr. which was wss. by John Riggs.

4. ELIZABETH WELCH noted in her fathers will as ELIZABETH McGAUGHEY. The 1822 Deed appointing her brother JOSEPH to protect her interests in the estate of John Alexander, calls her "MRS JOHN McGAUGHEY.

5. JEAN WELCH, noted in her fathers will as JEAN PROCTOR. 7.4.1789 Ruth.Co. JANE (Jean ?) WELCH married WILLIAM PROCTOR. B: Andrew Logan.

Note: THOMAS WELCH of White Co. Tenn. married REBECCA PROCTOR, presumed a relative of Gen.Proctor.

6. MARY WELCH, named in her fathers Will as MARY SNOWDEN. No further record.

The witnesses on the 2.11.1801 Deed are important. Note that DAVID A. WELCH-9 married 1799 MILLY MELTON and that in 1819 a CORNELIUS WELCH married Sally Cancellor. The probability exists that MILLY MELTON was the daughter of Cornelius Melton.

Further along in our discussion of the North Carolina WELCH families, we will review a DAR application which stated that THOMAS WELCH & NANCY, had a son JOSEPH WELCH (1772-1865) who married a CATHERINE DECK and they named a child JACOB DECK WELCH (1811-1868). This similarity of names and dates will be commented on later on.

End of Family THOMAS WELCH & AGNES.

Included in this Chapter on THOMAS WELCH & AGNES, is a confusing and perhaps contradictory line of a THOMAS WELCH & NANCY, submitted in an application for DAR Membership, dated 1918. This was submitted by ZENOBIA WELCH of Anderson Co.SC.

I. THOMAS WELCH (1743-1789) from Wales, to NC in 1768-9 with land grants in Mechlinburg
Co. on both sides of Indian Creek, "below the Scout Camp". Married 1764 NANCY ALEX-

IV. ALONZA LAFAYETTE WELCH (1839-1917) m. 1874 Mrs. HULDAH

V. ZENOBIA WELCH born Anderson, Anderson Co. S.C.

"He (Thomas Welch) enlisted in Mechlinburg Co. and served throughout the Revolutionary War. He began as a private and was appointed Sargeant. Vol.19 Revolutionary Accounts, was paid as a Sargeant. He was a loyal patriot as were others of his name JAMES, JOHN and NICHOLAS WELCH, probably brothers as they came from Wales and had land grants near together. He

The application gives as references. NC State Records Vol.17 pp.257; Do. Vol.10, Book 14, pp.8; Do. Vol.51, Book 178, pp.26; Army Settlement Accts. Vol.19. No.1088.

We have documented two identifiable deeds of this THOMAS WELCH & NANCY.

- 4.19.1763 THOMAS WELCH, Land Grant 250ac. on s.side Zimmermans Beaver Dam Creek. A second land grant same date, acreage, location.
- 4.19.1763 THOMAS WELCH, survey 250ac. on Beaver Dam Creek, adjng. Hostetter, Zimmerman and Second Long Creek. (This tract in present Gaston Co. 1846 from Lincoln.)

Note: The date of this Survey is identical with the survey date of THOMAS WELCH-I of Rutherford Co. which see.

- 1.24.1775 THOMAS WELCH buys from William Sims, 140ac. on Long Creek, patented to Mathew Floyd 4.25.1767. (Tryon DB-1-329)

Note: This deed only included here due "Long Creek".

- 3.13.1777 THOMAS WELCH "of Tryon County" sells 250ac. on Beaver Dam Creek adjng. Christian Zimmerman. NANCY WELCH releases dower. Tract patented Mathew Floyd 4.25.1767. Wss: David Allen, W.Lively, John Hill. (Tryon DB-2-241)
NANCY WELCH signed in presence of Andrew Neel, Jona. Hampton.

Additional documentation connecting THOMAS-NANCY with the Rutherford family of THOMAS-AGNES as follows-

JAMES WELCH-2 (of THOMAS & AGNES) m.1783 Rutherford co. with MARY SIMS. Note 1775 deed above William Sims. Also JAMES WELCH-2 sale 1799 Rutherford Co. with Andrew Neel as Wss: See Andrew Neel above 1777 deed.

JOSEPH WELCH-8 (of THOMAS & AGNES) buys 1801 200ac. to which purchase Jacob Deck was a Wss: See JACOB DECK WELCH (1811-1868) in line THOMAS & NANCY.

To further complicate this situation is the line of JOHN WELCH-3 noted in the THOMAS-NANCY line, who married DORCAS DILLARD. This line is covered in the Chapter on Rowan County.

Insert for page 17 at point noted.

The following ROWAN County marriage in 1788 is confusing as the ELIZABETH WELCH in question could equally be of the family of THOMAS WELCH & AGNES or THOMAS WELCH & NANCY, if in reality, they are not one and the same family.

Rowan County, 9.15.1788
ELIZABETH WELCH married JOHN HENDRICKS
B: THOMAS WELCH (father ?) Wss: W.ALEXANDER

This brings up the question of the relationship between John Alexander who married Elizabeth and were presumed to be the parents of AGNES ALEXANDER WELCH- and the W.(illiam ?) ALEXANDER who was Wss. to the above noted marriage. The question of why a Rowan County marriage when both versions of where ELIZABETH WELCH lived indicate either Rutherford or Mechlinburg counties.

The HENDRICKS family intermarried with the WELCH families in Campbell Co. Va. (See Iredell Co. N.C.) and were adjrs. to the WELCH family in Perquimans Co. N.C. also S.C. ?

Ray Worth, in his "Tennessee Cousins" on page 339 states that-

"The Mechlinburg ALEXANDER Family"
Col. Robert Alexander (1743-1813) from Cecil Co. Md. Lead a Company in the Cherokee Expedition. Was a Captain in Revolutionary War.
Married MARY JACKS. Lived on west side of the Catawba River next to the Blacks and Hambrights.

An analysis of the families of THOMAS WELCH & NANCY and THOMAS WELCH & AGNES indicates a similarity in the names of their children, that perhaps is more than a coincidence-

The DAR data concerning the children of THOMAS & NANCY shows five children whose names (with the exception of a JACKSON WELCH) correspond with the names of four children of THOMAS & AGNES.

The possibilities of error in the DAR application should not be discounted.

It is possible that JOSEPH WELCH-8 of THOMAS & AGNES is the JOSEPH WELCH who married CATHERINE DECK.

Another possibility exists that the THOMAS WELCH who married NANCY was the THOMAS WELCH of THOMAS & AGNES, since the only date definite was 3.13.1777 when NANCY signed a dower release. We know that on that date THOMAS was married to NANCY. THOMAS'S son GEORGE was born 1779 in NC and possibly NANCY died shortly after that date.

SPECULATION CONCERNING THE PARENTAGE OF THOMAS WELCH (& AGNES)

JAMES WELCH (1704-1754) "of Paxtang" (~~See Chapter No. 1 of this Series~~) married MARY (1707-1754). Traditionally this family came from the Carolinas. His Will bequeathed to a son THOMAS, the "servant man Daniell.....for the bebefit of the plantation". This son THOMAS WELCH, after the sale of the plantation in 1759, had no identifiable record in present Dauphin Co. Pa.

The Will of JAMES WELCH of Paxtang bequeaths to and names his children- noted here in approximately chronological order-

1. JOHN (identified in Franklin Co. Pa.)
2. THOMAS (NFR)
3. JAMES (identified dy.)
4. JEAN (identified dy.)
5. MARY (identified with brother JOHN.)
6. JOSEPH (NFR)
7. ISABEL (NFR)
8. ROBERT (identified in Perry Co. Pa.)
9. Daughter (presumed to have married and dy.)

The children of THOMAS & AGNES follow the same name pattern-

3. JOHN (N)
2. THOMAS
1. JAMES (named for paternal grandfather ?)
9. JEAN
8. MARY
4. DAVID ALEXANDER
7. AGNES
6. ELIZABETH

Thus the five children have identical names, both cases presumed to have named first male after paternal grandfather. The disappearance of THOMAS from the Pennsylvania scene corresponds with the general migration in this area- southward.

17 1/2

GASTON COUNTY. Page 2 of 2

There is some confusion about the THOMAS WELCH and NANCY and there are some facts that contribute to the theory that this was a first of two marriages. There is but one documentation of NANCY, the 1777 deed, plus, of course the DAR application.

The family of JOHN WELCH (1770-) m. DORCAS DILLARD is rather fully narrated in Allen's "History of Haywood County" and Sondley's "History of Buncombe County" and both seem to agree that JOHN WELCH who married DORCAS DILLARD came to NC shortly after the Revolutionary War, from Philadelphia. He was State Senator of Buncombe Co. in 1809-10 and was "the wealthiest and most influential man in Haywood County".

The marriage in Rowan County (1753 from Anson) of ELIZABETH WELCH on 9.15.1788 to John Hendricks is pertinent here as the Bond was THOMAS WELCH, and the Wss. was W. Alexander. While THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford Co. had a daughter Elizabeth, she was, in 1793, the date of her father's will, married to a John McGaughey. No other Elizabeth Welches documented in this area. If ELIZABETH WELCH married in 1788 she presumably was born in the neighborhood of 1768, which would not prohibit her being a daughter of THOMAS & NANCY.

It is curious that the DAR application cites "both sides of Indian Creek" as the original land grants to THOMAS WELCH who married NANCY. The only deed to which NANCY was a party was for land in Gaston Co. then still Tryon County. In contradiction of the DAR statements, JOHN WELCH who married MARGARET and had sons WILLIAM, NICHOLAS and THOMAS were all settled in the Indian Creek area in present Lincoln County- THOMAS WELCH being married in 1770-1773 to RACHAEL who signed dower releases during these particular years.

William Sims from whom THOMAS WELCH-NANCY purchased land in 1775 was perhaps related to the Mary Sims who married JAMES WELCH in 1783, Rutherford County, son of THOMAS WELCH.

The family of THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford County, seems to have impinged on this THOMAS WELCH-NANCY family to the extent that it throws some doubt on the authenticity of the DAR line.

In this connection it should be noted that the five children noted, of THOMAS-NANCY, in the DAR application, with the exception of the child named JACKSON WELCH, duplicate the same names used by THOMAS WELCH of Rutherford Co. and AGNESS.

If JOHN WELCH who married DORCAS DILLARD came to NC "shortly after the Revolutionary War, say c1780, he was but 10 years old, and his father was documented in NC at least 7 years prior to that time.

Routes of Migration.

The Scotch-Irish (Scotch and English from northern Ireland) settled in Surry County as early as 1750. There were two main routes, one from Lancaster, Pa. to Salisbury (from Lancaster to Frederick, Md. to Warrenton Va. then east to Amelia Courthouse, then south to N.C. joining the trading path near Granville Court House, then on to Trading Ford.) Another route followed the "Upper Pennsylvania Road" (found on map of 1775) which did not turn east in Virginia toward Amelia Courthouse, but continued down through the Shenandoah Valley to Winchester, Salem and into North Carolina where it stopped about ten miles above Reedy Creek.

More and More German and Scotch-Irish immigrants poured into Philadelphia and down the two routes. A few stopped in Virginia, but most of them went on to Rowan County. The land was cheaper and easier to acquire. Rowan was then part of Anson County and north to the Virginia border. In 1840 it was cut to its present size. English and Welsh had also emigrated to Rowan, but not in great numbers. They underwent great hardships in traveling the long distances down the "wagon road" from Pennsylvania to the Piedmont section. The Scotch-Irish were Presbyterians. The Philadelphia Synod supplied most of the early missionaries (John Thompson first in 1751 and High McAden came in 1775).

The ROWAN (and sucessor county) WELCH Families.

COUNTY FORMATIONS:

ROWAN COUNTY	(1753 from Bladen) Surry (1771 from Rowan)
BURKE COUNTY	(1777 from Rowan) Guilford (1771 Rowan/Orange)
IREDELL COUNTY	(1788 from Rowan)
BUNCOMBE COUNTY	(1791 from Burke-Rutherford)
HAYWOOD COUNTY	(1808 from Buncombe)
WILKES COUNTY	(1777 from Burke-Surry)

The WELCH Families following seem to be related due to the proximity of residence, age, migration to the sucessor counties westward and to the adjoining land owners. While various individual WELCH names appear as seperate items, they may be for one and the same person. While the subject matter of this portion is on Rowan county families, they also apparently resided in counties to the west, cut out of Rowan County. The census data offers no definate groupings as there are too many Johns, James', and Thomas Welches.

(1) JOHN WELCH must be considered to be among the first in the County, as a petition to form Rowan County was submitted and among the signers were JOHN WELCH and John Witherspoon. Since the county of Rowan was formed in 1753, it is obvious that the petition was signed prior to this date. (Colonial Records W.C. IX-91/2)

John⁵ (James⁴ John³ David² James¹) Witherspoon was the Gt³gd. son of the Rev. John Welsh of Ayr, Scotland, who married Elizabeth Knox, daughter of the Rev. John Knox, the Reformer. Their daughter (Welsh-Knox) Louise married James¹ Witherspoon, whose grandson John³ migrated to Kingstree, Williamsburg, S.Car. in 1734. (cf: W.W.Boddie History of Williamsburg.) (Questionable relationship)

The first Will in Wilkes Co. (WB-1-16) in 1778 was that of JOHN WITHERSPOON, ESQ. naming children, Thomas, David, James, John, Mary, Flora, Martha, Nancy, Jane and Elizabeth. Thomas Witherspoon's will in Wilkes Co. (WB-1-279) c1790 (WB-1-287) has as Bond: JOHN WELCH.

Marriage Bonds or marriages in Rowan County, suggest that JOHN WELCH was the father of at least two children-

- 2.29.1769 MAREY WELCH-George Laney. B: Titus Laney. Thos. Frohock, JP
- 10.28.1772 THOMAS WELCH-Jane Thompson. B: JOHN WELCH. Thos. Frohock.
- 3. 1.1774 MARY WELCH-William McKee. Consent JOHN WELCH, Adlai Osborne, J.P.

The actual residence or plantation of JOHN WELCH is unknown- at least by any recognizable deed. Whether in present Rowan County, or in what is now Burke Co. (formed 1777) is in doubt. The Burke Co. Census data, might indicate he did live there-

9. 1.1800 Burke Co. Sheriff, issues a summons to JOHN WELCH and his wife RACHAEL to answer an action of trespass by John Patillo.
(DCR-8.001 Archives, Raleigh)

The 1810 Census also lists James McKee, John Alexander, John Ricketts et al. whose families were connected with various WELCH families.

The 1790 and 1800 Census records indicate there were three members of the JOHN WELCH household born prior to 1755 and presumed to be male members of his family and not his sons. The marriage of a presumed daughter MARY WELCH in 1774 would indicate the birth of JOHN WELCH prior to 1735.

ROWAN COUNTY WELCH Families.

Haywood County was split off from Buncombe in 1808 and the following documentation indicates relationship with the preceding families-

(13) WILLIAM WELCH (Born 1765-1774)

CB: WILLIAM WELCH, DANIEL WELCH
- 1.22.1810 Survey 30ac. Haywood Co. Richland Creek, adjng: THOMAS WELCH, Killion, Robert Love, CB: THOMAS WELCH, JOHN WELCH.

The foregoing WELCHES, seem to relate to THOMAS WELCH-(3) who married 1772 JANE THOMPSON in Rowan Co. THOMAS in 1806 had a survey for 100ac. in Buncombe Co. "adjoining his old survey" and Killian, Turner. The location of the above surveys would indicate that probably these three WELCHES (William, Andrew and John) were possibly sons of THOMAS WELCH-(3) whose "old survey" antedated the recorded 1806 survey. The added names of JAMES WELCH and DANIEL WELCH may also be sons of THOMAS WELCH.

The adjoiner to the Survey of JOHN WELCH-(15) above named ROBERT LOVE, brings in a new conflict in relationships as noted on the page following.

An unassimilated MICHAEL WELCH (01310-00200) in the 1810 Census of Haywood County is unidentified.

The name of EPHRAIM WELCH is an unusual family name and since the first documentation of the name is in Surry County, and subsequently noted in census enumerations of Bledsoe Co. Tenn (the usual route of migration) the data is included under Surry County, along with WILLIAM WELCH and CHARLES WELCH, probably of the same family, either brothers or cousins-

THOMAS WELCH, Pioneer Indian Trader of South Carolina.

In attempting to expand the date on THOMAS WELSH of the Albemarle District in North Carolina (Cf: Page 1 of No. 16 of The Welch-Welsh Family in America) we found many references and a few documentations of a CAPTAIN THOMAS WELCH in South Carolina of about the same period.

The Mississippi Valley Historical Review (III-1-9) gives perhaps the most concise account of the work of this CAPTAIN THOMAS WELCH.

"Captain THOMAS WELCH was the leading Chickasaw Trader as late as 1713 and he took an important part in the intrigues and partisan warfare by which the English influence was maintained among the Indians on the furthest frontier of the English Colonies in America. Many references occur in the Manuscripts of the Journal of the Commons House and in the Indian Commissioners Journal of South Carolina in this period."

Verner W. Crane, in his excellently documented "The Southern Frontier" (1928 Duke University Press.) relates that in 1698 CAPTAIN WELCH made a notable journey from Charles Town to the mouth of the Arkansas River, returning in the Spring of 1700 to advise that the lower Mississippi was in French hands. In 1706 CAPTAIN WELCH was reimbursed for powder and shot furnished to the Chickasaws to defeat the French pleas for the Indians to join the French. In the latter part of 1708 CAPTAIN WELCH was paid £80-0-0 for making peace with the Yawsaws and Quapaws and was promised a further reward "when he hath removed them to the Cusawte River", Mr. Crane further relates that-

"Certainly in the first generation of Southern Traders, there were pioneers like THOMAS WELCH whose feats of daring and endurance challenged comparison....."

Sally in his "Warrants for Land in South Carolina 1692-1711" on pages 218 and 241 notes-

7.27.1709 Thomas Elliot, warrant for 300ac. land in Colleton County on north side of the Round-0 Savannah, between the plantations fo THOMAS WELCH said Elliott and Draytons land"

8.10.1711 THOMAS WELCH warrant for 400ac. land in Colleton County.

"Round-0" is in the northwest corner of present Colleton Co. in the big bend of the Edisto River. "Savannah" designates an "open level treeless plain" according to Webster.

The location of "Savanna Town" is described as an Indian town on the Savanna River on the South Carolina side near the Pallachuckla Bluff (See Wilson's map of S.C.). This would place Savanna Town within the boundaries of old Granville County.

Thomas L. Stokes, in his "The Savanna" (American Rivers Series) says that in the early 1700s there were some 200 Indian Traders employed by the big houses in Charleston and that but a few of their names ever got into the history books, including those who settled down in civilized pursuits and acquired a competence for themselves. Among these few were Thomas Neirn, the Scotsman and his Associate THOMAS WELCH, who was an experienced trader among the Chickasaws.

Note: There is no documentation that THOMAS WELCH of Colleton Co. and THOMAS WELCH of Savanna Town, were one and the same man. This also applies to the THOMAS WELCH noted in the opening paragraph of this paper.

46 "Foremost among the Chickasaw-traders were THOMAS WELCH and Anthony Dodsworth. The most notable exploit in the early history of Carolinian trade was the journey in 1698 from Charles Town to the Quapaw Village at the mouth of the Arkansas River".

66 Notes THOMAS WELCH's return to Charles Town in the Spring of 1700 advising that the lower Mississippi River was in French hands.

79 THOMAS WELCH interrogated re. Spanish-French offensive vs. the English.

85 January 1806 The Choctaws and Chickasaws patched-up peace was definitely broken due to the intervention of THOMAS WELCH and the Chickasaws made a night attack on a Choctaw village taking 150 prisoners many of whom found their way into the Charles Town slave market.

May 5th. 1706 Petition of THOMAS WELCH asking for payment of powder and shot given the Chickasaws to defeat French pleas for the Chickasaws to join the French. 61 £ allowed.

"A petition of THOMAS WELCH to the Lord Proprietors in 1708 for the return of certain Indian slaves seized by Governor Johnson as perquisites of office.....Under a concession by the Governor, THOMAS WELCH deposed, he had lead a party of 5 English and 300 Indians against the Chacta Indians allies of the French..... THOMAS WELCH had furnished said Indians with ammunition for this enterprise upon contract that if they had success, they would pay 15 slaves to him; he retaining 5 slaves and two slaves to each of his 5 English followers"

89 November 1707 THOMAS WELCH and Nairn counselled the Commons House, that in spite of fears of French attacks on Charles Town, that first, the Choctaws and the Yazoos must be won over or made neutral.

In the project against these two tribes, a Nairn project, Captain THOMAS WELCH and Capt. Jones, "traders" were appointed as Nairns Lieutenants.

Dec. 10th. 1708 Petition for THOMAS WELCH and order to pay him £80 for making peace with the Yawsaws and Quapaws and a further reward promised by the House when he hath removed them to the Cusawte River.

95 May 1711 the Chickasaw-Choctaw feud was reopened. The Assembly prepared an expedition to ruin the great Choctaw nation utterly. Commissions were issued to Capt. Theophilus Hastings to lead the Creeks and to Captain THOMAS WELCH to lead a supporting body of Chickasaws. Hastings killed 80 Choctaws and took 130 prisoners. THOMAS WELCH "did equal damage".

Referring to the above list of names, he states "the Salkehatchie River Area is about the closest I can come to pinpoint these people. They lived in the old Barnwell County, which included Allendale and possibly some were in old Beaufort and lived in what is now Hampton County. "

....."delegates were sent to the Continental Congress in 1774 and 1775. A Council of Safety appointed by a Provincial Congress practically took charge of the Government in June 1775. The Assembly was formally dissolved on the 15th. of September, Gov. William Campbell fled from the town and Royal Government came to an end."

A CRITICAL ANALYSIS OF A GENEALOGY

Prepared by

Mrs. Sarah Sullivan Ervin
of Ware Shoals, South Carolina for Mrs. Walter Scott Welch
of Laurel, Mississippi.

11955

Turning to the South Carolina aspects of the WELSH-KNOX story and its beginning in the U.S.A. we received a copy of a Genealogy prepared by Mrs. Sarah Sullivan Ervin of Ware Shoals, S.C. for Mrs. Walter Scott Welch of Laurel, Miss. We quote from that genealogy-

".....possibly several, but certainly one of the children of JOHN WELCH of Irongray, namely THOMAS, came to South Carolina with other relatives."

"THOMAS WELCH of Charleston S.C. born about 1645, with his wife JANE, came over, it is claimed in 1682. He had sons WALTER and JAMES and possibly other children. The children of JAMES moved to Pennsylvania".

"WALTER WELCH was born about 1670. Left a will recorded at Charleston dated 8.30.1735 in which he bequeathed a store to his father THOMAS. WALTER had a son JAMES and possibly other children. His wife was MARTHA."

"JAMES WELCH was born about 1698 and died 1754 his wife was MARY. JAMES was born in S.C. and the elder children remained there including a son JAMES. JAMES Sr. joined relatives in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. May 3rd. the Will of JAMES WELCH of Paxtang, was proven in Lancaster County. He names his wife MARY and the following Children- JAMES, JOHN, THOMAS, ROBERT, JOSEPH, JEAN, ISABEL and MARY."

"JAMES WELCH was born about 1733, married 12.25.1755 ELIZABETH ERVIN daughter of ANN. They had JOHN, ANN, RICHARD, MARY, and THOMAS. All except RICHARD perished in an epidemic."

"RICHARD WELCH born about 1762 married SARAH ERVIN, daughter of Hugh Ervin, Sr. She was born 10.17.1768....; RICHARD and SARAH were married 6.10.1791.....their son JAMES survived. RICHARD WELCH was a Revolutionary Soldier.....SARAH died young with fever in Sumter District."

Extracts from the Ervin Bible Records- under Marriages.

"SARAH ERVIN to RICHARD WELCH, Rev. Soldier of Charleston, S.C. son to JAMES WELCH, descendant of the Reformers JOHN WELCH and JOHN KNOX on 10 june 1791."

"ELIZABETH ERVIN to JAMES WELCH, son to JAMES Sr. on Christmas Day 1755 at Charleston".

The foregoing is a copy of the ORIGINAL report made to Mrs. Welch of Laurel, Miss. Mimeo copies subsequently made are full of inaccuracies and omissions and distributed to family members in Mississippi.

We were fortunate in receiving a copy dated 6.9.1949 of the Bible Records in the hands of Miss Julia Ervin of Darlington, South Carolina.

This typewritten record contains the same History of the Ervin Family in Scotland, Ireland and records their arrival in 1724 in Charleston, South Carolina. The family history was recorded in the blank pages of the Bible. (see Chapter 42).

On the blank pages devoted to the records of family marriages, is the followin-

"Sarah Ervin with RICHARD WELCH, Soldier of the American Revolution, son of JAMES W. of Charleston and descendant of the Reformer JOHN WELCH."

The foregoing item is in the same hand writing as was the Family history inscribed by Col. John Ervin (1754-1810). The above wording was confirmed by Senator Sam J. Ervin, U.S.Senator. It is evident that the words "John Knox" were added by Mrs. Sarah Sullivan Ervin.

Another item quoted by Mrs. Sarah Ervin, taken from the same Bible under "marraiges" reads

"Elizabeth Ervin to JAMES WELCH son to JAMES WELCH, Sr. on Christmas Day 1755 at Charleston"

This item arouses immediate suspicion, as it is not noted in the Julia Ervin copy, nor the Sam Ervin Copy. The item predates by a year, the birth of John Ervin and by twenty years the publication date of the Bible.

Ervin Family Bible.
Sarah Sullivan Ervin Genealogy.

Letter from U.S.Senator Samuel J. Ervin, Jr. dated 6.22.72

"Since our recent correspondence, I have received a Verbatim copy of the entries in the Bible of Colonel John Ervin relating to the marriage of Sarah Ervin. This item reads as follows-

"Sarah Ervin w'h Richard Welch, Sold. of Amer. Rev. son of Jas. W. of Charles Towne & desc'nt of Reformer John Welch on 10th.June 1791."

I infer that Sarah Ervin was the daughter of Hugh Ervin Sr. and his second wife Elizabeth James of Williamsbug County, South Carolina. They had a daughter Sarah who was born October 17th.1768.

There is no record in my copy of the entries in the Colonel John Ervin Bible to the effect that Elizabeth Ervin married James Welch son of James Sr. on Christmas Day 1775 at Charleston, I am unable to comprehend who this Elizabeth Ervin could have been.

With all good wishes etc etc. Sincerely yours

/s/ SAM J. ERVIN, JR.

An analysis of the various generations named in the report by Mrs. Sarah S. Ervin, follows-

"THOMAS WELCH of Charleston S. C. was born about 1645, with his wife JANE, cameover it is claimed in 1682. He had sons WALTER and JAMES and possibly other children."

This THOMAS WELCH, designed ^{at} as a son of the Rev. JOHN WELCH of Irongray (1624-1681) by Mrs. Ervin was born "about 1645". The designated parents were married in Hollywood on 2.18.1653, the wife ELIZABETH SOMMERVILLE dying abot 1663 and the Rev. JOHN WELCH remarrying about 1674 aged about 50 years. Thus it would appear that if THOMAS was a son of JOHN, he was born in 1654 or later up to 1663, providing THOMAS was not the product of the second marriage in 1674. This latter date would seem rather late to "comeover with a wife JANE in 1682.

- - - - -

"WALTER WELCH was born about 1670. Left a will recorded at Charleston dated 8.30.1735 in which he bequeathed a store to his father THOMAS.....had a son JAMES....wife MARTHA."

The will noted was probated at Charleston (WB-3-296) 7.30.1736 and dated 8.30.1735 and reads- (Abstract)

WALTER WELCH of Willtown, S.C. Merchant. Requests all property be converted into current money, Bills of Exchange purchased and remitted to my father THOMAS WELCH of London.

Extrs: John Watson, Merchant of Charleston, William Stabo, Planter.

The will does not mention a wife nor children and no records to date have been found by the writer to confirm the wife or children. There is no documentation that the father THOMAS WELCH was ever in South Carolina. The will does, however establish the father-son relationship. The possibility exists that the father THOMAS WELCH came to South Carolina and returned to England prior to the date of the will in 1735.

*James Welch was born about 1698 and died 1754 his wife was Mary. James Welch was born in S.C. and the elder children remained there including a son James. James Sr. joined relatives in Lancaster County Penns. May 3rd. 1754 the Will of James Welch of Paxtang was proven in Lancaster County. He names his wife Mary and the following children- James, John, Thomas, Robert, Joseph, Jean, Isabel, Mary."

The family of James Welch of Paxtang, is fully covered and documented in another Chapter of this compilation. A number of family genealogists have commented on this Will and family. The Will, recorded in Lancaster Co. (WB-B-1-48) was dated 1.21.1754 and probated 5.3.1754. That year proved a fateful one for this family, as the Father James, the Mother Mary, a son James and a daughter Jean, all died, possibly due to some epidemic. The Newside Graveyard, is in Lower Laxtang Twp. in present Dauphin County, some six miles east of Harrisburg. The Stones give mute testimony as follows-

"IN MEMOERY OF JAMES WELCH WHO DECEASED
JANUARY YE 28th.1754 AGED 50 years.
ALSO JAMES THE YOUNGER WHO DECEASED
AUGUST 7 1754 AGED 20 YEARS."

"IN MEMORY OF MARY WELCH WHO DECEASED
AUGUST YE 22 1754 AGED 47 YEARS.
ALSO JEAN WELCH WHO DECEASED
SEPTEMBER 3 1754 AGED 18 YEARS."

Orphan Court proceedings, deeds, etc etc, all documented in another Chapter, all confirm the foregoing deaths.

Various family records state the above James Welch (sr) came from South Carolina to Pennsylvania in 1728, however we have no record of this James Welch (sr) prior to a land Warrant in 1748 for a tract in Sadsbury Twp. Lancaster County, which tract passed to his son John Welch in 1760 by way of a Sheriff's Sale.

From the foregoing it is rather firmly established that the son JAMES WELCH (jr) died in Lancaster County in 1754 and was not the James Welch who married Elizabeth Ervin in 1755.

There is no substancial evidence that JAMES WELCH (sr) was the son of WALTER WELSH & MARTHA, nor that they (Walter & Martha) even existed. None of the children of JAMES WELCH (sr) & MARY were named WALTER or MARTHA, the usual custom in the family. We feel the designation of JAMES WELSH of Paxtang (See Chapter 6) is completely erronius. To continue-

"JAMES WELCH was born about 1733, married 12.25. 1755 ELIZABETH ERVIN daughter of ANN. They had John, Ann, Richard, Mary and Thomas. All except Richard perished in an epidemic."

Mrs, Sarah Ervin notes as follows-

"ELIZABETH ERVIN to JAMES WELCH, son to JAMES, Sr. on Christmas Day 1755"

"See Will of Ann Ervin, Granville County, filed at Charleston, dated 11 April 1738, proved 10 September 1739. Probate Office Volume 70 in which she names her daughter ELIZABETH".

The first above quotation from the Ervin Bible record, under Marriages, arouses suspicion as once, as the entry is dated twenty years prior to the migration of the Ervins to South Carolina and the printing of the edition of the Bible. If we abstarct the above noted will, we find-

WPA Colonial Will Book IV-196, gives the Will of ANN IRWIN of Granville County (4.11.1738-10.9.1739) naming sons SMAUEL and JOHN IRWIN, Daughter ANN AUGUSTINE and daughter ELIZABETH IRWIN, the latter-

"In case she comes or arrives in South Carolina, fifty pounds current Money of South Carolina, to be paid to her by my son JOHN IRWIN in twelve months after her arrival"

The above bequest to ELIZABETH IRWIN gives one the feeling that ELIZABETH is still out of the United States and that further she was of age and a mature person capable of making her own decision. No indication of a Guardianship indicated by the Will. The writer doubts the inclusion ELIZABETH IRWIN as being in the line represented.

Long Cane Cemetery - Abbeville Sc.

* The body of Elzab. Irwin is here interred. A native of Co. Antrim in Ireland.

She died 7.25. 1859 aged 70 yrs.

(born 1789)

Granville County, in those times consisted roughly of the land between the Savannah River and the Combahee River and extending in a rather narrow strip southwestwardly to about the boundary line between the present Counties of Abbeville and Anderson.

The following two deeds, do however confirm this generation and the approximate date of the death of James Welch (jr).

8.3.1772 James Welch bought land from William DB-F-379 Harris on Long Canes. (Creek in present Abbeville County-then Granville Co.)

10.21.1773 John Welch of Granville County, the DB-F4-375 oldest son of James Welch, deceased, and his Mother, Elizabeth Welch, sell to William Hall, Saddler, land granted William Harris on 3.27.1771 on the
Moses Alexander. Price £ 800.

The family history of the Ervin Family, written by Col. John Ervin (1754-1810) in the heretofore mentioned Bible, states that his forebear, James Ervin and Elizabeth James Ervin came over in 1732 with some 14 children, a daughter-in-law and some Grandchildren. A chart prepared by the Darlington branch of the Ervin Family notes that but four boys and two girls have progeny. This may be accounted for in the statement in the family history that "great was their sorrow when most of these (children) passed in the great mortality" (epidemic).

The Ervin Family settled in what was then Craven County and quite a distance from the James Welch family noted in Granville County, although Charleston was a central point from both areas and certainly accessible readily to both areas.

From the foregoing, the generation of James Welch & Elizabeth, presumably married in Charleston in 1755. seem to be fairly acceptable. However we know little about James Welch except the undocumented statements by Mrs. Sarah Ervin that he was married in Charleston in 1755 and that he was the son of a JAMES WELCH Sr. His reputed marriage would presume his birth prior to 1735 and his death is documented 1772/3. The wife Elizabeth is noted by Mrs. Sarah Ervin in the 1755 and the 1773 deed, so we presume that he had but one wife after 1755. The statement that all of the children perished in an epidemic except Richard, gives the feeling that it was one epidemic. Since the oldest child John Welch was alive in 1773 and noted in the Granville tax lists of 1788, the epidemic was presumably after that date.

The reputed marriage of James Welch & Elizabeth in Charleston led to a search for documentation of a James Welch, Sr. in that area.

A microfilm of Charleston Deeds at Columbia finds the following-

- 6.19.1767 James Welch and Mary Catherine Smitten
DB-G3-673 his wife of Charleston, sell to William Hodge, Planter, of Craven County, 100ac which was granted Mary Catherine Smitten on 1.1.1761 in the Santee River Swamp, bounded by John Taylor. Wss: Archibald Crawford, Vincent Simmins; Fenwick Bull, JP.
- 3.6.1759 Council Journal, No.28, p65; Bounty Land: Maria Catherine Smitten (sic) 100ac. BOUNTY LAND. Note: She may be single account the 100ac. If married with children it would be more than 100ac. Also indicate overseas origin.
- 3.6.1759 Plat Vol.7 pl03. Precept to Mary Catherine Smitten for 100ac. N.side Santee River and adjng. John Taylor, the River and Vacant land.
- 8.7.1759 Certificate by Joseph Curry, D.S.

Craven Co. was discontinued in 1868 and covered what roughly is now Darlington, Sumter and Williamsburg. Counties. It was in this area that the Ervins, Witherspoons and Welches lived. While the marriage of JAMES-Elizabeth is undocumented, it is clear that a JAMES WELCH had a wife Elizabeth.

If James Welch jr. was, in fact, the son of James Welch and Mary Catherine Smitten, the supposition is enhanced by the fact James Welch jr. named a daughter Mary.

Appended hereto is a list of the signers to "The First Council of Safety of the Revolutionary Party of South Carolina" which contains the name, among others of James Welch. Research develops the fact that the signers apparently were families from the Salkehatchie River area, which was in Old Granville Cpmnty which existed from about 1700 to late in the Century. The Council was formed about 1775 and had a short existance. James Welch was apparently in the Granville area at that time.

While the Craven County Deed for Mary Catherine Smitten locates the land in an area where the Welch family was living about that time, the travel between Willisburg County and Charleston was frequent as noted in the Ervin family history.

It would appear that until documentation exists that the Granville County Welch family and the Craven County are connected they should be considered seperate and distinct branches of the family.

The Chapter covering James Welch of Bath (N.C.) is a remote possibility as the forebear of this James Welch. As James of Bath moved from N.Car. to S.Car. on a branch of the Black River in present Williams burg Co. putting the Mary Catherine Smitten Grant in the same proximity.

The following outline, while requiring substantial documentation, would seem to be the logical conclusion to the foregoing material.

- I. James Welch "Sr" (Ref: Sarah Ervin "Welch Genealogy")
Probably born prior 1715 (Account date of son James Welch jr. in 1755); Young in his "Abstracts of Old 96 District" notes a James Welch as being in the Granville Militia in 1754; James Welch was a signer to the "First Council of Safety of the Revolutionary Party of South Carolina" composed of Salkahatchie River Families, then in Granville County; James Welch & Mary Catherine Smitten of Charleston sell land in Craven Co. in 1769. Possibly second wife.
GRANTED To HER 1769. Remarried 1761
- II. James Welch "of Charleston" (See Julia Ervin Copy of Ervin Bible Record quoted below) Born prior 1735 (Account date of presumed marriage) and died 1772/3 (See deeds below). Married Christmas Day 1755 to Elizabeth Ervin (Ref: Sarah Ervin Welch Genealogy) 1772 bought land present Abbeville County, Long Cane Creek. 1773 "Oldest son John" and Mother Elizabeth sold above land of James Welch "deceased".
Children: John. "Oldest Son" (See deed)
Ann Welch) Sarah Ervin Genealogy says Richard Welch) all children except Richard Mary Welch) perished in epidemic.
Thomas Welch)
John Welch was a Taxpayer Granville Co. 1788.
- III. Richard Welch (1762-1838) Married 6.10.1791 Sarah Ervin (10.17.1768-) of Hugh & Mary. Sarah was 2nd wife. Julia Ervin Copy Bible Record- "Sarah Ervin to Richard Welch, Soldier American Revolution. Son of James Welch of Charleston and descendant of Reformer John Welch on 10th. June 1791.

This family from Darlington County, S.Car. to Mississippi via Georgia. See Chapter 28.

8.11.1684 JACOB BOSLEY sailed from Bristol on the S/S Bristol Merchant for Pennsylvania. He from Chipping Norton (Oxfordshire).

"Bristol and America" by Wm. Dodgson Bowman.
 Published in London.

LONG CRANDON, the Plantation of THOMAS STANSBURY and his wife HANNA (Gorsuch) STANSBURY, was located on Dulaney Road, which runs north from Towson, and is an extension of the York Turnpike from Baltimore. Dulaney Road runs a bit NE from Towson crosses the Loch Raven Reservoir over the Meredith Bridge at the town of Bosley. Note that these names all intermarried with the Bosley family over the early years.

THOMAS STANSBURY on his death in 1798 devised LONG CRANDON to his son WILLIAM STANSBURY, who traditionally married Susannah Demitt. Both father and son are buried in the family plot at Long Crandon.

The family graveyard was originally enclosed with a stone fence. In later years it (Long Crandon) was sold to the Catholic Diocese who used it as an Orphanage and Old Peoples Home. Not too long ago, the graves were bulldozed out and a School for orphan children was built near the old graveyard, the stones from the fence being used for the foundation of the building. The Bosley family brought suit to have the cemetery restored, which was done, and the head stones now stand in the L of the building.

A copy of the headstones was secured through the efforts of Mrs. B.R.Paulley (Betty Bosley) of 531 S. Beech Street, Casper, Wyo. These read as follows-

THOMAS STANSBURY. Died 6.5.1798 in his 88th. Year.

~~THE~~ DURBIN Family of Maryland.

Possibly the first reference to the DURBIN family that we have observed, and presumed to be the Maryland DURBINS, is found in R.S.Glover's "Bristol and America" on pp.91

"THOMAS DURBIN sailed from Bristol, England (1654-1663). Destination-Nevis. (Brit.W.I.)"

Also in this same Volume on page 136-

"WILLIAM DURBIN sailed on Ship "Nevis Adventure"

The first documentation in Maryland is found in MHM-XXIX-274 10.13.1676 Walter Dickenson, Planter of Great Choptank, Talbot County, Maryland for 2500 lbs. of tobacco, conveys to THOMAS DURBIN, of Severne, Ann Arundel County, the 200 acres tract "Johnson" on the East side of Dickenson Branch, on the east side of Welshmans Creek, on the north side of the Potapsco River. Sarah Dickenson releases dower.

The foregoing tract is probably in what is known as the Potapsco Neck, between the Potapsco and Back Rivers. Severne is probably the town in Ann Arundel County, at the head of Severne River. It is of interest to note that Bristol, England lies on the Severne River, which has its source in Montgomeryshire, Wales. There are other references to the above conveyance, including P/A from Walter to his brother John Dickenson. Other documents say the tract "Johnson" was patented 2.3.1659/60 to John Dickenson and assigned by him to Walter Dickenson.

THOMAS DURBIN was a witness on early deeds and will. (1) 7.1.1679 for Christopher Tapley (MHM-XXX-273); (2) 6.14.1682 for Christopher Gist (MHM-XXI-246) and (3) 1696 Will of Jane Long, Baltimore (Baldwin Cal.Md.Wills II)

6.30.1688 (Liber 22- f.440 Balto.Co.) THOMAS DURBING of same County, assigned by Thomas Richardson, tract called "Hab-Nab-At-A-Venture" lying on the south (North ?) side of the Potapsco River called Jones Falls, by a Run of the said Falls, being the second run above George (Willson ?)

Hab-Nab-at-a-Venture surveyed in 1688, is near Druids Hills Park, just south of Oltons Garrison, up Jones Falls and located just north of Slaughterhouse Run and half mile east of present Garrison Road. (MHM-XVI-120)

THOMAS DURBIN, Baltimore County, Hab-Nab-At-A-Venture, 350 acres surveyed 6.30.1688 for THOMAS DURBIN, lying on North side Potapsco River and belonging to "orphants" of said Durbin. Possession 150 acres said DURBIN orphants 200 acres John Eggleston. (Maryland Rent Rolls)

From the foregoing we can surmise that THOMAS DURBIN migrated perhaps from the West Indies to Ann Arundel County prior to 1676 and moved with his family to Baltimore County after 1676 and died prior to 1720, assigned date of Rent Roll. Possibly an intermediate stop in Virginia, coming to Maryland with the large group from Virginia who came c1675.

Another Rent Roll for this tract says "Christopher Durbin heir at age".

In the following documentation, the use of the term "son-in-law" raises some confusion, as in those days the term often was used to cover step-children due to a remarriage and not in our present meaning of husband of a daughter.

Balto.Co. Wills (Part II pp.235) (10.23.1709-11.28.1709)
CHRISTOPHER DURBIN of Potapsco River, bequeaths tract "Johnson" to "my oldest son THOMAS DURBIN" and makes a further bequest to "my youngest son CHRISTOPHER DURBIN". Also names wife MARY and son-in-law SIMON CANNON. Wss: WILLIAM DURBIN

The passing of the tract "Johnson" to a son of CHRISTOPHER DURBIN (Sr) is sufficient evidence to conclude that he is a son of THOMAS DURBIN, the first named. WILLIAM DURBIN is perhaps a brother of CHRISTOPHER DURBIN Sr.

Several Baltimore County documents of these times also names this family of Durbins-1718 Will of JOHN DOWNES, Balto. Co. makes bequests to sons-in-law THOMAS DURBIN and CHRISTOPHER DURBIN and SIMON CANNON.

The possibility exists here that MARY, widow of CHRISTOPHER Sr. remarried John Downes and in his will he named three of his step children, i.e. two Durbin sons and husband of a Durbin daughter.

In 1721 William Holland of Balto Co. makes bequest to THOMAS DURBIN in his will witnessed by SAMUEL DURBIN. In 1728 ANN DURBIN was wss. will of Theophilus Jones. 1735 THOMAS DURBIN was wss. will of Richard Jones. All of these refs. are from Baldwin's Calendar of Maryland wills.

ELIZABETH DURBIN married circa 1710 married SAMUEL BURGESS of Edward. (Founders Ann Arundel Co. pp.54 says he married MRS ELIZABETH DURBIN (Colonial Families VI-363), The title of Mrs. in colonial days did not always imply a married status and sometimes referring to Missus or Mistress. It should be noted that JOHN DURBIN Sr. names his first child and daughter ELIZABETH.

The will of Thomas Eager, Balto. Co. (4.17.1708-5.3.1708) (brother of John Eager who was mentioned in will of John Downes) was Wss. by CHRISTOPHER DURBIN.

All of the various DURBINS mentioned above, around 1709 to 1721 could possibly have been sons of the first names THOMAS DURBIN- WILLIAM (1709); THOMAS (1721); SAMUEL (1721); ELIZABETH (c1710); and a JAMES DURBIN whose wife MAEGARET died 11.1720 (St.Johns Parish pp.96). The first named THOMAS DURBIN was wss. to deeds by Christopher Tapley and for Christopher Gist.

The Maryland Historical Magazine (XII-1710) shows that CHRISTOPHER DURBIN was a taxable in 1699 "south side Potapsco River Hundred".

While in the early 1700s the DURBIN family was situated in and around Baltimore County, one branch of the family settled in what is now Harford County, which was split off of Baltimore County in 1774. Another branch settled in what is now Carroll County and lived near Westminster at the juncture of Big and Little Pipe Creeks.

In addition to the early DURBINS already noted, the Parishes of St. John and St. George in present Harford Co. then in Balto. County, show -

SINE DURBIN (1-0-3-0)

From the foregoing it would appear that three generations are well documented I. THOMAS DURBIN. II. CHRISTOPHER DURBIN Sr. III. THOMAS DURBIN.

In the publication Genealogy & History, Issue 56 dated 10.6.1947 item No.9029 there is a statement that THOMAS DURBIN (III above) had a son JOHN DURBIN SR.

JOHN DURBIN SR. is well documented and his will follows-

4. DANIEL DURBIN (7.2.1725-) Married 8.11.1746
ANN MITCHELL (Scott ?)
A. SCOTT DURBIN (3.11.1747-) Twin
B. JOHN DURBIN (3.11.1747-) Twin.
5. SARAH DURBIN (4.15.1728-) St. Johns Parish records
Sarah as of "John & Martha". Since SARAH DURBIN is not mentioned in her fathers will and since the birth is recorded at St. Johns and not St. Georges where the rest of the family is noted, it is possible Sarah, is not a daughter of this JOHN DURBIN.
St. Georges Parish records a marriage of SARAH DURBIN and SAMUEL HOWELL on 9.11.1747.
6. WILLIAM DURBIN (1.26.1730-) St. Georges Parish also records this birth as of "John & Martha". However a WILLIAM is noted in the will of JOHN Sr. and as noted was bequeathed part of #Hughes Enlargement".
7. AVERILLA DURBIN (10.22.1733-) See will.
8. MARY DURBIN (12.22.1735-) See Will.
9. HANNA DURBIN (10.28.1738-) See Will.
0. RALPH DURBIN (12.18.1743) By second wife.

The references to JOHN DURBIN and his wife MARTHA brings into question the validity of the daughter SARAH and less remotely the son WILLIAM. The following refs. give some confirmation of the John and Martha marriage-

- 9.16.1755 JOHN DURBIN married RACHAEL CHILDS (St.George) and had CORNELIA (9.8.1757-)
1. 2.1759 JOHN DURBIN married ELIZABETH SMITHSON (St.George)

Estate of JOHN DURBIN. Nearest of kin MARTHA
CHILDS. Wss: George Childs.

Possibility exists that this JOHN DURBIN'S widow MARTHA remarried a George Childs.

SAMUEL

We now turn to a contemporary SAMUEL DURBIN b.pl704 who is generously documented and lived near Westminster in present Carroll county Md.

I. SAMUEL DURBIN (pl704-1752). Married 7.4.1723 ANN LOGSDON of William and Honor O'Flynn, (See my History Logsdon Family) recorded St.Pauls Church at Baltimore. Called "of Little Pipe Creek Hundred" which just West of Westminster Carroll co. 1729 Appointed Overseer of Road which included the "Old Garrison Road" near Owings Mills and Pikeville. 9.19.1729 Wm.Logsdon deeded to his "beloved daughter ANN DURBIN" a 100 acres tract PLEASANT GREEN lying on North side Potapscow River. The deed states tract includes "houses, outhouses, barns, stables, tobacco sheds, orchards, fences etc etc". The tract lay roughly between the branches of Great Pipe Creek and Little Pipe Creek in Carroll County, just west of Westminster.

It is to be recalled that until 1836 Frederick County, extended East to Baltimore County and it was only through the efforts of Col. JOSHUA GIST, that the present County of Carroll was formed in that year. The Durbin records up to 1836 are found in Frederick County as a date line.

Frederick County WB-A-1-78 (9.19.1752-10.23.1752) Will of SAMUEL DURBIN. Died posseses of tracts COBBS CHOICE-150 acres. 100 acres bequaethed to son WILLIAM "in lieu of Pleasant Green" and 50 acres on which the home plantation to son SAMUEL DURBIN. Bequeaths live stock to son JOHN and daughters MARGARET and ANN and directs balance of Estate to "other children". All bequests subject to life tenure by wife ANN LOGSDON DURBIN, who reported to Court 8.20.1754 that "no distribution to heirs" had been made. ~~WSS THOMAS LOGSDON~~
Will of ANN LOGSDON DURBIN WB A-1-320 (7.8.1770-10-5.1770) makes provisions for her 13 children. His Will witnessed by THOMAS LOGSDON her brother, while her will witnessed by JOHN and WILLIAM LOGSDON also her brothers. As was customary in those days Wills listed sons first, chronologically and then daughters in same order. ANN DURBIN names-

From the records of St. Pauls Church, Baltimore, we are able to document the birth dates of many of these children and from the order in the Will, to approximate the dates of the others.

I. SAMUEL DURBIN married ANN LOGSDON and had-

	3. BENJAMIN DURBIN	3.30.1748

In the study of the successive generations of DURBINS it would seem that there is a family leaning toward naming the successive generations after the previous generation, with the same given names handed down generation after generation. Taking for example the children of JOHN DURBIN SR. and SAMUEL DURBIN.

Children of Samuel Durbin		Children of John Durbin Sr.
John	4th.Son	John	1st.Son
Thomas	3rd.Son	Thomas	2nd.Son

Sarah	1st.Dau.	Sarah	2nd.Dau
Mary	4th.Dau.	Mary	4th.Dau

Francis } Durbin

Joss } "non

If anything can be drawn from these names it is the supposition that the father of both SAMUEL and JOHN DURBIN Sr. was possibly a THOMAS DURBIN, perhaps the first named in Maryland. Due to name of first son William-2, Samuel may possibly be son of William Durbin.

The Children of SAMUEL DURBIN and ANN LOGSDON

1. SARAH DURBIN b.9.19.724 (St.Pauls Church,Balto.pp.57)
Married a McKENZIE. This family inter-married with the LOGSDONS and DURBINS to a limited extent. The emigrant McKENZIE was said to be a full blooded Scot and wore the "Blue Bonnet" and settled in the Blue Ridge Mountains. DANIEL McKENZIE was one of the original settlers in present Carroll County and he settled in the neighborhood of Middleburg which is about 11 miles due west of Westminster.

2. WILLIAM DURBIN (1.4.1726-) St. Pauls Church record pp.57. Married MARY POULSON whose family were original settlers in Carroll county, Md. and lived in the neighborhood of New Windsor, about halfway between Westminster and Middleburg. 1758 Signed a Petition to Assembly to create a new Parish (subsequently All Saints Parish) in Fredk.Co. 1765 owned tract FATHERS CARE adjoining tract GOODFELLOWSHIP owned by his Uncle THOMAS LOGSDON. 1777 Member of the Committee on Observation, Fredk.Co. Md. 1789 was Wss. to purchase tract PEACH BRANDY FOREST by William Logsdon also an Uncle. 1790 Census records MARY DURBIN, perhaps the relict of WILLIAM DURBIN with 2-1-3. He was bequeathed 100 acre tract COBBS CHOICE by his father. He "lived and died in Frederick county", while many of his brothers migrated to Ky. Sharff's History states -

"DURBINS was a stopfor the Methodist Minister Rider in 1774.....not far from Pipe Creek lived WILLIAM DURBIN, who with his wife joined the Methodists in 1768 and their home was a stand for Preaching.....their son JOHN DURBIN was a traveling Proacher in the early 1800s....they erected the STONE CHAPEL in 1783 which was a Pharos for Western Maryland Methodism for several decades. STONE CHAPEL antedates the Methodist Episcopal Church organization in America, STONE CHAPEL was a two story edifice with small windows and a gallery on three sides. There is, in the front, high up next to the apex, a tablet on which are- first three stars, then the initials 'J.D.' (Jesse Durbin), below next an Eagle, and the initials 'B.B'(Benjamin Bennett)"

While we have no recorded son named JESSE DURBIN it is possible the inititals stood for JAMES and not JESSE. They had 5 sons and 6 daughters.

- A. WILLIAM DURBIN (1.15.1749-8.28.1820) married 1769 MARGARET BRUCE (1.1.1749-7.5.1808) probably daughter of NORMAN BRUCE, pioneer settler in the Middleburg district. The 1790 Census lists a WILLIAM DURBIN 2-4-6. He was probably the WILLIAM DURBIN listed as a Pvt. in Capt. Thomas Norriass's Frederick County Company. He is buried in the Durbin plot at Westminster. His Will (HS-2-393) (8.22.1820-10.30.1820) makes disposition of a large estate. They had-

It is a sad thing to contemplate that at the death of WILLIAM DURBIN in 1820, of his 11 children, only 3 (William, Ruth & Nicholas) were still living. During year 1805-6-7-8 he witnessed the death of 8 of his 11 children, nearly all in their early twenties.

B. JOHN DURBIN who was Scharff's "traveling preacher" and we have record of his migrations to Louisiana, Cape Girardeau, Mo., Grayson co. Ky., 1827 in Sangamon co. Ill on Horse Creek and finally on Bear Creek in Christain County, Ill. He was possibly the JOHN DURBIN who married a daughter of THOMAS LOGSDON and was the progenitor of the Kentucky line of "Stumpy" JOHN DURBIN so called because of frozen feet. If this JOHN DURBIN is the one who married daughter of THOMAS LOGSDON (suppositional due to both fathers owing adjoining tracts) they had-

JOSIAH WILSON (1799-a1880)

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

The Wilsons were originally natives of Scotland. The grandfather of the writer was the oldest of the family, with whom I was personally acquainted. His name was John Wilson who resided near Lexington, Massachusetts. On the 19th of April, 1775, when the detachment of the British troops passed his house on their march to Concord, he mounted his horse and armed with his gun helped to annoy them throughout that memorable day and escaped with his horse slightly wounded. His wife, Susannah with her three children, John, William and Susan, attempted to escape, but a British officer called to her not to be alarmed and added, "Your two boys will make good soldiers for King George". She was keeping a grocery which the soldiers entered and destroyed its contents consisting of rum, molasses, sugar, provisions, etc. She lived to an advanced age and I have often listened while she related the thrilling scenes of the battle which came under her observation; also details connected with the battle of Bunker Hill and the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga. My grandfather also spoke of the war of the Revolution, but he died when I was five years old and was the first corpse I ever saw. His last words were, "If I had the whole world, it would be nothing to me". All the incidents connected with his death and funeral are as fresh in my memory now as those of any scenes of the same kind I have since witnessed. At his decease he had six children, John - who married Lydia Meek and had John, Lydia, Sarah and Susan; Willie, who married Elizabeth Rand and had Josiah, born Nov. 4th, 1799, Martha born Oct. 12th, 1801, Seth Webber born Dec. 22nd, 1803; Levina born Sept. 14th, 1805; Mary born Aug. 2nd, 1807; William, born Oct. 11th, 1811; Leonard, born Jan. 10th, 1813; Elizabeth born Nov. 29th, 1814, Sarah, born Aug. 22nd, 1817; Charles, born Sept. 21st, 1819 and Susan born Apr. 19th, 1823. Susan who married Lot Wheelwright in 1797, and had John, Lot, Josiah, Susan, William and Charles. Rebecca who married Edward Chamberlin in 1800 and had Rebecca, Thomas, Edward and Susan. Josiah, who died in 1836 age 72 years, was never married.

My Father and Mother were married Feb. 10th, 1799. I have often heard him speak of the beautiful appearance of the British Troops in their red coats at Lexington in 1775. He served as a soldier at Fort Warren in Boston Harbor in the war of 1812. My Grandfather, Solomon Rand was at the battle of Bunker Hill and at the surrender of Gen'l. Burgoyne. I have often heard him relate how at Bunker Hill when he had fired his last cartridge, Maj. Pitcairn - a splendid British officer - mounted the embankment, waived his sword and cried, "Come on brave boys we have the d--rebels prisoners". A soldier on Grandpa's left, placed the muzzle of his gun within six feet of Pitcairn and shot him through the heart. He would get joyfully excited in describing the manner in which Gen'l. Burgoyne surrendered his splendid sword to Gen'l. Gates at Saratoga in 1776.

The earliest incident of my childhood which I remember was the birth of sister Martha in 1801. Mother soon taught me to sit in the cradle with Martha and rock by swaying myself to and fro. I also recollect a snow storm in December 1801 when Father and a neighbor,

Mr. Robbins shot a bear and came dragging it through the snow and, having skinned the bear, Mother cooked some of it and I ate and found it good. I remember a total eclipse of the sun in 1805 and about that time I got drunk for the first time. The minister, Rev. Mr. Payson, had called to make a pastoral visit and Father invited him to step into the "best room", set out his bottles of rum and brandy, a pitcher of water and bowl of sugar. Father and Mr. Payson each took a glass tumbler, held them up to the light to pour out the proper quantity of rum, to which they added water and sugar and bowing to each other, exclaimed "your good health" and swallowed the contents, returned to the kitchen. Mr. Payson soon mounted his horse and departed. After they were gone, I let sister Martha into the best room, closed the door, filled the tumblers in the same manner Father and Mr. Payson did, drank the contents of one, gave the other to Martha; she tasted but refused to drink so I swallowed it and soon felt that I was the biggest toad in the puddle, hurrawed and danced, but soon fell down insensible and when I awoke to consciousness, saw father and mother standing over me. They told me as that was the first time, they would pardon me, but if I ever got drunk again they would give me a severe whipping; but they allowed me to partake with them daily of what "would do me good" and during the last five years I lived with them, I got tight more than a hundred times but never got the whipping they promised me. They would get happy, but never laid down to it as I did. My Uncle John died a drunkard at forty years old and Uncle Josiah also died a confirmed inebriate. No one in those days attempted housekeeping without liquor and tobacco.

My first going to school was one mile alone and having been told repeatedly that an animal named "raw-head" and "bloody bones" carried off bad boys, I ran my best both to and from school. Mother had taught me to read the bible before I attended school; also taught me to read the old English catechism, together with many hymns and other poetry. Father also taught me to repeat many patriotic songs in praise of Gen'l. Washington and his soldiers of the war of the Revolution. When I was fourteen, a hired man Joel Arnold taught me the use of tobacco which I found more difficult to master than alcohol, as the former had to be taken without trimmings, while the latter could be adulterated with water and sugar. I remained a slave to alcohol twenty-nine years and to tobacco fifty-six years. Alcohol was the means of throwing me into bad company with whom I would not associate except when under its influence and who led me into vice, immorality and wickedness. My school privileges were limited, being the oldest of a large family of children, I could not be spared to exceed two months in each year; but I improved every spare moment day and night over my lessons and at eighteen, passed an examination and obtained a certificate under the laws of Massachusetts to teach spelling, reading, writing, geography, grammar and arithmetic and taught in 1818. I also obtained a like certificate in Ohio from 1830 to 1835, A.G. Brown being examiner and E.H. Moore and Jacob Lash two of my best pupils. During my school days I never met but one person who excelled me in the above-named branches and that person was Abigail Morse, who could head me in spelling but no other branch.

Living only twenty-five miles from Boston where my Uncle Josiah Wilson lived - who owned and commanded a large ship - also Uncles Wheelwright and Chamberlain, who were doing a large business at shipbuilding, and my cousins, John, Lot, Thomas, Josiah and Edward. I used frequently to visit, go on board their ships, partake of their high priced liquors and being promised by them if I would enter as a common sailor "before the mast" and do my best at qualifying myself for two years, they would give me command of one of their ships at One Hundred and Fifty Dollars per month and rations. As I was engaged to be married to Abigail Morse, I told them that I preferred farming, but finally yielded to their importunities and in Oct., 1819, shipped on board their "Mary & Susan", Capt. Campbell and sailed for Liverpool. I had studied navigation thoroughly and having a quadrant, took an observation of the sun each day and showed Capt. Campbell and the two mates, Ed Candler and Rob Wheelwright, that I could keep latitude as correctly as they could. As "all hands" knew I wished to qualify myself for a Captain, they considered it for their interest to keep me ignorant and discouraged me from going to sea, but that made me exert the more energy to improve and in twenty days I found that I could do many things which no one suspected I could do; but they knew I could stand as big a ration of grog as any of them. They also saw I was very active when "aloft" where I spent much time. On the evening of the 24th day after leaving Boston, a sailor on the foretop sail yard sang out "land ho", Capt. Campbell sang out "where away", the answer was "two points off the larboard bow". Seizing his sky glass, Capt. Campbell ascended to the fore topmast cross-trees and sang out "Cape Clear Ireland". That night it came on to blow and rain and all hands were called to "shorten sail". I had fixed myself at the weather main shrouds, determined to show them that "greeny Jo" could do a thing or two, soon Capt. called out "are all ready?" Mr. Candler, Chief Mate answered "All ready, Sir". "Then take in the three Royals and send them down on deck." Myself and two others answered "aye, aye, sir". I sprang on the railing and up the main rigging at the top of my speed until I came to the main Royal up on the top gallant cross-trees and fluttering violently in the wind, I furled it and made it fast to the guard with the gaskets, cast off the sheets and made them fast to the cross-trees, stoppered out the halyards and roared out "sway away the main royal, Sir". Capt. Campbell replied from the deck, "Aye, aye" and in one minute was called on to sway away both the mizzen and fore royals and I found the main one swayed so I could reach the starboard brace and clew line which I cast off and made fast to the cross-trees and sang out "Lower away, please" till the larboard brace and clew line came within reach, which I cast off and made fast to the cross-trees; seized the royal, twisted my arms and legs around the top gallant back-stay and sang, "Out lower away, Sir" and found myself slowly sliding down the back-stay. The ship was rolling heavily and I sang out, "lower faster, Sir, please" and I soon found myself and the royal in a bunch on the deck. Capt. Campbell sang out, "Well done, Jo, one minute ahead of the mizzen and two ahead of the fore". All hands at once quit abusing and commenced flattering me and promised when we got to Liverpool to introduce me to some of the most beautiful girls I ever saw. I thanked them that I had seen as handsome girls as they had and could paddle my own canoe among the girls. The next day we arrived at Holeyhead, took a pilot and proceeded up the river Mersey to Liverpool where everything appeared strange and odd to me. Instead of lying beside a wharf as at Boston, the ships at high tide (which rose about twenty feet instead of eight feet as at Boston) were hauled into a dock and the gates closed, where they lay on a level with the quay convenient for discharging or receiving freight at all times.

I was astonished at the venerable, solid and staunch look of all I saw and the height of the buildings, the large Norman horses, the blooded Durham and Devon cattle, the hedge fences, rich and highly cultivated lands and dense population, the number of red-coated soldiers, sailors and marines - many of them minus arms, legs, noses, etc., the fruits of their wars with Spain, France, United States, the East Indies, etc. The people generally appeared healthy, but the girls were not so beautiful or accomplished as the Yankee girls I left at home. No fire being allowed on the docks, all hands boarded on shore and were fed on beef, potatoes and strong beer or ale, but no tea or coffee. In two weeks we had discharged our cargo of American produce and taken on board a full cargo of cotton and woollen goods and sailed for Charleston with twenty-five passengers, all slave holders, but not a negro as they could not take slaves to England, all would be free on landing on British soil. We had sixty-two days passage to Charleston. Six of the passengers were ladies, none could cook or do a thing for themselves, were sea-sick most of the time and miserable. Capt. Campbell told me if I would wait on those miserable women, he would excuse me from ship duty. I consented and soon found myself with superior grub, the best of wines and liquors with many thanks from the women and a good time generally. Among the passengers was Mary Bethune, a beautiful girl 18 years of age who had lost both her parents and was under the protection of her Uncle and Aunt. I used to carry her on deck every day to breathe the pure air. She improved rapidly and we soon became fast friends. One day she invited me to call on her at her plantation six miles from Charleston where she had an elegant house furnished in best style and over two-hundred servants. Of course I called on her and found everything as she had stated and nothing but a previous engagement prevented me from becoming a slave-holder and soldier in the Confederate Army during the war of the Rebellion from 1861 to 1865. In about a month we had discharged our cargo and taken in a full load of cotton and sailed for Liverpool. In Charleston, I had my first experience in slavery. Saw men, women and children sold at auction, but thought it all right as Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Gen'l. Marion and Sumpter believed it so. I supposed slavery would endure forever, but have lived to see it abolished and washed away in rivers of blood never to be restored; and, although the colored citizens are still kept in a partial state of vassalage, their condition will gradually improve until they become capable of enjoying the same liberty as the white citizens.

Being loaded with cotton and a fair wind, the "Mary and Susan" arrived in Liverpool in twenty-two days during which I learned to steer the ship and keep the longitude as well as latitude. I had the friendship of the officers who encouraged me in intemperance, bad company in Liverpool and encouraged me in the hope of soon being addressed as Capt. Wilson. We discharged the cotton, took a cargo of dry goods and sailed for Boston where we arrived in forty-six days. I jumped on the wharf, ran to a stage coach (no railroads at that time) reached my father in four hours, stopped a few minutes, then ran half a mile to Dea Moses, took "Nabby" by the hand and found her quite pretty, and much improved in appearance during my absence. She had rounded up into the shape of a young woman and splendid eyes and erect and elegant figure and nothing to mar her beauty but a superabundance of nose. I remained with her a month and upon returning to Boston found the "Mary & Susan" had sailed, so I shipped on another of my Uncle Wheelwright's ships, the "Susan" as second mate. Her Captain Wallace proved to be conceited, tyrannical, drunken and ignorant, not so good a seaman or navigator as the chief mate, Mr. Leavitt or myself. We sailed for Liverpool but he lay drunk in his cabin most of the time, ordered the cook to put all but himself on half-rations and the mate to keep all hands on deck at work night and day without sleep. He kept no reckoning but would alter the ship's course and curse the mate and me for prolonging the voyage. Finally in fifty-seven days we saw a light at night which Wallace demanded of Mr. Leavitt, then of me, "What light is that?" We said it was on Bardsay Island at the mouth of Carnaevoon Bay in Wales. At daylight he called it Holy Head light-house and ordered the ship steered into the bay, calling it the river Mersey and sailed on with a fair wind and heavy sea rolling into the Bay until he came to the end of it and within a mile of perpendicular rocks two-hundred feet high on which the ship was drifting. He then got frightened and ordered her ready about, but it fell calm and the ship would not obey her helm, so he had all the sails furled and she drifted slowly toward the rocks while he fell on his knees and commenced praying "O Lord have mercy on my soul, mercy on my soul." I and all hands expected our last hour had come, all looked pale and I felt my knees tremble. In twenty minutes we were within one-fourth of a mile of the rocks, not a word was spoken except Wallace's prayer, in which I and all hands afterwards confessed joined mentally. Soon all but the Captain felt a light breeze from shore. Mr. Leavitt ordered the sails set, the ship turned around, the wind increased and soon we were safely out of Carnaevoon Bay by the same route we entered. We thanked God for our deliverance. When we arrived at Liverpool, I found my Uncle Capt. Josiah Wilson with his good ship the "Octavia" awaiting a fair wind in order to sail for Charleston and immediately transferred myself from the "Susan" to the "Octavia", retaining the position of second mate. The crew numbered twenty-one, a Captain, first mate, second mate, steward, cook and sixteen seamen. I found myself more pleasantly situated than I had been on any previous voyage. The first mate, Mr. Guy Parsons, like myself was a farmer boy and born in the same county. His education was better than mine or the Captain's and after having had five year's practice was the best navigator and sailor on board the ship. A good understanding and confidence existed between the Captain, Mr. Parsons and myself; but alas, it was the old, old story, we were all slaves to alcohol and tobacco with the vices that always attended them among men who roam through the world beyond the sanctifying influences of a virtuous home; but we always managed to keep one of the three sober to manage the ship.

A ship's company is always divided equally into what are termed the larboard and starboard watches. The first mate commands the starboard and the second mate the larboard watch. Each watch has four hours on deck and four below; but from 8 A.M. to 4 P.M. all hands are on deck and when a gale sets in, sometimes all hands are required on duty the whole time for several days. When a light breeze prevails all sails are hoisted, as the wind increases the four studding sails, the three royals, flying jib, spanker and three top gallant sails are next taken by the watch on deck. If the gale increases all hands are called and the Captain takes command. The main sail is next taken in and then the fore-sail and three top sails are close-reefed. If the ship still rolls and plunges too much, the top sails, foresails and stay sails are furled and she goes under bare poles. No look out for the big waves rolling over the deck and all hands soaked in brine till the gale abates and sails hoisted in the same order as before.

During the twelve months succeeding my going on board, the "Octavia" made eight trips across the Atlantic between Liverpool and Charleston and one from Liverpool to New York, in which nothing uncommon took place and but few adventures except those always connected with a seafaring life. One night when I had charge of the deck and we were going with a ten-knot breeze of a ship just ahead and gave the order "hard up helm", which was instantly obeyed by the man at the wheel and the ship's course was changed and we missed the wreck by a few feet; had we struck the wreck, the Octavia would have sunk in ten minutes. On another occasion we were lying-to under bare poles, the ship got with her side to the waves, when a huge one rolled over her deck, burying her so that all hands were strangled and some nearly drowned, breaking the railing and cook house and washing every loose thing into the sea. But the most serious calamity by and at the expense of the Captain - who had given us orders not to call all hands in the night without awakening him. One night about 1 o'clock, Mr. Parsons awoke me by saying, "For God's sake, Wilson, wake the Captain or we will sink in ten minutes, I have tried and can't awake him". I ran to the Captain, called and shook him but no answer. I ran on deck told Parsons he was drunk and that he must command, called all hands, Parsons ordered let go all the halyards now, down came the sails fluttering and tearing; now lay aloft and furl them before the masts go overboard. We all tried the main topsail, first it was strong and not torn and flapped over the yard so no one could go out on it. I went to the mast-head, wound my arms around the lift and slid down the end of the yard and spilled the wind out so the men came out and furled the sail. In about an hour we had taken in sail, so she began to go along easier; but it took twenty-four hours to get things straight, the damage to sails, spars and rigging being over Two Hundred Dollars. At breakfast he ordered Mr. Parsons not to wait for him again and me never to slide down the lift again.

In Sept. 1821, while we were taking on freight in Liverpool, my great Uncle Capt. Seth Webber - 74 years old, whom my brother now living in Marshfield was named for, and who by Will bequeathed to my said brother a farm which sold for Three Thousand Dollars - arrived in Liverpool with his large ship "Sally". He was dangerously sick and taken to his costly home where he died in about four weeks. His wife, a worthy woman, resided in one of his splendid houses in Boston. He also had an infamous woman by the name of Mary Ward in his Liverpool house, who for many years he had supported in silks and jewelry in the same style as he did his wife in Boston. I called on him and he begged me not to inform his wife how matters stood and I never did. He willed his wife $25,000 and she married a Doctor Farnsworth a few months after Capt. Webber's death. I was in Liverpool one Fourth of July and all the American ships had their colors flying. A party of English sailors boarded an American ship and attempted to haul down the stars and stripes. The American rallied in defence of the flag and a free fight inaugurated in which I took part and had the honor of being slightly wounded. A strong police force finally quieted the belligerents. In Charleston one night, two drunken sailors came on board and commenced cutting each other with their knives. I undertook to part them and got my clothes badly cut. I pounded and kicked them to my heart's content. In Oct. 1822, we arrived in New York and found the yellow fever raging and the lower half of the city deserted. The pilot took us up the Hudson River and landed us at Barclay Street. Soon as the ship was made fast to the wharf, every man except Mr. Parsons and myself begged the Captain to discharge and pay them. He complied and in a half an hour they were gone. The ship had a full cargo of drygoods consigned to more than twenty different firms in the City. Captain, told Mr. Parsons and myself, if we would stay by the ship until she was discharged, he would see we were both promoted. We agreed and he left at once for Boston. In the meantime, yellow-fever spread and we had to move further up the river and it was two weeks before we got the last package of goods receipted for. I then took passage in a sloop for Boston with my big sea chest and in six days reached Boston, called on Lot Wheelwright and Son, who gave me command of the ship, "Susan", so the goal of my abition was at last reached. I went to Marlborough and found my affianced more desirable than ever and in about two weeks I had decided to get married and to move near Rochester, N. Y. and go to farming. I went to Boston and notified Lot Wheelwright & Son and Capt. Wilson of my intentions. My Cousin, Josiah Wheelwright with a partner named Hayden were engaged in a large boot and shoe store and persuaded me to go to Charleston, S.C., with a large stock of boots and shoes where I arrived in November and remained till the sickly season in May, and made a profitable trip. In August, 1823, arrived in New Haven with a sloop load of boots, shoes and leather, opened a store and business increased, so that in a short time I had to hire a clerk; but my old master alcohol clung to and increased his power over me and I chose for my companions those whose opinions coincided with my own. My clerk not pleasing me, I discharged him in January, 1824, took a partner Mr. Grove Smith and we bought out Hayden & Wheelwright and commenced. Smith had a wife and child, was a practical shoe man of pleasing address, a good salesman, but would consume more than twice the amount of liquor that I did. We joined the Free-Masons, the Greys - a crack military company - and were very public-spirited in order to draw custom. Lafayette visited New Haven and we took dinner with him. I arranged to be in Marlborough April 11th, 1825 to be married. Had rented and furnished a small house and on April 13th commenced house-keeping. Thus, after a courtship of ten years, succeeded in obtaining a wife who has lasted more than fifty-five years and bids fair to survive me. The time is long, but all is so changed that it is difficult for me to realize that I am not dreaming. For a year after our marriage, business was prosperous, we took four apprentices, Smith boarding two and I two; but Smith was sued for an old debt of $400.00 and had to take his money out of the business, which was a serious loss to us. I got a situation in a grocery store for my wife's brother, Gardner Morse in 1825. He stills resides in New Haven where he has buried three wives and has nine children, most of them married. On April 13th, 1826, our first child was born. We named him William Stephen after his two Grandfathers. He married Amada Day April 8th, 1847, and had six children. Charles Gardner, Josiah Hastings, Webber Alphonzo, Ollie, Harriet Almeria and Frankie Abigail. Charles Gardner and Harriet Almeria died, so did their Mother. He married for his second wife, Abbie Whipple. His son, Josiah Hastings married Lottie Hammond and his won Webber Alphonzo married Susie Burlingame and each had three children. He served in the army from 1861 to 1865 and was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel. In 1827, Lot Wheelwright & Son failed, their ships, houses, shoe store were seized and were sold. William drowned himself. His mother and Joseph (his brother) died from grief, and old Lot died in 1828. I went to Lynn, Mass. and employed journeymen to manufacture shoes for a firm in New York, leaving Smith to manage. In three months he failed and all our effects sold by the Sheriff. He died a few months later. I sent for my wife and baby and they joined me in Lynn where on March, 1828, our son Joseph Gardner was born and he died at Newark, O., Oct. 13th, 1829. July 4th, 1830 was an important day to me. On that day, C. Newhall, B. Breed and myself with our wives and children and John Chick left Lynn at 6 o'clock A.M. in a sail boat for an excursion in Boston Bay. We were all hard drinkers and of course laid in a full supply of liquors and other delicacies. The day was fine, a good breeze, a good time. We landed at home all happy and the men quite tight. Before landing I said, I will never drink another drop of intoxicating liquor. I have kept my word.

In Dec. 1829, Mr. John Chick and myself took passage in a schooner from Boston and in seven days arrived in Baltimore. We found the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad finished only twelve miles from Baltimore and concluded to walk on the national road 288 miles to Wheeling. We found our baggage heavy and upon arriving at South Mountain (since the scene of a battle in which one of my sons I left in Lynn participated), we forwarded our baggage to Wheeling and remained with a worthy Dutch family ten days working for wages and receiving particular attention from two plump Dutch girls, but Mr. Chick reported that I had a wife and two children, so I had to let him monopolize both. After a brisk walk of eight days we reached Wheeling and took passage on a queer steamer from which we were landed at Harmar, and having letters of introduction to Judge Cutler from his brother in Lynn, we walked to his house six miles and were cordially welcomed by the Judge and his interesting family; who after learning that we had but little money, advised us to settle on the College lands. So we started over the hills, which appeared small to us in contrast with the Allegheny Mountains we had just passed over. That night we arrived at the house of Mr. James Dickey and on explaining the object of our visit met with a cordial reception and were surprised to find so much intelligence in a log cabin, as was exhibited by himself and family. After learning the extent of our means, he explained to us all the particulars belonging to the College lands and advised us to locate on them. Mrs. Dickey proved to be an agreeable talker and a better cook (as far as my knowledge extends) than her daughters or granddaughters. The next night we were entertained at Barnett Brice's Hotel in Athens, and having letter to Mr. John Purington at Wilksville, we started for that place, taking care to examine all the College lands we found for sale as we passed along where Hebbardsville and Albany have since sprung up; and that night at Wilksville decided to move to Ohio and the next morning started for Lynn, stopping at and buying John Burley's improvement on Moore's Run four miles from Athens for $125.00. On arriving at Judge Cutlers we found the Ohio river full of ice; we crossed over, and over a rough road or path we walked through Grafton, Prunty-town, etc. to the tomb of Gen'l. Washington at Mt. Vernon "On broad Potomac's azure tide"; spent a day in Washington, called on Gen'l. Jackson at the White House, listened to a speech from Calhoun in the Senate and to one from Foote in the House; saw Webster, Clay, Benton and their contemporaries, walked to Baltimore, took passage on a schooner for Providence, R.I., A strong gale blew us off from the coast into the gulf stream and for three days we had it rough and tumble. The Captain got frightened and said he did not understand navigation and did not know what course to steer. At noon I took an observation of the sun and knowing the current set four knots per hour, I took the helm, headed the schooner W.N.W. and told Captain to run her that course 220 miles and he would see the light on Montauk Point. Of course it came out as I had predicted and he offered me $40.00 per month to remain with him. From Providence we walked to Lynn, 48 miles, arriving there Feb. 15th. I found my wife and two boys in good health and went to work at once with good wages. During the summer my wife and boys visited Marlborough and our friends in Boston, including Capt. Wilson, who had quit going to sea and was house-keeping with his aged brother in splendid style. He said he envied me my wife and boys. I replied, "You ought to be ashamed that you have not a wife and ten children". On the 22nd day of September, 1830, I put my family and 1500 pounds of baggage in a wagon, and Mr. Chick put in 1800 pounds and led out Jane Stone and helped her in, which was the first intimation any one had that they were married. We put the whole on a sloop bound for New York, so they spent their honeymoon on the raging billows. In beating over the frying-pan shoal of Cape Cod, the sloop struck several times and alarmed me, but Captain knew the channel and took her safely over. When off N. Haven William while playing on deck was caught while falling over-board, but I could have jumped after him and saved him. On arriving at New York, we all got into a canal boat and paid our fare to Buffalo. A steam tug took us up the Hudson River to Albany. From thence we went via Erie Canal to Buffalo, where we embarked on a large steamer and had a very rough passage to Cleveland, where we paid our fare to Newark on a good canal boat. Josiah was sick with an affection of the lungs when we left Cleveland. I had a physician come on the boat to prescribe for him, but he told us he could not live but a few days. These were the most mournful words that ever reached my ears at that time. We sat by him night and day and were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Chick, the Captain and passengers, but he continued to fail from hour to hour. We arrived at Newark on the evening of the 19th of Oct., 1830, went to a tavern and the next morning at seven o'clock while the others, Mr. and Mrs. Chick and our sympathisers were at breakfast, he breathed his last in my arms, leaving a void in my heart which never can be filled. A coffin was procured and a strong box to enclose it in. A Methodist Minister preached an eloquent discourse from the text, "Suffer little children to come unto me", a hymn, "Why do we mourn by dying, friends" was sung and at 4 o'clock P.M. we committed to earth all that remained of our dear little Josiah Gardner. The next morning we hired a man with three stout horses and a covered wagon and started with heavy hearts; stayed at Logan that night in a large log cabin, the only tavern in the place. The next day we passed Bingham's Mill and Nathan Goodspeed's and through the fields to our destination, where we found Burley in possession. Put our goods in a barn and occupied the small cabin with his family for a few days, then reminded him that he agreed to vacate the first of October. He swore he would stay until March. We served a notice on him in forcible retainer and he left before the expiration of the nine days. In the meantime, Mr. David Moore had circulated a paper and obtained 26 scholars at $1.50 each for me to teach for three months from Nov. 1st. I went to Athens, fording the river at Coates' Ferry (there being no bridges over Hocking at that time) and was examined as before stated by Judge H. G. Brown. The school room was a small rough cabin with greased paper for lights and a logheap fire was kept up and I never saw a school so industrious and improve so rapidly as they did. E. H. Moore managed to get ahead of the others by spending the evenings at my house and pumping me carefully, he managed to get out of me all that I knew. His brothers and sisters and Mrs. Lashes' family also distinguished themselves; in fact, there was not a dull one in school.

When Mr. Chick and myself had bought each a cow for eight dollars a head, wheat for a year's supply at 3 1/2 cents per bu. and pork for some time at 3 cents per pound, we had nothing left to buy a team; so we got in a crop of corn, potatoes, etc. in the spring by each exchanging work with John M. Hibbard and getting the use of his team; so we raised a good crop in 1831, one item of which was a very fair boy on the 13th of October, on which occasion he exhibited a determination to have his own notions in doing things. He liked to study, was a diligent scholar, industrious, never rapid, always reliable and when ten years old, expressed a desire to be an M.D. and soon got to read medical works. He formed a partnership with an old M.D. and commenced practice in Monroe County. On Nov. 20th, 1855, he was married to Harriet Dickey and commenced house-keeping and practiced at Harrisonville. They had five children, Charles Augustus, born Aug. 15th, 1856, Mary H. born Apr. 18th, 1858, William Austin, born Aug. 28th, 1860, Ellen Samavia, born Dec. 24th, 1862, John Gardner, born Jan. 24th, 1866. Ellen Samavia died March 1st, 1865. In 1859 they moved to Albany where he practiced until the breaking out of the war in 1861 when he entered the army as Assistant Surgeon in the 75th Reg. Ohio V.I. where he distinguished himself and was promoted to Post Surgeon, served in West and East Virginia, at Gettysburgh, at Charleston S.C. and in Florida and when discharged from the army ranked among the most skillful surgeons in the land. Being of an economical turn, he saved a handsome fortune; most of which is invested in real estate, which at half what it cost him, will make him the richest Wilson I ever knew. He was sick at Washington City and sent word home that he was going to die, when his wife at the risk of her own life went to him and soon raised him to his feet again. In 1872, he took stock in the National Surgical Institute and has since that time been employed at the branches in Indianapolis, San Francisco, or at Atlanta. His four children are naturally no more smart or intelligent than their relatives, but having superior advantages and being diligent scholars, they are the best educated Wilsons' of which I have any knowledge. In March, 1832, I moved where Hebbardsville now stands and occupied a cabin which long ago disappeared, and rented on shares a portion of the farm owned and occupied by Rev. E. Hibbard, a Presbyterian minister of the Calvinist School. Mr. Hibbard had a church of about 40 members and a congregation of about twice that number to whom he preached each Sunday, or rather read from a large volume of printed sermons by old English Divines which he copied, and were far superior to any of his productions and worth all he got for them which was $75.00 per year. I had quit alcohol as before stated, but still swore and indulged in other things not recommended in the Bible; but went every pleasant Sunday with my wife and two little boys, William and Charles, to hear Mr. Hibbard, conscious all the time that I could beat him at an impromptu sermon or prayer. In July, I was at Mr. Hebbard's house when Jacob McVay, one of Mr. Hebbard's elders, called and introduced a gentleman as Rev. Mr. Morgan from Tennessee, a Missionary from the Cumberland Presbyterian Church who proposed to preach in Mr. Hebbard's church the next Sunday if permitted. Mr. Morgan replied, "If I preach at all, it will be the doctrine of my church and if the people desire it, I will preach in the grove". Mr. Hebbard said, "You can have the house if you will refrain from the doctrine of Election." Mr. Morgan said no more and took his leave in the most gentlemanly manner. Sunday came and with it such a crowd of people as had never before been seen in that vicinity. Seats had been prepared in the grove, but they were insufficient and most of the people had to stand during the exercises. Mr. Morgan prayed, sang and preached and at once had the undivided attention of every person in the grove. At the close of his discourse, he invited all who desired it to come forward for prayers. About sixty went forward and now commenced a scene of confusion such as I had never witnessed except at one Methodist revival in Boston. Mr. Morgan led in prayer and such a fervent prayer as I never before heard, during which many gave glory to God for pardoned sins; among them, Nathan Kinney, a right penurious man who owned much property and died a few years ago in the old Bartlett house in Athens and was a large contributor for the support of the gospel. Mrs. Nathan Goodspeed who sat close to where I was standing began shouting and clapping her hands. Some one said, "What is the matter, sister?" The reply was, "I have belonged to the Methodist Church twelve years, my parents were Calvinists and I have always feared that I was not one of the elect. My doubts are all removed for I know all may be saved if they will and am perfectly happy." I said to her, "I too was raised a Calvinist and you see that I am not excited". She said, "I pray God that you may be excited and converted now". I gave the baby to my wife and waited to see what would come next. Just at that moment the gigantic Mr. Hebbard arose and in a commanding voice said, "My duty to God and all present requires me to inform you that the doctrine you have just heard on Election cannot be proven from the Bible", and up rose the tall form of Mr. Morgan; "Now", thought I, "We will hear a debate", but in a calm manner he said, "This is not a Cumberland Presbyterian revival, it is God's revival and I beg Christians of all denominations to unite. Get your friends converted and then let them join your own Churches." I rushed forward and fell on the ground. I attended meetings three days and nights. Mr. Morgan and others talked with me. I told them that none but God knew how wicked I had been and it would be unjust for him to forgive me. That night my wife and I carried our sleeping boys home, she lay down with them while I sat and prayed silently, and about midnight I prayed "Oh, God, send me to hell as I deserve, but, oh, give me strength to praise thee there". At that moment I became happy and rejoiced with unspeakable joy. The result of the revival was that Mr. Hebbard's Church was reduced to eight members. A Cumberland Presbyterian Church was organized with about one hundred and forty members, some eighty accessions to the Methodist, about twelve to the Free Will Baptists and eight to the Christian Church.

I had continued school teaching three months each winter with increasing success and in the spring of 1833 found myself in possession of two cows, two horses, four hogs, ten sheep and a tolerable supply of farming tools; so I bought 100 acres of College land one mile East of Albany. I had the honor of being the first temperance Justice of the Peace ever elected in Alexander. There were three distillers in the Township in full blast, but the temperance society had become strong enough to risk a contest which was a lively one and I was elected by a majority of seven votes; but the Trustees being all whiskey men declared the Election void and ordered a new one, at which I was elected by eighteen majority, which proved a death blow to drunkenness in Alexander. On the 22nd of Dec. 1832, a sprightly girl baby called on us. My wife and son Charles were the only ones at home. This was the first, but not the last occasion of the kind at which Charles has officiated. We named her Rebecca Elizabeth. She was always healthy and cheerful, became a successful school teacher, was married to Wat Webb Dec. 25th, 1862 and went with him to Nashville, Tenn., where he was a Clerk in the Q.M. Department of the Army and where they remained until the close of the war; she making herself useful in the Hospitals and was twice under fire. They moved to Boone County, Iowa, where she died June 3rd, 1878. She was the mother of five children, three of whom survive her, Susan Jemima, born and died in Nashville; Wilson Spencer; Mary Abigail; Mina and Harriet Morse, who died in Dec. 1879. Wilson and Mary are good scholars and frequently favor us with letters. Mina is well advanced also. In 1838 I sold my farm, moved to Hebbardsville and commenced storekeeping and in 1842 had a flat boat built at Athens which I loaded with pork, lard, flour, beans, etc., which I floated to New Orleans, where finding an over-stocked market, I shipped my produce and self on the ship "Girand". Capt. Rardin bound for Boston where we arrived in 26 days; I serving as Assistant Captain, mate and sailor. I reached Hebbardsville minus six months time and over seven hundred dollars in money. On the 19th of Oct. 1837, another daughter was born to us whom we named Sarah Abigail. She has had poor health from infancy, taught school some and on the 21st of Nov. 1862 was married to Sylvester Shry, then serving as a volunteer in the Army. In 1872 they secured 160 acres in Osborne County, Kansas, under the bounty law on which they resided twenty-one months, got a deed, made improvements, rented the land and returned to Vinton County, Ohio, where they now reside. On the 15th of April, 1835, our son Gardner Morse was born, he never had good health but secured a very good education, was an elegant penman, a good musician, a sharp-shooter with a rifle. In Aug. 1861, he volunteered and served (in the Company of which his brother William was Capt.) fifteen months when he was disabled and discharged and was employed as a clerk in the Quarter Masters Department ill the close of the war. He took part in four battles and is receiving a pension. In 1869 he was married to June Moler, who died in 1872 leaving an infant daughter, Jennie, who still survives. In 1877 he married Mary Daugherty, by whom he has a daughter named May. He is a traveling salesman.

In 1844 I sold out in Hebbardsville and bought in Albany where I continued merchandizing with strong competition and unprofitable results. April 7th, 1846, our daughter Susan Cordelia was born and for several years was so feeble and sickly that none thought she could live. When about six years old, her health improved and she obtained a fair education and taught school. She was the most docile of all our children and became the pet of the family. On Nov. 2nd, 1865, she was married to Harvey W. Sprague and moved to Franklin County, Ohio. In November, 1869, they removed to Pawnee County, Nebraska, where they now reside. They have had six children, five of whom are still living, to-wit: Carlton G. born Sept. 13th, 1866, Bertie W. born Dec. 25th, 1868, Robert M. born Dec. 10th, 1870, Charles C. born Aug. 3rd, 1872, Annie V. born Feb. 12th, 1876, Frank W. born Sept. 27th, 1878, Bertie W. died Jan. 9th, 1870. All their children exhibit the same docile dispositions as their parents, are industrious and persevering and a source of comfort to wife and me in our old age.

In 1852, I closed my business in Albany and bought a 123 acre piece of land near Prattsville, Vinton Co., O. on which I built a good dwelling house and made other improvements and obtained the agency for 14,000 acres, of which afforded profitable but disagreeable employment for ten years. On the breaking out of the war in 1861, I applied for a situation in the gun boat service, but was rejected by the examining Surgeon on account of age. In 1862 I colored my hair and renewed the application, but with the same result, but obtained a clerkship in the army of the Cumberland and served fifteen months. On two occasions I heard the roar of cannons in battle and on another got within one mile of the battle when the enemy retreated and I was too weak to pursue. I have now given up the hope of ever hearing the howl or whistle of missiles used in battle. I forgot to say in its proper place that in 1849, my son William took a trip over the plains to California with an ox team, passing within eighty miles of my present residence. He was absent about twenty months and returned with about Twelve Hundred Dollars in gold. He was Sheriff of Athens County from 1867 to 1870 and I served as his deputy the first six months. He was also Treasurer of Athens County from 1870 to 1874. In 1869 some of my family declared me insane and attempted to get me sent to an Insane Asylum, but failed at an expense of $50.00 to them and $5.00 to me. In March, 1871, I resigned my land agency to my son Gardner M. and moved to Pawnee County, Nebraska, and in partnership with my son-in-law H. W. Sprague, bought 160 acres, and having sold my farm in Ohio, we erected a dwelling house, set out an orchard and made other improvements. There being no Cumberland Presbyterians here, I joined the Methodist Church of which I am now a member. In Oct. 1877 some of my family again pronounced me insane and renewed their attempt to get me sent to an asylum, but failed at an expense to them of over $100.00 and to me over $20.00. In March, 1878, my wife and I gave up housekeeping and went to live with our son-in-law H.W. Sprague at Table Rock in this County. In April, 1880, he built a new house and moved us back on the farm where we are waiting and hoping for the Master to say, "It is enough, come up higher".

Thus, have I recorded a condensed account of my experience of eighty years in which I have had more blessings than afflictions, more friends than enemies, more joys than sorrows, more health than sickness. During the eighty years of my pilgrimage greater and more important changes have taken place in the world than at any other equal period since its creation. Among them the great improvements in art and science, the increase of knowledge and civilization, the introduction of steam, of Steamboats, of Railroads and Telegraph wires over the land and under the Oceans, the increase of population of the world, which in our own Nation alone amounts to forty millions, the revolution in commerce by which the United States from being the most dependent and largest importing, has become the most independent and greatest exporting nation on the globe.

In reviewing my own life, I find that I have accomplished much good, promoted much evil and committed many errors, the greatest of which is the many changes in location and pursuits. When one means failed to please, I was always prone to try another. Had I stuck to farming all my life, I would have accumulated much more property but less knowledge than I now possess. In 1872, I quit the use of tobacco after having indulged in it more than sixty years. My family record at my son William's gives further particulars.

STANSBURY GENEALOGY
Descendants of Detmar of Maryland
BY: EDITH STANSBURY DALLAM

BULLETIN #1.

According to tradition in many branches of the Stansbury family, the emigrant, Detmar, or his parents, went from Norfolk, England, to Holland, where they waited "a long time," possibly years, for a ship to sail to America. And further tradition hold that Detmar went first to Virginia, and then to Maryland where land records show that he "came in 1658," as did his wife Renscoe and son, Tobias.

Printed in the Maryland Historical Magazine of October, 1914 (Vol.9) is an article by Christopher Johnston on the "Stansbury Family." As far as can be ascertained, this article was the first widely circulated genealogy of the Maryland family other than local histories or biographical indices where family lines of individual descendants of Detmar the emigrant have been printed.

Mr. Johnston in his genealogy says that Detmar, Renscoe and Tobias "evidently" came from Germany via Holland. When Detmar made an assignment of his land rights in Maryland to Thomas Bradley in 1663, he signed his name as "Detmorus Sternberge." Mr. Johnston says that this name seems to be German, and that Renscoe "must" stand for the German or Dutch diminutive of Catherine.

In seventeenth and early eighteenth century administrative and land records, we find Detmar called Stairnber, Sterneberge and Sternbrough, while his son Tobias is called Sternberge, Stanborrow, Sternbridge, and as a member of the Grand Jury of Baltimore County in 1683 he was known as Tobias Starnborough. Tobias' wife, Sarah, administered his estate after he died in 1709, and his name in one of the administrative papers was written Standburrough. In 1714 in a bond given by Sarah to Tobias' children, Samuel and Tabitha Stansbury for their portion of their father's estate he was called Tobias Stansbury, and this name has apparently been used since by all branches of the family.

Mr. Johnston's genealogy in the Maryland Historical Magazine seems to be based primarily on original sources, land records, wills, etc. He does not mention any of the foregoing traditions, and possibly never heard them. At the end of the article he gives credit to Mrs. Walter Damon Mansfield, nee' May Novelle Stansbury, a descendant of Detmar, for placing at his disposal "much of her Stansbury collection." However, he does not mention that Mrs. Mansfield claimed descent from a certain Jonas "Stansbery" of England, and also claimed that Tobias "Stanborough" came from Norfolk, England.* Possibly Mr. Johnston did not find "proof" for these claims and was therefore justified in not perpetuating an unproved "tradition."

Tradition cannot be the foundation of good genealogy, and tradition can be most misleading. In a biographical tome of Baltimore and Baltimore County, Maryland, printed in 1897, three Stansburys, William E., Percy and Charles W., all of whom were descended from Detmar according to Mr. Johnston's genealogy and other sources, gave three different stories as to their ancestry. William's story was that "sometime in the seventeenth century, a German Count, bearing the name of William Stansbury, came to the new world to found a home and repair his fortunes." Percy's story was that he was descended from Tobias Stansbury, "a native of England, who, with three brothers, Hammond, Nathaniel and Darius, settled at Patapsco Neck, Maryland, where they owned originally about 2000 acres." Charles W. also claimed that his great-grandfather, Thomas, "was of English descent," which probably contributed to the tradition of the English origin of the family. Proof of the origin of the family is one of the results most desired by those doing research on the Stansbury genealogy.

Dear Mr. Welch:

I have been slow in answering your letter to me written in March in response to my letter asking about your very extensive research into the Logsdon family. I want again to repeat my thanks for the many answers your manuscript gives to a number of my family problems. I am glad you were happy to receive my check, which of course doesn't really begin to pay for all that I feel I have gained from your work.

Thank you also for sending your remaining Logsdon paper, which, incidentally, I do find is an exact replica of the copy of your manuscript which I had earlier received from Mr. Druhot. Since I made a xerox copy of the copy received from Mr. Druhot, this now means that I have two copies of your manuscript. I will do with it whatever you might suggest, or if you have no suggestion, I will guard your copy until there might come a day when another researcher would gain a great deal from it, and I'll then send it to him/her.

Also, thank you for the copy of "The Logues in America, and related families." A number of pages in this are helpful, and I appreciate having it. The Texas Logsdons, as related on family group sheets and apparently sent to you by Mr. Paris W. Soucks of Dallas is also interesting to study.

I think, with your permission, one of these days I will donate xerox copies of all that you have sent me to the genealogy department of our Seattle Library. I'm sure they would receive it all gladly.

Since my earlier correspondence with you I have been in touch with Mrs. Harry Centennial Logsdon of Millersburg, Ohio, and have purchased from her one of the remaining copies of Mr. Logsdon's "A History and Genealogy of the Logsdon-Kelly Families."

I have also answered some Logsdon queries and am now in touch with three other researchers who are currently working on the Logsdon families. They are Mrs. Juanita Martin of Cimarron, Kansas, Mrs. Edna Koch of Portland, Oregon, and Mr. Garold Logsdon of La Mirada, California. They all seem to be familiar with your manuscript and are using it as the backbone of their research.

So, I now feel well equipped to really fill out the Logsdon story of my family, which is very exciting. One amazing thing for me is to discover through these other researchers that I am descended three times from Wm. and Honora (O'Flynn) Logsdon, through the Durbins and the Browns. I'm equally amazed to find that I have so many long deep roots within this USA -- a fact I would never have guessed a short few years ago.

Thank you again. If you again hear from someone who is wanting information from all that you have sent me, please feel free to refer them to me.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. Harry J. Prior

MY UNCLE WILLIAM (JAMES) DIED IN THE YEAR 1760, IN THE 49TH YEAR OF HIS AGE. MY AUNT ELIZABETH DIED IN 1750 IN THE 47TH YEAR OF HER AGE.

MY UNCLE ROBERT (WITHERSPOON) WAS MARRIED TO MARY STEWART AND HAD TWO CHILDREN, MARY AND JOHN. HIS FIRST WIFE MARY DIED IN IRELAND, HE MARRIED HIS SECOND WIFE A SHORT TIME BEFORE HE LEFT IRELAND. HER NAME WAS HESTER JANE SCOTT AND (THEY) BROUGHT THE AFORESAID CHILDREN TO THIS PLACE. MY AUNT HESTER DIED IN THE YEAR 1756, ABOUT THE 40TH YEAR OF HER AGE. MY UNCLE ROBERT DIED IN 1758 IN THE 58TH YEAR OF HIS AGE. MY AUNT MARY WAS MARRIED TO DAVID WILSON AND BROUGHT TO THIS PLACE 2 CHILDREN VIZ: WILLIAM AND JOHN. MY UNCLE DAVID (WILSON) DIED IN THE YEAR 1750 ABOUT THE 50TH YEAR OF HIS AGE. MY AUNT MARY DIED IN 1765 IN THE 58TH YEAR OF HER AGE.

MY UNCLE GAVIN (WITHERSPOON) WAS MARRIED WHEN HE CAME OVER THE SEA. IT IS TO BE REMEMBERED THAT WE DID NOT ALL COME OVER IN ONE SHIP, NOR AT ONE TIME. MY UNCLES WILLIAM JAMES AND DAVID WILSON AND THEIR FAMILIES AND UNCLE

(NOTE: IN THE SAME VESSEL WITH WILLIAM JAMES, DAVID WILSON AND GAVIN WITHERSPOON, CAME ALSO JAMES ERVIN THE ANCESTOR OF ALL THAT NAME IN SOUTH CAROLINA, MISSISSIPPI AND ALABAMA. THE GORDONS OF WILLIAMSBURG WERE ALSO WITH THEM. THESE FACTS I HAD FROM MY FATHER, COL. JAMES R. ERVIN, THE SON OF COL. JOHN ERVIN. MY FATHER WAS THE GREAT-GRANDSON OF JAMES ERVIN. HE WAS BORN IN 1788 AND DIED IN 1836. THE SAME STATEMENT WAS MADE ME BY WILLIAM WILSON IN 1845. HE WAS AN ELDER IN MT. ZION CHURCH, SUMTER CO., S.C. HIS FIRST WIFE WAS THE DAUGHTER OF A MARRIAGE BETWEEN CAPT. JOHN JAMES, THE ELDER GRANDSON OF THE WILLIAM JAMES MENTIONED ABOVE, AND MARY, A DAUGHTER OF JOHN ERVIN, SR., THE ELDER, A SON OF JAMES ERVIN. FROM THIS MARRIAGE THE WILSONS OF SUMTER ARE DESCENDED. WILLIAM WILSON THE ELDER OF MT. ZION CHURCH WAS A GRANDSON OF DAVID WILSON AND MARY WITNER'SPOON--J. W. ERVIN.)

AS I SAID, WE LANDED IN CHARLESTON ABOUT THREE WEEKS BEFORE CHRISTMAS. WE FOUND THE INHABITANTS VERY KIND. WE STAYED IN TOWN UNTIL AFTER CHRISTMAS, AND WERE PUT ON BOARD OF AN OPEN BOAT WITH TOOLS AND A YEAR'S PROVISIONS AND ONE STEEL MILL. THEY ALLOWED EACH HAND UPWARDS OF SIXTEEN YEARS OLD ONE AX, ONE BOARD HOE, AND ONE NARROW HOE. OUR PROVISION WAS INDIAN CORN, RICE, WHEATEN FLOUR, BEEF, PORK, SOME RUM AND SALT. WE WERE MUCH DISTRESS IN THIS PART OF OUR PASSAGE AS IT WAS THE DEAD OF WINTER, AND WE WERE EXPOSED TO THE INCLEMENCY OF THE WEATHER DAY AND NIGHT--AND WHICH ADDED TO THE GRIEF OF ALL PIOUS PERSONS ON BOARD--THE ATHEISTICAL AND BLASPHEMOUS MOUTHS OF OUR PATRONS AND THE OTHER HANDS.

THEY BROUGHT US AS FAR AS POTATOE FERRY AND TURNED US ON SHORE WHERE WE LAY IN SAMUEL COMMANDER'S BARN FOR SOME TIME, AND THE BOARD BROUGHT HER WAY UP TO KINGSTREE, WITH THE GOODS AND PROVISIONS WHICH WAS THE FIRST BOAT THAT, I BELIEVE, EVER CAME UP SO HIGH BEFORE.

(NOTE: AS POTATOE FERRY IS ON BLACK RIVER WHICH WITH THE PEE DEE AND WACCAMAW EMPTIES INTO WINYAW BAY AT THE HEAD OF WHICH GEORGETOWN NOW STANDS, THE COURSE OF THEIR BOAT INVOLVED A VOYAGE OF AT LEAST 70 MILES ON THE SEA ALONG THE COAST, WHICH AT THAT SEASON MUST HAVE INVOLVED MUCH HARDSHIP. THE "KINGSTREE" WAS A LARGE WHITE-PINE, THE ONLY TREE OF THAT VARIETY IN ALL THAT REGION. IT TOOK ITS NAME FROM THE FACT THAT WHITE PINES IN THAT DAY, IN ALL GRANTS ISSUED, WERE EXCEPTED AND RESERVED FOR THE KING'S USE, AS THEY WERE SO NECESSARY FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF VESSELS FOR THE NAVY. A TOWN SOON SPRANG UP AT THE SPOT WHERE THE TREE STOOD WHICH RETAINS TO THIS DAY THE NAME KINGSTREE--J.W. ERVIN.)

WHILE WE LAY AT MR. COMMANDER'S OUR MEN WENT UP IN ORDER TO GET DIRT HOUSES, OR RATHER SHELTERS LIKE POTATOE HOUSES TO TAKE THEIR FAMILIES TO. THEY BROUGHT SOME FEW HORSES WITH THEM AND WHAT HELP THEY COULD GET FROM THE FEW INHABITANTS IN ORDER TO CARRY CHILDREN AND OTHER NECESSARIES UP. AS THE WOODS WERE FULL OF WATER AND SEVERE FROSTS PREVAILED, IT WAS VERY SEVERE ON THE WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

WE SET OUT IN THE MORNING AND SOME GOT NO FURTHER THAT DAY THAN MR. McDONALDS', AND SOME GOT AS FAR AS MR. PLONDENS', SOME TO JAMES ARMSTRONG'S AND SOME TO UNCLE WILLIAM JAMES. THEIR LITTLE CABINS WERE AS FULL THAT NIGHT

AS THEY COULD HOLD, AND THE NEXT DAY EVERY ONE MADE THE BEST THEY COULD TO THEIR OWN PLACE. WHICH WAS THE 1ST DAY OF FEBRUARY 1735.

MY UNCLE GAVIN WAS MARRIED TO JANET WILSON, SISTER TO DAVID AND ROBERT WILSON. THEIR FATHER'S NAME WAS WILLIAM AND THEIR MOTHER'S NAME WAS JANE WITHERSPOON, SISTER TO MY GRANDMOTHER. SHE DIED SHORTLY AFTER MARRIAGE LEAVING NO CHILDREN. HE AFTERWARDS MARRIED JANE JAMES, A DAUGHTER OF JOHN JAMES OF OX SWAMP (IN WILLIAMSBURG CO., S.C.) AND HAD BY HER A LARGE FAMILY OF CHILDREN. UNCLE GAVIN DIED IN THE YEAR 1773 IN THE 61ST YEAR OF HIS AGE. MY AUNT JANE DIED IN 1774 IN THE 64TH YEAR OF HER AGE.

(NOTE: ONLY FIVE CHILDREN OF THIS MARRIAGE CAME TO MATURITY. THE NAMES OF ALL OF THEM ARE GIVEN IN THE GENEALOGICAL TABLE. ONE OF THE DAUGHTERS, JANE, WAS MARRIED TO COL. JOHN ERVIN. ANOTHER DAUGHTER, ELIZABETH; WAS MARRIED TO COL. HUGH ERVIN. FROM THESE TWO FAMILIES ARE DESCENDED ALL THE ERVINS OF SOUTH CAROLINA, MISSISSIPPI AND ALABAMA. . . . THERE WERE TWO SUBSEQUENT INTERMARRIAGES BETWEEN THE JAMES AND ERVINS. THERE WAS AN OLDER RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THEM THROUGH INTERMARRIAGE OF THE EARLIER ANCESTORS OF THE TWO FAMILIES WITH THE DOBEINS OR DOBBINS AS IT IS SOMETIMES WRITTEN. OWING TO THEIR COMMON DESCENT FROM SO MANY SOURCES, A WONDERFUL LIKENESS, MORALLY AND PHYSICALLY AND MENTALLY PREVAILS AMONG THEM - - J. W. ERVIN.)

MY FATHER'S NAME WAS JAMES. HE WAS MY GRANDFATHER'S THIRD CHILD AND SECOND SON. HE WAS BORN AT THE BEGINNING OF THIS CENTURY (I.E.A.D. 1700) AND LIVED WITH HIS PARENTS AT DRUMBOW UNTIL HE WAS 25 YEARS OLD WHEN HE WAS MARRIED TO MY MOTHER. HER NAME WAS ELIZABETH MCQUOID, DAUGHTER OF ROBERT MCQUOID. HER MOTHER'S NAME WAS SARAH CAMPBELL. MY GRANDFATHER, ROBERT MCQUOID DIED IN IRELAND IN THE YEAR 1728 IN THE 86TH YEAR OF HIS AGE. MY GRANDMOTHER DIED IN IRELAND ALSO, IN HER 80TH YEAR. MY FATHER AND MOTHER SETTLED IN GRAPA PARISH, NEAR THE CUNING BURN MILL WHERE THEY LIVED ABOUT NINE YEARS.

WHEN THEY SOLD THEIR PRIVILEGES THERE IN ORDER TO EMBARK FOR AMERICA, MY FATHER BROUGHT UP HIS FAMILY TO GRANDFATHER'S AT KNOCKBRAKEN ABOUT THE 1ST OF MAY AND LEFT US THERE AND WENT AND WROUGHT AT THE REED MAKING TRADE UNTIL THE FIRST OF SEPTEMBER THEN BROUGHT ON SHIP-BOARD FOUR CHILDREN VIZ: DAVID, ROBERT, JOHN AND SARAH. SARAH DIED IN CHARLESTON AND WAS THE FIRST BURIED AT THE SCOTCH MEETING-HOUSE GRAVEYARD, DECEMBER 1734. IT WAS THE FIRST OF FEBRUARY WHEN HE CAME TO THE BLUFF ON BLACK RIVER BELOW KINGSTREE. MY MOTHER AND US CHILDREN WERE STILL IN EXPECTATION THAT WE WERE COMING TO AN AGREEABLE PLACE; BUT WHEN WE ARRIVED AND SAW NOTHING BUT A WILDERNESS, AND INSTEAD OF A FINE TIMBERED HOUSE, NOTHING BUT A MEAN DIRT HOUSE, OUR SPIRITS SANK AND WHAT ADDED TO OUR TROUBLE WAS THAT OUR PILOT WHOM WE HAD FROM UNCLE JAMES' LEFT US WHEN HE CAME IN SIGHT OF THE PLACE. MY FATHER GAVE US ALL THE COMFORT HE COULD BY TELLING US WE WOULD GET THESE TREES CUT DOWN, AND IN A SHORT TIME THERE WOULD BE PLENTY OF INHABITANTS SO THAT WE COULD SEE FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE.

WHILE WE WERE TALKING OUR FIRE BROUGHT FROM LONG SWAMP WENT OUT. FATHER HAD HEARD THAT UP THE RIVER WAS KINGSTREE. ALTHOUGH THERE WAS NO PATH, NEITHER DID WE KNOW THE DISTANCE, YET HE FOLLOWED UP THE SWAMP UNTIL HE CAME TO THE BRANCH AND BY THAT FOUND ROGER GORDON. WE WATCHED HIM AS FAR AS THE TREES WOULD LET US SEE AND RETURNED INTO OUR DOLOROUS HUT BUT EXPECTING NEVER TO SEE HIM OR ANY HUMAN PERSON MORE; BUT AFTER SOME TIME HE RETURNED AND BROUGHT FIRE.

WE WERE SOMEWHAT COMFORTED, BUT EVENING COMING ON THE WOLVES BEGAN TO HOWL ON ALL SIDES. WE THEN FEARED BEING DEVoured BY WILD BEASTS; HAVING NEITHER RUN NOR DOG NOR ANY DOOR TO OUR HOUSE. HOWBEIT WE SET TO AND GATHERED FUEL, MADE A GOOD FIRE AND SO PASSED THE NIGHT. THE NEXT DAY BEING A WARM CLEAR MORNING, WE BEGAN TO STIR ABOUT; BUT ABOUT MID-DAY THERE ROSE A CLOUD FROM THE SOUTHWEST ATTENDED WITH A HIGH WIND THUNDERING AND LIGHTENING. THE RAIN QUICKLY PENETRATING THROUGH BETWEEN THE POLES AND BROUGHT DOWN THE SAME THAT COVERED THEM OVER, WHICH SEEMED TO THREATEN TO COVER US ALIVE. THE LIGHTENING CLAPS WERE VERY AWFUL AND LASTED A GOOD SPACE OF TIME. I DO NOT REMEMBER TO HAVE SEEN A MUCH SEVERER GUST THAN THAT WAS, I BELIEVE. WE ALL SINCERELY WISHED OURSELVES AGAIN AT BELFAST; BUT THIS FRIGHT WAS SOON OVER AND THE EVENING CLEARED UP COMFORTABLE AND WARM.

THE BOAT THAT BROUGHT UP THE GOODS ARRIVED AT KINGSTREE. PEOPLE WERE MUCH OPPRESSED IN BRINGING UP THEIR THINGS. AS THERE WAS NO HOUSE THERE AT THE LANDING, THEY WERE OBLIGED TO TOIL HARD AND HAD NO OTHER WAY BUT TO CARRY THEM ON THEIR BACKS, WHICH CONSISTED OF THEIR BED-CLOTHING, CHESTS OF PROVISIONS, TOOLS AND POTS, AND AT THAT TIME THERE WERE FEW OR NO ROADS, EVERY FAMILY HAD TO TRAVEL THE BEST WAY THEY COULD, WHICH WAS HERE DOUBLE DISTANCE TO COME, FOR THEY HAD TO FOLLOW SWAMPS AND BRANCHES FOR THEIR GUIDE FOR SOME TIME; AND AFTER SOMETIME SOME MEN GOT SUCH A KNOWLEDGE OF THE WOODS AS TO BLAZE PATHS; SO THE PEOPLE FOUND OUT TO FOLLOW BLAZES FROM PLACE TO PLACE.

AS THE WINTER SEASON WAS FAR ADVANCED THE TIME TO PREPARE LAND FOR PLANTING WAS VERY SHORT, YET THE PEOPLE WERE STRONG AND HEALTHY. ALL THAT COULD DO ANY WORK WROUGHT DILLIGENTLY AND CONTINUED CLEARING AND PLANTING AS LONG AS THE SEASON WOULD ADMIT, SO THAT THEY MADE PROVISIONS FOR THE ENSUING YEAR. AS THEY HAD BUT FOUR BEASTS, A LITTLE SERVED THEM AND AS THE RANGE WAS GOOD THEY HAD NO NEED OF FEEDING CREATURES FOR SOME YEARS.

I REMEMBER THAT AMONGST THE FIRST THINGS THAT MY FATHER BROUGHT FROM THE BOAT WAS THE GUN, WHICH WAS ONE OF QUEEN ANN'S MUSKETS. HE HAD HER LOADED WITH SWAN SHOT. ONE MORNING WHEN WE WERE AT BREAKFAST THERE WAS A TRAVELING POSSUM ON HIS WAY PASSING BY THE DOOR. MY MOTHER SCREAMED OUT, SAYING "THERE IS A GREAT BEAR!" MOTHER AND US CHILDREN HID OURSELVES BEHIND SOME BARRELS AND A CHEST AT THE END OF OUR HUT, WHILE FATHER GOT HIS GUN AND STEADIED HER PAST THE FORK THAT HELD UP THAT END OF THE HOUSE, AND SHOT HIM ABOUT THE HINDER PARTS WHICH CAUSED POOR POSSUM TO GRIN AND OPEN HER MOUTH IN A FRIGHTFUL MANNER. FATHER WAS IN HASTE TO GIVE HIM A SECOND LOAD, BUT THE SHOT BEING MISLAID IN THE HURRY COULD NOT BE FOUND. WE WERE PENNED FOR SOME TIME BUT FATHER AT LENGTH VENTURED OUT AND KILLED IT WITH A POLE. ANOTHER ALARMING CIRCUMSTANCE WAS THE INDIANS; WHEN THEY CAME TO HUNT IN THE SPRING THEY WERE IN GREAT NUMBERS, IN ALL PLACES LIKE THE EGYPTIAN LOCUSTS, BUT THEY WERE NOT HURTFUL.

WE HAD A GREAT DEAL OF TROUBLE AND HARSHIPS IN OUR FIRST SETTLING, BUT THE FEW INHABITANTS CONTINUED YET IN HEALTH AND STRENGTH. YET WE WERE STILL OPPRESSED WITH FEARS ON DIVERS ACCOUNTS, ESPECIALLY OF BEING MASSACRED BY THE INDIANS OR BIT BY SNAKES OR TORN BY WILD BEASTS OR BEING LOST AND PERISHING IN THE WOODS. OF THIS LAST THERE WERE THREE PERSONS.

ABOUT THE LATTER END OF AUGUST 1736, MY UNCLE ROBERT ARRIVED HERE. THE SHIP HE CAME IN WAS CALLED NEWBUILT. SHE WAS A SHIP OF GREAT BURDEN AND BROUGHT MANY PASSENGERS WHICH CHIEFLY CAME UP HERE, AND WERE OBLIGED TO TRAVEL BY LAND FROM CHARLESTON. INSTEAD OF PROVISIONS, THEY HAD MONEY GIVEN TO THEM BY THE PUBLIC OUT OF THE PROVINCIAL TREASURY OUR SECOND CROP BEING ON THE GROUND WHEN THEY ARRIVED.

AS IT WAS IN THE WARM SEASON, THEY WERE MUCH FATIGUED IN COMING UP AND MANY WERE TAKEN WITH THE FEVER AND AGUE, AND SOME DIED WITH THAT DISORDER; AND MANY AFTER THE AGUE CEASED, GREW DROPSICAL AND DIED.

ABOUT THIS TIME-1736- THE PEOPLE BEGAN TO FORM INTO SOCIETIES AND SENT TO IRELAND FOR A MINISTER. ONE CAME NAMED ROBERT HERON. HE STAYED THREE YEARS AND THEN WENT BACK TO IRELAND. IN THE FALL OF 1737 MY GRANDFATHER TOOK THE ROCE IN THE LEG (ERYSIPELAS) WHICH OCCASIONED A FEVER OF WHICH HE DIED, AND WAS THE FIRST PERSON BURIED AT WILLIAMSBURG MEETING HOUSE. ABOUT THE SAME TIME MY FATHER HAD A DAUGHTER WHO DIED NAMED ELIZABETH, BORN AT THE BLUFF ABOUT THREE YEARS OLD.

HE (JOHN WITHERSPOON, THE CHRONICLER'S GRANDFATHER) WAS A MAN OF MODERATE STATURE, A FIRM HEALTHY CONSTITUTION, SOMEWHAT BANDY LEGGED AND OF A FAIR COMPLEXION. HE WAS WELL ACQUAINTED WITH THE SCRIPTURES AND HAD A VOLUBILITY OF EXPRESSION IN PRAYER, A ZEALOUS ADHERENT TO THE PROTESTANT PRINCIPLES OF THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND. HE HAD A GREAT AVERSION AGAINST EPISCOPACY; AND WHOEVER IMPARTIALLY READS THE HISTORY OF HIS YOUNGER YEARS IN SCOTLAND (UNDER CHARLES II AND JAMES II) MAY SEE THAT HIS PREJUDICES WERE NOT WITHOUT CAUSE, AS IT WAS HIS LOT TO BE IN A TIME OF GREAT DISTRESS TO THE POOR PERSECUTED CHURCH IN THE REIGN OF JAMES VII OF SCOTLAND AND II OF ENGLAND, AS HE WAS ONE OF THE SORT THAT FOLLOWED FIELD MEETINGS. SOME OF HIS KINDEED AND HIMSELF WAS MUCH HARASSED BY THEM (CLAYHOUSE AND OTHER LEADERS OF THE PERSECUTING POWERS) YET NOTWITHSTANDING, IF HIS YOUNGER YEARS WERE ATTENDED WITH SOME TROUBLE, HE ENJOYED GREAT PEACE AND TRANQUILITY IN HIS AFTER LIFE AND HAD THE COMFORT OF LIVING TO SEE HIS SEVEN CHILDREN ALL CREDITABLY MARRIED AND SETTLED FOR THEMSELVES. EXCEPT THE DEATH OF MY GRANDMOTHER, HIS BELOVED WIFE, HE NEVER KNEW WHAT IT WAS TO PART BY DEATH IN HIS OWN FAMILY WHICH BLESSING FEW HAVE ENJOYED.

IN MAY 1743 THE REV. MR. JOHN ROE ARRIVED HERE FROM SCOTLAND. HE CAME UPON A CALL FROM THIS CONGREGATION SENT SOME TIME BEFORE, TO THE REV. MR. WILLISON OF DUNDEE. HE CONTINUED A FAITHFUL AND LABORIOUS PASTOR IN THIS CONGREGATION UNTIL THE YEAR 1761 AND DIED. HIS REMAINS WERE BROUGHT DOWN AND BURIED AT THE MEETING HOUSE, HE BEING 46 YEARS OLD.

I WAS BORN AUGUST 20, 1728 IN IRELAND. I WAS MY FATHER'S SECOND SON. IN MY YOUTH HE TAUGHT ME TO WEAVE; ALSO MY OLDER BROTHER DAVID HE TAUGHT TO MAKE REEDS (WEAVER'S SLEYS). THE FAMILY LIVED TOGETHER AT THE BLUFF UNTIL 1749. MY FATHER MOVED HIS FAMILY TO THORNTREE. I WENT AND WROUGHT AT UNCLE GAVIN'S (WHO LIVED THEN AT MIGERTH SWAMP) AT THE WEAVING BUSINESS UNTIL SEPTEMBER FOLLOWING WHEN I WENT TO OVERSEEING AND LIVED WITH MR. FLEMING NEAR BLACK RIVER

CHURCH. I LIVED WITH HIM UNTIL AUGUST 1750 WHEN HE DIED. I CONTINUED WITH HIM UNTIL JANUARY 1752 WHEN I RETURNED HOME TO MY FATHER AGAIN. THE REASON OF MY RETURN WAS IT PLEASED GOD IN THE LATE AWFUL DISTEMPER (THAT WAS IN WILLIAMSBURG, WHICH BEGAN ABOUT THE 1ST OF NOVEMBER 1750 AND CARRIED OFF NEAR 80 PERSONS IN A SHORT TIME, MANY OF WHICH WERE THE PRINCIPAL PEOPLE OF THE CONGREGATION), TO REMOVE BY DEATH MY OLDEST BROTHER DAVID, AND MY SISTER JANE. MY FATHER BEING IN A VERY WEAK STATE, AND UNABLE TO TAKE CARE OF THE PLANTATION, I LEFT MY OWN CONCERNS TO TAKE CARE OF HIS. I REMAINED WITH MY PARENTS UNTIL MARCH 2, 1758.

I LEFT THEM AND SETTLED FOR MYSELF THE AFORESAID 2ND OF MARCH 1758. I WAS MARRIED TO ELIZABETH HEATHLY A YOUNG WOMAN IN THE 18TH YEAR OF HER AGE. OUR SON JAMES WAS BORN MARCH 20TH 1759. OUR SECOND SON NAMED THOMAS WAS BORN THE 22ND OF MARCH 1761 AND DIED THE 8TH SEPTEMBER 1765. OUR DAUGHTER JANE WAS BORN JANUARY 4TH 1763. OUR THIRD SON NAMED JOHN WAS BORN JANUARY 20TH 1765 AND DIED 24 JULY 1767. OUR SON ROBERT WAS BORN JANUARY 29TH 1767. OUR DAUGHTER MARY WAS BORN MARCH 20TH, 1769. OUR DAUGHTER ELIZABETH WAS BORN JULY 25TH, 1771. OUR SON JOHN WAS BORN MARCH 17TH 1774. OUR SON THOMAS WAS BORN JULY 23RD, 1776. IN THIS THE YEAR 1768 THE FATHER OF THIS CHRONICLER, JAMES WITHERSPOON, DIED WHICH EVENT HE FAILED TO MENTION. HE HAD REACHED THE AGE OF 60 BEING BORN A.D. 1700.

MY HONORED MOTHER DEPARTED THIS LIFE THE 25TH JANUARY 1777 IN THE 72ND YEAR OF HER AGE. SHE WAS THE LAST SURVIVING BRANCH OF THE OLD STOCK OF OUR FAMILY; AND AS I HAVE HAD AN OPPORTUNITY OF HAVING A PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE OF THEIR LIVES AND DEATHS, I BEAR THEM THIS TESTIMONY THAT THEY WERE SERVERS OF GOD. THEY WERE WELL ACQUAINTED WITH THE SCRIPTURES, THEY WERE MUCH IN PRAYER, THEY WERE STRICT OBSERVERS OF THE SABBATH. IN A WORD THEY WERE A STOCK THAT STUDIED OUTWARD PIETY AND INWARD PURITY. INDEED GOD BLESSED THIS SETTLEMENT FROM THE FIRST, WITH A NUMBER OF PIOUS, GODLY MEN OUT OF WHICH I CHOSE TO SET DOWN SOME OF THE NAMES. WILLIAM WILSON, DAVID ALLEN, WILLIAM HAMILTON, JOHN PORTER, WILLIAM JAMES, DAVID WILSON, JOHN JAMES, JOHN MCCLELAND, ROBERT PRESSLEY, JAMES BRADLEY, JOHN LEMON, WILLIAM FRIERSON, TO WHICH I ADD MY OWN FATHER AND MY THREE UNCLES, DAVID, ROBERT AND GAVIN. THESE WERE MEN OF GREAT PIETY IN THEIR DAY, AND INDEED THEY WERE MEN OF RENOWN. MAY THE GLORIOUS KING AND HEAD OF HIS CHURCH, FOR HIS OWN GLORY, STILL MAINTAIN AND KEEP US MEN OF PIETY AND HOLINESS AS A BLESSING TO THIS PLACE, TO THE LATEST POSTERITY IS THE HEART REQUEST OF THE UNWORTHY SCRIBE.

The Ervin (Irvine) Story.

"Deeming it a priviledge and duty, I hereby set down what I know of our family history and divers facts adjudged important for posterity to cherish. The Kreeins, Erwyns, Irvines, trace to antiquity. For this sketch it will suffice to begin with Crynin Irwyn, Athane of Dule, who held the highest title then conferred in Scotland and was the founder of the line of Kings of the name Irvins. He married with the daughter of King Malcolm and so they became ancestors of Scottish Kings. Later when Bruce fled his enemies, sactuary was found with the Irwyns and William Erwyn became his companion. The resting place was a holly grove and so the holly forms part of the family Armorial Bearings. In gratitude for his loyalty Sir William Irwyn was granted a Barrony which for a thousand years has been possessed by Irwyns. To shorten these annals we continue with John Irvine, Esq. who married with a daughter of his kinsman James Ervin of Fortrie, and their son John married as first wife his kinsman Jeanne Irvine and their son James Irvine, Esq., was my Grandfather. He married with Elizabeth daughter to Capt. John William James and his wife Ann Wyndham. It is found that he came from a long line of William Jameses, and so to distinguish them each was given a double name. The Irvines being Protestants, left the old Nation during the period of religious upheaval and settled in North Ireland. Howsoever soon conditions became intolerable and being of courageous and pioneering spirit they decided to seek a better land in America on the southern Frontier.

My Grandfather was a man of hugh status with piercing dark eyes, fearless, of commaning presence and various abilities. Through his veins coursed the blood of centuries of Warriors and of his Scottish sires who patrolled the borders of their land repelling many invaders. It is destined that he be the leader in rounding up the first band of colonists for the proposed settlement on the Black River in the State of South Carolina. His family was amongst those who in 1732 blazed the trail for other footsteps to follow. This Colony of some dozen families under command of Roger Gordon sailed from Belfast and endured the hazardous passage of over two months across the Ocean, beset by tempest, perils and untold suffering and sickness. One Irvine son perished and was consigned to the bosom of the deep.

My Grandfathers family was large- being Rebecca, Elizabeth, Robert, Marjory, William, Samuel, Annabelle (Anne), Jeanne, Gilbert, John, Agnes, Alexander, Hugh, (do not know the order) with a daughter-in-law and some grandchildren. Great was their sorrow when most of these passed in the tragedy of a great mortality. c1750

On the voyage across the family was sorely ill and on arrival in Charles Towne it was necessary to tarry until health was restored. Subsequently the sons Robert and John, last named being only a lad, with a sister, being of hardihood and daring hearts, were in the vanguard that opened up the trail from Charles Towne to Kings Tree.

Also of this company were our kinsmen the Jameses and Wilsons, Some years later came our kinsmen the Witherspoons and others.

The lad John Ervin was my father and he later married with Elizabeth daughter to Robert Ellison, Esq. In South Carolina our name soon became to be spelled ERVIN. Oft I have heard my father tell of this pioneering enterprise, of how their small vessel crept cautiously up the dark totuous reaches of the Black River bordered with thickly forested swamps that shut out the sunlight. Their apprehension for safety when oft the silence was shattered by hideous and unearthly screams of wild things. On reaching Kings Tree, there to find nothing but primeval wildersness. Notwithstanding the company scattered to select home sites near streams or springs, The Irvines chose a bluff about a mile distant and set to work to fell the mighty trees and clear away undergrowth. A crude shelter was erected, tight on the sides of the prevailing winds. Later when joined by the balance of the family a large cabin was built with thatched roof and mud chimneys.

My father was one of the few forthright and outspoken patriots of our District at commencement of the struggle for Independence. His business oft carried him to George Towne and Charles Towne so he remained better posted and saw the future more clearly than most of his neighbors. From the first he cast his lot with America and influenced many others in those early days. He was most wrathful over the Stamp Act and advised everyone to refuse to buy the tea that had been shipped to Charles Towne. He assumed the office of Commissary- gathered equipment and medicine for our great cause. Grandmother Elizabeth, that grand Matriarch and venerable war-heroine, used her great skill as a nurse in those times before our section got organized. She suffered blindness in later life. Mother and my wife Jane did their part nobly by securing information for my Regiment and General Marion. We were a house united in a great purpose- a fight to the finish for Liberty and America.

Our kinsmen the James family from their arrival in 1732 on thru the dark days of the great struggle, gave without stint of their time and talent to the welfare of our District. It was William James, brother to my Grandmother, who named Williamsburg and it was his son, the daring Major John James of many brave exploits, who organized the men of our District and could have lead them into battle, but instead he recommended hus fried Francis Marion. This was the beginning of Marions Brigade of which my Regiment was a part. Our kinsmen among the Ellisons and the Witherspoons were conspicuous in their life and death fight for Freedom; how- the last named were more prone to the Church.

Now, my children, I adjure you, hold fast in your hearts always, your grand and glorious Heritage. Your forebears have laid down requisite precepts for you to follow. May they be a stimulus to laudable ambition, see you will make a worthy contribution to your Country, be a faithful servant to your Church and add renown and splendor to the history of the Irvine Family. My blessings rest upon you. May Jehovah be with you and prosper you. "

Note: The foregoing "Story" was written by Col. John Ervin in the blank pages of a Family Bible, printed in 1776 by Alexander Kincaid in Edinburgh.

The Bible contained the usual blank pages for recording births, marriages and deaths. The last item written by Col. John Ervin (there were many more entries in different writing) was recording the birth of a John Ervin "the fourth of that name in my family" on December 2nd. 1798.

Under "Marriages" (in Col. Ervins handwriting) are the following-

"John Ervin was united in Matrimony with Jane daughter to Gavin Witherspoon Evening of 10th. January 1775, Ceremony by Rev. James Edmonds, She is descendant of Reformer John Knox."

"Sarah Ervin with RICHARD WELCH, Soldier of the American Revolution son of JAMES W. of Charlestown and descendant of Reformer JOHN WELCH on 10th. June 1791."

Gavin Witherspoon (1712-1773) was the son of John Witherspoon (c1670-1737) whom Boddie says was the "Great Grandson of John Knox and Elizabeth Stewart. Jane Witherspoon (1753-1773) who married Col. John Ervin (who wrote the "Story") must have been well acquainted the the Witherspoon back ground and certainly her husband had many opportunities to learn the genealogy of the Witherspoon Family from Gavin Witherspoon who came in 1732 with James Ervin.

The foregoing while not documentation, would seem plausible enough to be acceptable proof of the WELCH and Witherspoon line in America.

The "Story" and Bible entries were given the writer by a Miss Julia Ervin of the Darlinton, S.Car. branch of the family.

Wardlow. Additional items in his Genealogy.

In a letter dated 1.5.1892, Agnes Bald, Haddington, Gifford, Scotland says-

"The Signers father was named John and not James, as his Tombstone shows (1691-1759) and his wife's name was Ahn Walker"

Wardlow dismisses this statement by saying John Witherspoons were legion in Scotland.

Wardlow says that William E. Curtis says that John, the Signer, had 4 Uncles- Alexander, Emi-nant Merchant of Glasgow, John, William, and James.

Wardlow further states John the Signer had a brother Robert who settled on the Yadkin River in North Carolina,

Wardlow also relates an untraced John Witherspoon who came to America 1780-1800 with children, Samuel, John, William, James and Betsy. Samuel and William

WELSH Families in Galloway (Dumfrieshire, Kirkudbright and Southern part of Ayrshire.)

The WELSH families seemed to have been been rather well represented in the Valley of the Nith River and its tributary, the Scar. These rivers form the great valleys which cleft Dumfrieshire from north to south. Family records name the Parishes of Irongray, Dunscore, Holywood all along the Nith River.

Various WELSH families resided at early dates along the Nith Valley- documented as follows-

NICHOLAS WELSH was Abbot of Tongland in 1488
 Dean WILLIAM WELSH was Vicar of Tynrone in 1530
 Dean ROBERT WELSH was Vicar of Tynrone at his death 1568
 DAVID WELSH was a Brother in the Monastery of the Abbot of Holywood on 5.20.1556
 JOHN WELSH was Vicar of Dunscore c1550 and took Office in the Reformed Church in 1560.
 GILBERT WELSH was a Priest and a brother of Dean ROBERT WELSH.

The Will of Dean ROBERT WELSH, Vicar of Tynrone, who died in 1568 was dated 6.4.1568 and probated 11.18.1569 at the Commissariat for Edinburgh and notes-

Executors: Brother Sir. GILBERT WELSH
JOHN WELSH, Vicar of Dunscore
Bequests: Sister: Christain Welsh
KATHEREEN JOHNSTOUN
JOHN WELSHE
JOHN WELSH, Vicar of Dunscore.
Balance of Estate to-
Sir GILBERT WELSHE
JOHN WELSH, Vicar of Dunscore.

"Churchmen of Dumfries" notes a Headstone in the Churchyard at Dumfries, reading- WILLIAM WELSH.

"Halt passenger, read, here interr'd doth lie
A Witness 'gainst poor Scotlands Pe'ljury,
Whose head once fixed, upon the bridgeport, stood,
Proclaiming vengeance for his guiltless blood."

An interesting sidelight on the family of JOHN WELSH, Laird of Colliston, "bordering on Craigenputtock" concerns the possible relationship between this family and that of Thomas Carlyle. The Encyclopedia Britannica, 1926 Edition, V-349 names the WELSH line and its connection with Thomas Carlyle.

- I. JOHN WELSH of Penfillan.
- II. Dr. JOHN WELSH (4.14.1776-9.1819) of Haddington owned the Manor House "Craigenputtock" a remote and lonely farm. He married GRACE WELSH, daughter of WALTER WELSH stockfarmer and a Miss Baille, a descendant of William Wallace. The two families were not related. They had one child-
- III. JANE BAILLE WELSH (7.14.1801 Haddington-4.2.1866) She was educated at Haddington and inherited her fathers whole estate including Craigenputtock, in which she gave her mother, life tenure. On the mothers death it reverted to Jane, who in the meantime assigned Craigenputtock to her husband-to-be Thomas Carlyle. She married him 10.17.1826 and they lived there from 1828 to 1834 and on her death passed to Carlyle the estate Craigenputtock. He died later in London and bequeathed Craigenputtock to the University of Edinburgh for a JOHN WELSH, Bursary in Classics and Mathematics. JANE BAILLE WELSH CARLYLE is buried in St. Marys Church, Edinburgh where Carlyle erected a tombstone in the Choir.

In 1862 when the Rev. James Young was writing his "Life of JOHN WELSH of Ayr" he had occasion to write Carlyle about another publication he had edited and told him, that he, Young, was writing the life of JOHN WELSH of Ayr, Carlyle had replied from Chelsea commenting on the "Life", said in part-

"I fear however, there will be a great scarcity of real documents as to WELSH. At Ayr, I suppose there will be nothing, unless perhaps, his old Kirk is still head uppermost in an undisputable way? In Dumfriesshire (in Glenesland, Upper Nithdale) you will find the name Colliston sticking to a patch of property that was his fathers; but except for that, some inferences (of small amount) deducible from that, I doubt nothing more whatever."

Young replied 9.15.1862 saying that Carlyles fear of lack of documentation were unfounded.

It is curious that Carlyle who married JANE BAILLE WELSH and inherited Craigenputtock did not in some way indicate the alliance with the WELSH family- if such it was. Contrarywise, Carlyle's knowledge of the Colliston property might indicate an intimate knowledge of the property. Perhaps some future family historian will develop the relationship between the Penfillan and the Colliston families.

The foregoing account documents a contradiction to often repeated statement that JANE WELSH wife of Thomas Carlyle was a direct descendant of JOHN WELSH of Colliston. This account arose from the fact that Thomas Carlyle gave the tract Craigenputtock to the University of Edinburgh establishing the JOHN WELSH Bursary.

Sir Philip, ending his attack on the story states that-4.10.1691 William Copeland of John sometime Provost of Dumfries had Sasine to the lands of Colliston and Larg and the connection with the Welshes to Colliston, ended.

The Rev. JOHN WELSH, of Ayr. (1558-1622)

The Rev. JOHN WELSH was born in his fathers house at Collis-ton. Attended Parish school at Dunscore from which "he absconded for a term preferring a roving life with thieves, who lived by robbing both countries" (i.e. smugglers). He returned to the home of his Aunt Mrs. Forsythe who interceded for him with his Father, who took him back and sent him to school in Dumfries. He entered in the first class at St.James College (Edinburgh University) in 1583, but graduated with the second class due to deficiencies in Latin and Greek. He graduated in 1588 with an M.A. Degree and the first graduate to elect the Ministry.

3.6.1589/90 Nominated by the Privy Council "to maintain the True Religion in the Forest and Tweedsdale" and was settled at Selkirk, the Shire east of Dumfrieshire.

1594/6 Married at Selkirk, ELIZABETH KNOX of Rev.John.

1594 "Translated" to Kirkudbright, the Shire west of Dumfrieshire and the three adjoining parishes of Dunrod, Galtway and Kirkcornock.

3.29.1596 Appointed Visitor for Nithdale, Annandale, Landerdale, Eskdale and Ewesdale. The Nith, Annan and Esk Rivers divide Dumfrieshire into three great dales. The Ewe, Scar and Lander being tributaries to these Rivers.

12.18.1596 Preached at St.Guiles Church, Edinburgh, a denunciation of the King over the imposition of Bishops over the Presbyterys of Scotland.

1.7.1597 Denounced as a rebel and estates forfeited and "gifted" to his wife's relative Lord Ochiltree.

3.1597 Championed by Lord Ochiltree at the Perth Assembly was permitted to return to his charge, 8.1599 Transferred to the Parish at Ayr, as Assistant to Rev. John Porterfield and on 4.10.1604 at Porterfields death succeeded to the Pastorate of St.John the Baptist.

Ordered before the Privy Council with six others and all denied the authority of the Council to judge Ecclesiasticals.

1.10.1606 Tried at Linlithgow Castle, found guilty and sentenced to death.

JmI

10.23.1606 The King, "in his leniency" commuted sentence to perpetual banishment.

11.1.1606 The six convicted sailed for Bordeaux without their wives or families. His Parish at Ayr and the Ayr Town Council paid his stipend during his sixteen months in prison and great delegations from Ayr visited him there after visiting regulations were relaxed. On arrival at Bordeaux, he made representations to the Synod of the Reformed Protestant Church of France for a Pastorate. He learned the French language sufficiently well in fourteen weeks to preach in that language.

He was assigned to a Pastorate in Jonsac, Province of Saintongue, near Bordeaux. A delegation of thirty of his parishioners from Ayr visited at Jonsac bringing letters from his wife and Zachery Pont and Alexander Fairlee his brothers-in-law. His Parish in Ayr continued to pay his stipend for two or three years. He was probably in Jonsac, when in May of 1607 his wife and family arrived in Bordeaux, as he left Jonsac about 1614/15 and was probably Pastor at Nerac for about a year. It was at Jonsac that his eldest daughter (name unknown) died on 9.10.1614 just after his youngest daughter was born there 5.20.1613.

6.1617 Received call to St.Jean d'Angely, a strongly fortified town which was governed by Protestants under agreement with the King. In 1620 the King attacked the town and soon wore down its defences under the pretext of making it a Catholic town. After its surrender, the King in a personal interview with WELSH, was so impressed with his erudite dissertations that he offered him protection and guards to Rochelle.

WELSH took refuge in Zeeland, Isle of Walcheran, Holland, however he was wearied to dwelling among strangers and had learned of a Scottish Colony to be named New Scotland that was being planned in North America, with view to joining his countrymen in forming the proposed Colony, in 1622 he proceeded to London. The foregoing version of his return is noted in Young's Genealogical Memoirs of John Knox. Other historians indicate that while in Zeeland, physicians recommended his "native air" and he petitioned James II for a reprieve, which was denied with the admonition "come back to England to be dealt with". However he returned to England, where ELIZABETH, his wife, made a personal appeal to the King to allow her husband to return to Scotland. This was denied, the King however, learning of the few days remaining for WELSH to live, allowed him to return and to preach a few times in London.

WELSH preached but once, a long exhausting sermon, returned to his lodgings and died two hours afterwards on 4.2.1622.

The Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr, was buried on 4.4.1622 in the graveyard of St. Botolphs Church, Bishopsgate, London, in a portion that was reserved for the burial of strangers. His grave has no marker, although the records of the Church indicate his burial on that date. After his death, his wife ELIZABETH, returned to Scotland.

ELIZABETH KNOX WELSH (1569-1.8.1625) some three years later passed on and her Will proven 5.24.1625 by the Commissariat at Glasgow read in its preamble-

".....being at the pleasure of the Lord, now visited with sickness and infirmities of the body and uncertain of the hour of my death.....etc etc".

and makes the following provisions for her children and estate-

Executors: Rev. John Inglis, Minister at Daillly (Ayrshire) Son: JOSIAS WELSH
 Son: NATHANIEL WELSH
 Bequests : £40-0-0 to the poor and hospitals of Ayr.
 The balance of the estate equally to children JOSIAS, NATHANIEL and daughter LOUISE.

The estate inventory amounted to £ 4,320-0-0 Scotch pounds. The children of Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr and his wife ELIZABETH are as follows-

1. WILLIAM WELSH, referred to in probate proceedings as "oldest son". He received his degree as M.D. and was a resident of Ayr in 1625 when he appeared as heir to his father JOHN WELSH on 3.25.1625 and later in the same year on 11.30.1625 as heir to his Mother. He was married and was accidentally killed in the Netherlands where he had gone in the practice of Medicine. He had one daughter-bc 1598.
 A. MARGARET WELSH who died prior to 8.6.1633, altho named as "my brothers daughter" in the 1634 will of JOSIAS WELSH, her Uncle, ALTHOUGH HE WAS NAMED AS HER HEIR IN 1633.
2. Rev. JOSIAS WELSH, of Templepatrick, County Antrim, Ireland, of whom more later.
3. NATHANIEL WELSH, 3rd. son and a minor at the date of his mothers death in 1625. Went to Grammar School at Aberdeen. Was lost at sea, but swam to a barren island, where his body was found in an attitude of prayer.
4. An unnamed daughter who died 9.10.1614 at Jonsac and named as "oldest daughter".

5. LUYSE WELSH (5.20.1613 Jonsac France-) of whom Young says "no subsequent history" after her signature on her Mothers Will. Family historians have referred to her as "Lucy" however we feel her name was LOUISE.

In reviewing the will of ELIZABETH KNOX WELSH, it seems curious that she did not name her son WILLIAM WELSH, naming only JOSIAS, NATHANIEL and "LOUISE". That the son WILLIAM was alive at the time of his Mothers death is evidenced, as noted by Young-

"WILLIAM (Welsh) the oldest studied medicine and took his degree as M.D., but at what University is uncertain. He was at Ayr in 1625. We learn this from the following documents.....

'At the Burgh Court at Ayr, 3.25.1625 compeared Mr. WILLIAM WELSH, son of the deceased Mr. JOHN WELSH, sometime Minister at the Kirk of Ayr and Doctor of Physic, who produced a brief of inquest directed forth of our Sovereign Lords of Chancellory to the Provost and Bailies of the Burgh of Ayr, for serving the said Mr. WILLIAM WELSH as the nearest and lawful heir to the said deceased Mr. JOHN WELSH, his Father, of all lands....etc etc.'

'11.30.1625 Compeared WILLIAM WELSH, etc etc. who produced similar brief of inquest etc etc. for serving him as nearest and lawful heir to the deceased ELIZABETH KNOX, his Mother, of all lands etc etc.'

He did not however, long survive his parents. He married and was accidentally killed in the Netherlands....."

The Rev. JOSIAS WELSH, of Templepatrick, County Antrim, Ireland.
Son of Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr and ELIZABETH KNOX.

Documentary evidences of this JOSIAS WELSH are not as voluminous as those of his father or his son the REV. JOHN WELSH of Irongray. In fact most of the factual data concerning his life come from the accounts of his father and the trials and tribulations of his son JOHN WELSH of Irongray. In both instances their political and religious works overshadowed those of JOSIAS WELSH of Templepatrick.

JOSIAS WELSH'S parents were probably married while the Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr, his father, was "maintaining the true religion" as ordered by the Privy Council and while he was settled at Selkirk. JOSIAS WELSH was born in Scotland prior to his fathers banishment in 1606. Some historians give the date of his birth as 1590, but in May of 1617, while his father was in Rochelle, France, he, JOHN WELSH of Ayr, wrote to Principal Boyd, that one of his sons (Young says "probably JOSIAS") was in Edinburgh pursuing his studies. At that time, JOSIAS would have been twenty-seven had he been born in 1590 and that seems rather old for such pursuits.

Accounts of the education of JOSIAS WELSH differ. Reid's "History of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland" (I-112) Says he was first educated at Geneva. Wodrows "Life of Boyd" (pp.332) says he was sent to Edinburgh in 1617 "under the guardianship of Principal Boyd". We do know however that in 1607 JOSIAS WELSH accompanied his Mother and family when they set sail for Bordeaux to join their exiled father.

Young says on pp.413 that JOSIAS WELSH was promoted to a Professorship in the Humanities at Glasgow (College), but "being an ardent supported of the Presbyterian polity, like his father, he became the object of intolerance by the Prelates especially after the Five Artilcles of Perth were ratified by Parliment and was at length driven from the situation".

Neal's "History of the Puritans" (VI-369) says that- "persuaded by Robert Blake (Regent Glasgow College) JOSIAS WELSH took refuge in the north of Ireland where a Colony from the west of Scotland had recently been planted." It is presumed that JOSIAS WELSH married in Scotland prior to his removal.

In 1626 we see JOSIAS WELSH beginning his labors at Six-Mile-Water, Templepatrick, County Antrim in Ireland. Six-Mile-Water flows into Lough Neagh at Antrim. He was then Chaplain to Captain Norton. He subsequently officiated at Oldstone and was ordained by his relative Andrew Knox, Bishop of Raphoe at Templepatrick. The fame of JOSIAS WELSH as an "exhorter" grew and his eloquence secured for him the title "Cock-of-the-North" and also "Cock of the Conscience". His staunch adherence to the Presbyterianism of his father soon brought trouble on his head. He was suspended for six months, reinstated and finally deposed in 1634 shortly before his death. His deposing denied him the facilities of the Church, so he continued to preach from his house to great crowds, which in the end caused his death.

JOSIAS WELSH died 6.23.1634 of a "defluxion" caused by preaching in an open door to an overflow crowd.

The will of JOSIAS WELSH was presumed to have been destroyed during the late "Irish trouble" however it was apparently discovered and comparatively recently deposited in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland at Belfast. It is recorded as Document T-284. The following is an abstract.

The "History of Templepatrick Congregation" on pp.33 quotes the gravestone with a Latin and English epitaph- the English being-

"Here lies interred, under this stone,
Great Knoxes grandchild, John Welshes son;
Born in Scotland, and bred up in France,
He then came to Ireland, the Gospel to advance"

Through the kindness of Mrs. James Stewart of La Jolla, Calif.

"HERE LIES THE BODY OF THE REVREND
JOSIAS WELCH, MINISTER OF TEMPLEPATRICK
WHO DIED ANNO DOM 1634.

The Will of Rev. JOSIAS WELSH. Commentary.

Referring to the above noted will, The Ulster-Scot Historical Society, of Belfast, Ireland, over the signature of Embleton, wrote, on 4.1.1958-

"The copy of the will was presented to the Public Record Office by the late R.J.WELSH, who had copied it prior to the destruction of the original will in Dublin in 1922. An abstract of the will of JOSIAS was also obtained, but the person who made the abstract names JAMES PONT as JAMES DENT and HUGH MONFRED as HUGH MEMFRED, but for some reason he has not noted the children, possibly because the reference to them was at the end of the will and he missed them".

The R.J.WELSH referred to, presented to the Presbyterian Historical Society of Belfast, the photograph of the Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr, appended hereto, who stated R.J.WELSH was a "well known local photographer in the early days of this century". It seems more likely that the latter's copy of the will is more authentic than the abstract, as the PONT family were certainly related to JOSIAS WELSH.

THE PONT FAMILY. Robert Pont (1524-1606) was a Minister and in 1571 was Provost at Trinity College, Edinburgh, and two years later Minister at St. Cuthberts in Edinburgh. He was a leading Scotch Reformer and championed ecclesiastical independence. He sired two sons at least-

1. Timothy Pont, perhaps the older son, who graduated from St. Leonards College at St. Andrews and was a mathematician and surveyor.
2. Zachary Pont (c1560-c1619) Graduate same College as his brother. Married pl599 MARGARET KNOX (1567-) He was Portioner of Shryismylne, Co.Perth. In 1596 he borrowed 1,000 merks from Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr and contracted to repay at rate of 100 merks per year. Failing in this WELSH foreclosed the contract in 1601. In 1608 he became the Minister at Bower, Co.Caithness the extreme NE County in Scotland. He died c1619. They had at least two documented sons, Robert and Samuel.

The possibility exists that ZACHARY PONT might have had two other children- MARTHA PONT and JAMES PONT and that the former was named after MARGARET KNOX PONT'S sister MARTHA KNOX FAIRLEE who died in 1592. This supposition would support the terms used in the will of JOSIAS WELSH who named-

Wife: MARTHA

Brother-in-law: JAMES PONT

Brother: TIMOTHEE

This latter designation was often used when referring to a "kinsman"

The foregoing, is, at the best pure supposition and perhaps further research can clarify the matter.

Inventory of my Goods.

"Item: A lase (lease) of lands betwixt my brother in law JAMES PONT and me off a part of MR.WELSHES land called The Barnes (Birrens ?) Qlk.(which) is to endure for the tyme and yeeres and space mentioned in the lass (lease) and for the payment of the rent on the leass (lease) specified".

Item: Yr is sawen (Sowen ?) upon the lands off Barnes (Birrens ?) sewen (seven ?) barrells and a bushall of oatts or yr.bz. (thereabouts) and a barrell of barley and two peeks (pecks) or yr.bz. and at the Kirk, two barrells of barley and a barrell of oatts or there bz."

Nvintar of my Debts.

Among several items there is included-

"Alexr. Parker	seven sh. (shillings)
James Lyndesey	XXX Sh.

The reference to "Mr. Welshes land" plus the possibility that the name "Barnes" indicates an area in Dumfreishire, tend to suggest the possibility that JOSIAS probably held an interest in the properties near Colliston, in Dumfrieshire. Again this is supposition. See the Section on the Lothian Welsh families.

JOSIAS also referred to "cousin Mr. Andrew Stewart" who undoubtedly is a cousin once or twice removed and a descendant of Andrew Stewart, the 2nd. Lord Ochiltree whose daughter Margaret married as the second wife of JOHN KNOX, the Reformer.

The JAMES LYNDESEY, also connects JOSIAS with the Lothian WELSH family. The Lindsay family were the Earls of Crawford and John Lindsay (c1598-1678) was the 17th. Earl of Crawford and the 1st. Earl of Lindsay. He too was a leader of the Covenanters and Lord High Treasurer of Scotland and called the Earl of Crawford Lindsay. See Section on the Lothian Welsh families concerning WILLIAM WELSH of Cowhill, Parish of Holywood, Crawford-Lindsay.

Another presumed alliance with the Lothian WELSH family is suggested by the ALEXANDER PARKER noted in the Will of JOSIAS and the marriage of WALTER WELSH and Helen Parker who named one of their older sons ALEXANDER.

The Rev. JOHN WELSH (1624-1681) of Irongray. Son of Rev. JOSIAS WELSH of Templepatrick, and his wife MARTHA.

In 1952 correspondance with Rev. William Rock, Pastor at Irongray, "Irongray is within the Stewartry of Kirkcudbright lying at the eastern end of the County, five miles from Dumfries which is our postal and shopping town. The River Cairn flows past my door and is the boundary between Kirkcudbright and Dumfriesshire."

The Rev. JOHN WELSH of Irongray, oldest son of Rev. JOSIAS WELSH of Templepatrick, was taken, according to the Presbyterian Historical Society of Belfast, on his fathers death in 1634, as an infant (and probably accompanied by his Mother and two younger brothers) to Scotland. There exists scant data concerning his youth and education, however The Fasti Ecclesiae Scoticae, edited by Hugh Scott states that he "graduated M.A. Glasgow University in 1647 and admitted this Parish (Kirkpatrick-Irongray) 1.21.1653" succeeding Rev. Hew Henryson as Pastor. In the same year, on 2.18.1653 he married at Holyrood, ELIZABETH SOMERVILLE. Parish records for these years, according to researchers are non-existent.

In 1660 Charles II ascended the Throne and in 1661 Parliament met with the Earl of Middleton as Commissioner. The Rev. JOHN WELSH in a sermon called Middleton's Parliament "a drunken Parliament", a name still used. David M'Brear, one of JOHN WELSH'S Heritors, accused WELSH before the Priy Council and Maxwell, Steward-Deputy of Galloway was sent to arrest WELSH. Maxwell allowed WELSH to preach at Holywood and afterwards "there was great sorrow and outcrying of the multitudes who came to see him take horse". Many followed "with weeping and lamentations". WELSH was taken to Edinburgh for libel before the Lords of the Articles, but, witnesses disagreeing, he was dismissed and returned to his Parish.

Parliament then enacted Lay-Patronage and restored the Episcopacy. All Ministers must, before 9.20.1662 receive presentation before their Lay-Patrons and seek collation before their Bishop or remit their cure. David M'Brear was Lay-Patron at Irongray and WELSH was "outed" for failing to meet the requirements. The Wodrow Societies Biographies (I-10) relate that "JOHN WELSH of Irongray ejected in 1662 went with HIS FAMILY to reside in the Parish of Parton". No parish records at Parton exist prior to 1714. Curate Sanderson was appointed to succeed WELSH at Irongray but when he attempted to hold services he was forcibly barred from the Church. On 5.5.1663 the Privy Council ordered horse and foot troops to the Parish to secure the persons who had affronted their appointee. Two ringleaders were taken to Edinburgh where the Privy Council fined them and ordered them to make apologies before the Parish on two Sundays. One was sentenced to the Barbadoes, but was remitted.

In 1663 the "outed" JOHN WELSH sought refuge with John Nielson of Corsack, which, geographically suited the restrictions of the Privy Council as a residence for the "outed" Clergy. It was here that ELIZABETH SOMERVILLE, wife of JOHN WELSH died.

② Kirkcudbright

(Ground 10 yds)

The Rev. JOHN WELSH was among the first to start "preaching in the fields" and attracted throngs in the Parish of Irongray. The Government, displeased, sent Turner to Dumfries and Galloway to suppress field preaching and to extract fines from those who were accused of non-attendance at the services by the Cures. In 1666 the inhabitants of the Stewartry broke out in open rebellion in November at Dalry. They marched on Irongray and seized Turner and his fines, before he could flee. The insurgents then marched north under Col. Wallace and threatened both Glasgow and Edinburgh. A force was collected and the rebels were met at Rullion Green on the Pentland Hills. The insurgents were routed and WELSH and Wallace fled and were in hiding for about two years. The Pentland Hills affair resulted in the forfeiture of the life and estates of JOHN WELSH and his parishioners at Irongray, however in 1668 WELSH was preaching clandestinely to crowds of two or three hundred in the neighborhood of Edinburgh.

The 1662 Act, by which JOHN WELSH and some 350 other Ministers were ejected from their Parishes, provided for replacements known as Curates. Later on, "indulgences" were provided for the "outed" Ministers to return to their Parishes, however they must agree to refrain from political sermons. Of the 350 Ministers, but 42 accepted the "Indulgences". A second indulgence saw 80 additional acceptances. The Rev. JOHN WELSH was not "indulged".

In 1670 the "Clanking Act" was passed which provided the death penalty for field preaching. Anderson in his "Ladies of the Covenant" pp.214 says "in the beginning of 1674 WELSH went from Edinburgh, with his wife....." and in this same year WELSH was preaching to vast multitudes of from eight to ten thousand of Fife folk" including many notable personages. Many were fined for being present at these "conventicles" and a price of 2,000 merks was put on WELSHS head. By 1669 this had risen to 9,000 merks. It was at Fife that WELSH remarried an unnamed lady, about 1674.

In 1676 WELSH moved into the Lothians in Northumberland and preached on the frozen Tweed and held Communion in Teviotdale and Ayrshire. While in England an attempt to capture him was made to return him to Scotland. In 1678 WELSH held Communion and preached for three days at Irongray to tremendous crowds and did the same at Kirkcudbright and Colomonel.

On 5.1.1679, The Privy Council at Edinburgh, presided over by Bishop Sharp, issued a warrant for the arrest of WELSH and two days later Bishop Sharp was murdered. News of this outrage reached Dumfries and Sheriff Claverhouse set out to capture WELSH. The two parties met at Drumclog and Claverhouse was soundly defeated.

On 6.18.1679 the Duke of Monmouth was sent to Command in Scotland and marched on the rebels at Bothwell Bridge. Bringing artillery across the Clyde, he so unnerved the rebels and their horse that the Covenanters fled on 6.22.1679 making Monmouths victory an easy one.

After Bothwell Bridge, JOHN WELSH fled to London, his power broken and he lived but about a year, principally in Shaftsbury where he died 1.9.1681, being buried in his Grandfathers, (Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr) tomb. His was the largest funeral seen in London and there was deep mourning and lamentations among his parishioners at Irongray.

Quick's "Life of John Welsh of Ayr" says the JOHN WELSH of Irongray died at Wapping (a district in London on the Thames just east of the Tower) in 1679 at the home of the widow of Alexander Carmichael, former Minister of Pettinain and Pastor of the First Scottish Presbyterian Church in London and is the authority for the above noted remarks concerning the funeral.

While Wodrow says that in 1662 WELSH "went with his family" and Anderson says in 1674 WELSH "went with his wife", the Presbyterian Historical Society of Belfast states that- "the male line of the Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr, died out finally with the death of his Grandson, the Rev. JOHN WELSH of Irongray."

Documentation certainly exists that of the male line of the REV. JOHN WELSH of Ayr, only his son Rev. JOSIAS WELSH of Templepatrick carried on the male line. However the will of JOSIAS in 1634 definitely enumerates in addition to JOHN WELSH (of Irongray) the sons JOSIAS Jr. and son ANDRE or ANDREW. All of the three sons were "under perfect age" in 1634, JOHN of Irongray, being presumed the oldest and born in 1624 and perhaps not the "infant" as reported by The Presbyterian Historical Society, but around ten years of age. The two younger sons- JOSIAS Jr. and ANDREW presumably also went to Scotland along with JOHN of Irongray- and it these two sons on whom any lineal male descent presumably depends.

EVIDENCES OF THE WELSH-WELCH-KNOX LINE IN AMERICA.

On this side of the Atlantic, we find many "family traditions", various books, bible records, pamphlets etc etc. that allude to the WELSH-KNOX ancestry. Absolute documentary photostatic evidence has not be procurable to the writers knowledge, circumstantial evidence however seems almost genealogically acceptable.

Perhaps the Rev. James Marcus Welch, puts the matter convincingly in his "Ancestry and Kin of the Cowden-Welch Families" published in 1904-

"It has been shown that JAMES WELCH of Paxtang born about 1700 was of Scotch Presbyterian stock and that his people came from South Carolina to Pennsylvania about 1729. He was probably born near Charleston. Who were these South Carolina Welches whose emigration from Scotland is assigned by tradition to 1682? The story existed among us that our line of Welches descended from John Knox..... This tradition would scarcely arise and persist among people, who for three generations were plain farmers, unfamiliar with the details of Scotch ecclesiastical history of the previous century, if it were not a fact....."

VS USUAL ROUTE OF MIGRATION

The old Media Research Bureau of Washington D.C. stated in one of its WELCH publications-

"In the latter part of the seventeenth century an emigrant by the name of WELCH or WALSH settled in South Carolina. Records indicate that he was the father of a son JAMES WELCH who went to Pennsylvania about 1729 and was the father at Lancaster of James, John, Jean, Thomas, Ezabel, Mary, Robert and Joseph."

A pamphlet entitled "WELCH GENEALOGY" by Miss Anne Mason of Ashland Ohio, written in 1898, in which the writers great grandfather apparently aided, states that-

"The Original WELCHES came from South Carolina and later some members of the family moved to Pennsylvania and settled in Dauphin County, near Middletown."

Mrs. Gustine Courson Weaver, in her "WELCH and Allied Families" published in 1932, states without documentation that CUTHBERT WELSH, son of JOHN WELSH of Colliston, had at least two sons, John and Thomas, and that the latter, THOMAS WELSH, had a son WALTER WELSH who went to America, landing at Charleston. This of course does not involve the Knox line, but repeats the South Carolina route of migration.

In the first two quotations above, two words are underlined by the writer, as being questioned by the writer as undocumented to this writing. The first three quotations all refer to the same family- that of JAMES WELSH of Paxtang, Dauphin Co. Pa. and fully documented in another section of this paper. (CHAPTER 6)

The Welsh-Knox Line in America.

In 1942 we corresponded with the Rev. Edward B. Welsh of Corapolis, Ohio and we quote from one of his letters-

"Our family tradition is that the line goes back to two brothers ROBIN and JAMES WELSH who, about 1682 came from Ayrshire to South Carolina, being refugees from Scotland after Bothwell Bridge and that they were descendants from Knox whose daughter married JOHN WELSH of Ayr."

William C. Boddie in his "History of Williamsburg" S.C. published by The State Company, Columbia S.C. in 1923 says-

"It is interesting to note that the WITHERSPOON.....ERVINS.....were all lineal descendants of the Rev. JOHN KNOX."

Boddie makes additional reference by stating that JOHN WITHERSPOON (c1670-1737) who married his first Cousin JANET WITHERSPOON "was the Great Grandson of JOHN KNOX and Elizabeth Stewart".

The most promising records, approaching documentation, are to be found in the Bible Record of Col. John Ervin who lived in the Williamsburg County, S.Car. The Bible itself was printed by Alex Kincaid, His Majestys Printer, Edinburgh, MDCCLXXVI. (XXIX?)
On some of the blank pages of the Bible, Col. Ervin has written the history of his family and of its migration from Scotland to Ireland and hence to South Carolina in 1732. In the middle of the Bible are the usual pages for family births, marriages and deaths. (1776)

The first item under marriages, obviously post dated, records the marriage of Col. JOHN ERVIN-

"JOHN ERVIN was united in matrimony with JANE daughter to GAVIN WITHERSPOON, evening of 10th. January, 1775" "Ceremony by Rev. James Edmonds. She a descendant of Reformer JOHN KNOX".

The last item in the same handwriting of Col John Ervin reads-

"JOHN, third of that name in myhouse was b. at 5 PM on December 2nd. 1796".

All subsequent entries were made in different hand writing.

The Bible passed through several generations of Ervins and is now in the possession of a Mrs. Sarah Sullivan Ervin who lives in Ware Shoals, Laurens Co. S.Car. in the northwest corner of the State. We have several quotations from the Bible by Mrs. S.S.Ervin. Fortunately we received another copy of the Bible record from a Miss Julia Ervin residing in Darlington County in the Northeastern section of South Carolina.

The excerpts from these two separate sources while basically are identical, there is sufficient difference in the wording to cast doubt on their authenticity, we copy the excerpts-

1. Julia Ervin Copy-

"JOHN ERVIN was united in Matrimony with JANE daughter to GAVIN WITHERSPOON evening of 10th. January 1775. Ceremony by Rev. James Edmonds, she descendant of Reformer JOHN KNOX "

2. Julia Ervin Copy-Confirmed by Senator Samuel Ervin, Jr.

"Sarah Ervin with RICHARD WELSH, Soldier of the American Revolution, son of JAMES WELCH of Charlestown and descendant of Reformer JOHN WELCH on 10th. of June 1791".

3. Sarah Ervin Copy- ("John Knox" added by Sarah Ervin)

"SARAH ERVIN to RICHARD WELCH, Revolutionary Soldier of Charlestown S.C. son to JAMES WELCH and descendant of Reformers JOHN KNOX and JOHN WELCH, on June 10th., 1791.

in error

All of the foregoing excerpts were in the handwriting of Col. JOHN ERVIN.

All of these families WITHERSPOON, ERVIN and WELCH had their roots in Scotland. During the religious upheavals in the 17th. Century, many Scotch Presbyterians either voluntarily moved to northern Ireland to escape persecution or were exiled there.

All three families were staunch Presbyterians and all three fled Scotland for Northern Ireland. The WITHERSPOON and WELSH families to County Antrim. While the family history by JOHN ERVIN (1754-1810) does not refer to his home in Ireland, they sailed from Belfast. The WELSH family migrated from Dumfrieshire to County Antrim.

By tradition one of the WELSH family made the first crossing to South Carolina prior to 1700, possibly in 1684. This early migration may be accounted for by the fact that this family was hunted, persecuted and exiled far beyond the experience of the other two families. The Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr, was banished to France; the Rev. JOSIAS WELSH of Templepatrick and the Rev. JOHN WELSH of Irongray were both leaders in the Presbyterian cause, the latter having a tremendous price on his head when his power was broken at Bothwell Bridge in 1679.

The WITHERSPOONS settled in Dumbo Parish, Knockbrocken some forty miles north of Belfast, near Carrickfergus and sailed for Kingstree South Carolina in 1734 while the Ervins sailed from Belfast for the same destination in 1732.

While the Bible entries could not have been made much before 1779 (due to printing date of the Bible), the last entry made in Col. Ervins handwriting was in 1796.

Since both the Witherspoon and Ervin families were living in present Williamsburg County, there were certainly older members of the Witherspoon family, Gavin for example (1712-1773), who could accurately recall and relate their family history. Col. Ervin noted that in his marriage to Jane, daughter of Gavin, that she was a descendant of John Knox. Col. Ervin certainly knew his father-in-law over a period of at least twenty years, giving substance to the statement of the Knox ancestry. Boddie relates that Gavin's father John (c1670-1737) was the Great Grandson of John Knox and Elizabeth Stewart.

American biographer Wardlow (a Witherspoon descendant) says the Witherspoon line came down through Lucy Welsh whom, he relates married a Rev. Witherspoon.

Biographer Collins feels that James Witherspoon (1691-1760) married Ann Walker who he refers to as a Knox descendant.

Certainly the Welsh family can be accurately documented for several generations starting in Dumfriesshire, Scotland starting with John Welsh (c1520-1602) "Laird of Colliston", his son the Rev. John Welsh of Ayr, his son the Rev. Josias Welsh of Templepatrick, Ireland and finally his son, the Rev. John Welsh of Irongray.

The intermarriage, (speculatively) of the Welsh family and the Walker family, takes us to the Lothians where the connection is fragmentarily documented.

Since there is no record of the children of the Rev. JOHN WELSH of Irongray (although Glimore attributes a son, which see) and there is no record of the two other sons of the Rev. JOSIAS WELSH of Templepatrick (Andrea and Josiah) we must go further back to the daughter of the Rev. JOHN WELSH of Ayr (Louise) to connect the possible Lothians connection which Rogers espouses.

Documentation of LOUISE WELSH is practically non-existent. She was twelve years old when her Mother died in 1625 and there were but a few Guardianships that seem likely. Her two maternal Aunts seem improbable. Fairlee was dead and Pont was in County Cathness in the extreme northern tip of Scotland. Her oldest brother William was born c1595/97 and was then (1625) about 28/30 years old. Whether he was married at that time is unknown, although presumably a physician and educated at Glasgow, some thirty miles north of Ayr, where her Mother died. Her brother the Rev. JOSIAS WELSH of Templepatrick married c1624 and went to Ireland with Martha, his wife, in 1626. JOSIAS was Professor of Humanities in Glasgow immediately preceding his migration to Ireland.

Since her Mothers will was probated in Glasgow it seems entirely possible that Louise went with her brother JOSIAS. Although LOUISE was not mentioned in JOSIAS will in 1634, she was then twenty one years of age and the heiress along with Josias and Nathaniel, of some four thousand Scotch Pounds, suitable for a dowry.

Rogers says of Louise Welsh- "it is probable that she married and settled in Fifeshire, becoming the Mother of that 'Gentlewoman' described as a Cousin of Mr. John Welsh, the deposed Minister at Irongray, in the Blackader Mss." (Blackaders Memoirs, in the Wodrow Mss. Advocates Library) Blackader says he was "acquainted with a young Gentlewoman in Fife, a Cousin of Mr. Welsh"

Rogers further says- "we incline strongly to hold that Louisehad married and settled in Fifeshire somewhere near Leslie. Born about 1613 Louise might have been the Mother of a daughter, up-grown in 1674 (When John Welsh of Irongray preached in Fife and Louise made a trip to hear him) and been correctly described as a Cousin of the ejected Minister at Irongray. Her sister, another Cousin of Mr. Welsh', was probably wife of one of the brothers Walker, who, it has been shown were among Mr. Welsh' conspicuous supporters."

The use of the name JOSIAS in the Mid-Lothian families of WELCH, Walker and Witherspoon, lend credence to the Rogers hypothesis since JOSIAS is not a Scotch name and in fact extremely rare there, Fifeshire, is of course just across the Firth of Forth from the Mid-Lothians which was once called Edinburghshire.

To date (1970) we have no documentation that would indicate a direct Knox-Welsh descent to the Ervins in South Carolina, except through the marriages to the Witherspools and later with the Welches. We confine our Scotland research to these two families.

In an effort to wrap-up the various claims made in an effort to substantiate the Welch-Knox ancestry , it appears to the writer that no documentation of the male lines are extant. The only possible exceptions being the unresolved children (Andrea and Josias) of the Rev. Josias Welsh of Templepatrick, Ireland.

There is much to substantiate, but not document, the descendants of Louise-Lucy-Luyse Welsh born in 1602 in Jon-sac, France, daughter of the the Rev. John Welsh of Ayr. To enumerate-

1. Boddie's statement re: John Witherspoon being a Great grandson of John Knox and Elizabeth Stewart.
2. The Ervin Bible record re: Jane Witherspoon of Gavin being a descendant of the Reformer John Knox.
3. The Ervin Bible Record re: Richard Welch of James being a descendant of the Reformer John Welsh.
4. The Walker statement calling John Knox "his worthy ancestor."
5. Blackadder Memoirs calling Lucy's children a cousin of Mr. Welsh (Rev. John of Irongray)
6. Wardlaw statement that Lucy Welsh married a Rev. Witherspoon.
7. Collins statement that Ann Walker was a Knox descendant.
8. David Hume of Haddingtonshire erected a grave-stone in Memory of Allison Welsh who died 1819 aged 82. The Vicar of Yester stating that the Hume family claim Knox descent through this lady.
9. The occurrence and reoccurrence of the name Josias in the Walker and Witherspoon families.

All of the foregoing plus many, many family histories that have been repeated through generations in the United States,

Commentary: (ECW)

Hanna in his "Scotch-Irish" pp.604 relates that the Declaration by the "Commission for Settling and Securing the Province of Ulster" signed 5.23.1653 at Carrickfergus, named some 260 persons who were "known for their attachment of Monarchical and Presbyterian principles". Among those named to be removed was-

Captain GEORGE WELSH, Six Mile Water Quarters, Co. Antrim. Six Mile Water was residence of Rev. JOSIAS WELSH (III). It is doubtful that Capt. GEORGE WELSH was a son of Rev. JOHN WELSH of Irongray as the latter was born in 1624 and his reputed son, a Captain, was "removed" as noted above in 1653.

Maxwelltown (See 1708 Deed above) lies on the Nith River opposite Dumfries and is connected by three bridges. To the northwest lies the Parish of Terreglis containing the ruins of Lincluden Abbey which is 1 1/2 miles northwest of Dumfries (Encyclo. Brittan.)

Carlisle Farm and Dwelling place at Birrens is a few miles north of Dumfries and east side of Nith River.

Commentary: Rogers statement that William Welsh "seems to be a son of the Minister at Templepatrick is open to criticism as the Will of Josias Welsh of Templepatrick is dated 1634 and names his wife Martha and sons John, Andrea and Josias.

While Rogers does not mention any sons of George Welsh (son of Thomas and Alison) who married a Maxwell, there is a Maxwell Welsh listed in the 1790 Census of Franklin County, Pa.

Note that the will of Josias of Templepatrick names an Alexander Parker, Walter Welsh married a Helen Parker and named a son Alexander Welsh.

CEMENTARY. (ECW)

The writer was in correspondance with Dr. Glimore in 1956/7 who reported he was in ill health and could add nothing to substantiate the Chart.

The Will of Rev. JOSIAS WELSH-B was lost for several generations, found and presented to the Public Record Office of N.Ireland. The will clearly names his son JOHN, ANDREW and JOSIAS and his widow Martha.

JOSIAS-B was probably married in Scotland c 1622/23 as his oldest son JOHN (Rev. John of Ironday) was born 1624. JOSIAS-B died in 1634 naming his three sons as "under perfect age" (maturity).

It would seem impossible that the oldest son JOHN-a born in 1624 and who married in 1653 Elizabeth Sommerville in Holywood in Dumfrieshire, Scotland, could have a son (Capt. GEORGE WELSH) as indicated on the Chart, as in 1653 the "Commission for Settling and Securing the Province of Ulster", named among 260 other persons who were "known for their attachment to Monarchial and Presbyterian principles" and exiled was- (by Cromwell)

Capt. GEORGE WELSH, Six Mile Water Quarters, County Antrim.

While Rev. JOSIAS WELSH-B lived at Six Mile Water while at Templepatrick, the possibility of his son being Capt. GEORGE WELSH, is negated by the will of JOSIAS-B.

We know of no documentation of the son ANDREW of NATHANIEL WELSH-C, nor the son JOSIAS attributed to Louise-D. The latter is traditionally felt to have married a Witherspoon.

MAXWELL WELSH is noted in the 1790 Census of Franklin County, Pennsylvania.

Buried in a Tomb on the North Aisle of the Old Christs Church in Philadelphia lies the body of SAMUEL WELSH. On the Tomb, well worn by footsteps of many generations, can be deciphered- (1632-1702)

Coat of Arms- Azure, six mullets or, three two and one.

Crest- Surmounting the impaled arms is evidently a double unicorn.

The impaled arms are surmounted by a Helmet and Crest surrounded by a mentling of beautiful scroll work.

Ref: Zeiber. Heraldry in America.

In researching Burke for any reference to the above Coat and Crest, the following "three, two and one" referring to "martlets" or "Mullets" appear many times in the Shires along the Severn River in Worcester, Warwick, Dorchester, Gloucester, Somerset and Berks. The Severn River has its source in Montgomeryshire in North Wales.

The figure "mullet" or "molet" is a five or six pointed star and is usually pierced to represent a rowel or spur. The "martlet" represents a bird or martin. The "fesse" is a horizontal band across the escutcheon. The term "erased" means torn from the body. "Bezant" refers to a gold disk. The colors are represented as follows- gold-or; silver-argent; black-sable; red-gules; while "gobony" means alternating colors.

In the Harleian Society Publications (Vols. XXI, XXVII) there is noted several WELCH/WELSH etc. families in the 1623 and 1569 Visitations. in Gloucestershire and Worcestershire/

Burke notes the following Coats of Arms.

WALSH. (Berkshire) Azure, six mullets or. Crest: a griffith head erased, argent.

WALSHE. (Somersetshire) Azure six mullets or, three two and one, within a bordure gobonated argent and gules. Crest: Antelopes head erased azure, attired or. On each horn a bell argent, charged on the neck with a fesse gobony argent and gules between three bezants one and two.

- WELSH. (Worcestershire) Argent a fesse between six martlets sable. Crest: Griffin shead erased argent.

One of the few WELCH/WELSH families in England, which we have recorded the Coat of Arms, was situated in Birmingham, Warwickshire. The Worcestershire families noted above, as one of the "martlet" families rather than the "mullet" families, may have been the following, as Worcestershire adjoins Warwickshire on the West and some of its early Parishes (Worcestershires) have been tranferred Ecclesiastically to the Diocese of Birmingham
